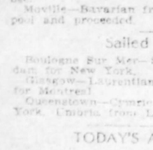
BRAZIL THREATENED WITH RETALIATION

RIO JANEIRO, BRAZIL, Nov. 8.—(Special Cable.)—According to the Correio Da Manha, the United States minister has protested against the increased import duties on flour and oil and has threatened that the United States will adopt retaliation against Brazilian coffee if the duties are maintained. There were eight new cases of bubonic plague and one death in this city yesterday. The United States cruiser Detroit arrived at Buenos Ayres yesterday.

Cleaning Raises Great Outcry.

ROME, Nov. 8.—A great outcry has been raised over the cleaning of the famous statues of "The Horse Tamers," attributed to Phidias, and now standing in front of the Quirinal palace. It is maintained that not only should the statues not be touched, but that they should be housed in a museum and reproductions raised in their places.

THE WEATHER



RAIN.

Fair and warmer today and rain and colder tomorrow is the Washington forecaster's prediction for Pittsburgh and vicinity. The sun rose clear yesterday at 6:40 and set clear at 4:50. The maximum temperature was 52 degrees and the minimum 30 degrees. The daily report for yesterday, furnished by the local weather office, follows:

NEW CONGRESS OPENS AT NOON

Extra Session Convenes to Act Upon Cuban Reciprocity Treaty.

CANNON TAKES SEAT

House Will Be the Center of Attraction at Today's Session on That Account.

MORGAN'S CUDGEL IS READY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.

At noon tomorrow the extra session of the Fifty-eighth congress opens. It has been decided by the Republican leaders that nothing shall be done during this session in the house except approve the Cuban reciprocity treaty, the object for which congress has been assembled by the president. As for the regular session the program is for the passage of the usual appropriation bills and such legislation as is absolutely necessary, and then adjourn. The tariff, the money question and other subjects upon which it was expected congress would act, are to be laid over for the present and the Republican party proposes to go before the people in the coming presidential election upon its present record. This program does not contemplate dodging or neglect of matters that are of pressing importance. Such will be attended to promptly, but the intention is to permit the people to record their verdict on present conditions before proceeding with any changes.

When the house of representatives meets tomorrow, the clerk, Maj. Alexander McDowell of Sharon, Pa., will preside and call the roll of members. He will occupy the chair until the formality of electing Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois as speaker has been observed. It is possible that the speaker will, on Monday, appoint three committees—ways and means, mileage and rules.

MAJ. ALEX. M'DOWELL, of Sharon, Pa., who will preside at the opening session of the house of representatives today. He later be re-elected clerk of the house.

Message on Tuesday.

After this has been done the house will adjourn out of respect for the three members who have died during the year. On Tuesday the president's message will be received and read, after which it will be referred to the ways and means committee, which will proceed with work upon the bill that is to make effective the tariff rates provided for in the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

There is talk of attempting to put this bill through the house within ten days and then adjourning until the date for the regular session to open, but there is little probability of accomplishing this. It may be possible for the house to dispose of the matter in two weeks, but delays will be met in the senate and the house cannot adjourn until the senate has disposed of it.

A very short session of the senate is expected on Monday. It will be called to order by President Pro Tem. Frye, and

COLOMBIA IS ASKING PEACE

Appoints Commissioner to Treat With the New Republic.

FILES A COMPLAINT

Makes Protest at Washington Against Course of United States in Isthmian Affair.

VARILLA TO BE RECOGNIZED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Panama, No. 8.—A cablegram has been received here from Gen. Reyes containing the information that he has been appointed by the government of Colombia as peace commissioner with the duty of making arrangements with the government of the republic of Panama to the end that the national honor may be saved. Everything in Panama is quiet today, but the circulation of the news of the appointment of Gen. Reyes resulted in enthusiastic celebrations not only because the general has many friends here but for the reason that his mission is looked upon as assuring the independence of the isthmian territory.

The steamships Manavi and Quito have been detained at Buena Ventura by the Colombian government.

The United States cruiser Boston was to have sailed tonight for the purpose of protecting British interests, but it is thought that the news of the appointment of Gen. Reyes may change her plans.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The United States of Colombia has lodged a protest with the state department against the action of the United States in connection with events on the isthmus of Panama. Strong objection is made to the attitude of the United States in general and against interpretations made by this government of the treaty of 1846 between the United States of America and the United States of Colombia. The state department has the protest under consideration, but the nature of its reply, if any, or the time when it will be made is not known.

U. S. S. Mayflower Sails

The president's yacht, the Mayflower, left the navy here today for Colon. Aboard her is Consul General Gudger, the United States consul general at Panama, who goes to that place to assume charge of consular affairs. The Mayflower is expected to reach there in about eight days. On his arrival at Panama Mr. Gudger will do business with the new government at Panama.

M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, whose appointment as diplomatic agent of the Panama republic was announced yesterday, and who reached here last night from New York, saw Assistant Secretary Loomis of the state department today. It is expected that the new diplomatic agent will be presented to Secretary Hay and to the president in a day or two, the state department probably accepting as satisfactory the telegraphic credentials of the new envoy and waiving the usual requirements of more formal credentials. The envoy did not see the president or Secretary Hay today.

Rear Admiral John G. Walker, president of the isthmian canal commission, was the most distinguished person who left the Washington navy yard on the U. S. S. Mayflower at 9 o'clock this morning for Colon. This means that the administration will lose no time in negotiating for and beginning the construction of the Panama canal. The president desires that Rear Admiral Walker, who will head the new canal commission, shall be on the ground ready to shape the past preliminary work to be done before the digging of the ditch is begun anew.

Quiet on the Isthmus.

COLON, Nov. 8.—Up to tonight no news has been received from Bocas Del Toro. The United States cruiser Atlanta sailed for there last night. The steam launch which was sent to Bocas Del Toro Thursday night to capture that place in the interest of the new republic has not returned. It is reported that the United

ATTORNEY IS AFRAID TO GO TO BREATHITT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

LEXINGTON, KY., Nov. 8.—A. Floyd Byrd, commonwealth attorney of Breathitt county, who gained a reputation in the prosecution of Curtis Jett and Thomas White for the Marcum murder, tonight confirmed the rumor that he has decided to remain away from Breathitt county during the term of court which begins at Jackson, Ky., tomorrow.

His action is taken upon the insistent solicitations of friends and relatives, who declare that judging from the past history of the county his life would be in constant peril there. He has not received warning of a definite plot to take his life as has been rumored.

T. P. Cole of Jackson has been temporarily appointed prosecuting attorney. There will be no indictments at the coming term of court, Mr. Byrd says, in connection with the numerous assassination cases and further investigation will be postponed for the present.

Mr. Byrd's term of office will expire January 1. He will then move to Winchester, Ky., to reside permanently, but does not expect to sever himself entirely from the mountains, in which he has been instrumental in bringing about a revolution of law and order. Only minor cases are on the docket of the Breathitt circuit court.

W. L. ELKINS' ESTATE WORTH OVER $20,000,000

Bulk of His Fortune Goes to His Widow, With Provision for Children.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Absolutely no close estimate can be made regarding the wealth of William L. Elkins, the traction magnate, but those that are best informed believe that it is considerably over $20,000,000.

As to the disposition of his vast fortune no one will give an inkling. It is said that his bequests to various charitable institutions, most of them hospitals, will aggregate $2,000,000. The bulk of the fortune, it is known, is left to his widow, during her lifetime, with a provision for a heavy income from certain securities to his son, George W. Elkins; Mrs. George B. Widener and Mrs. Sydney F. Tyler, his daughters. His niece, Miss Clabble of Pittsburgh, will, it is said, receive $100,000.

It was stated immediately after the death of Mr. Elkins that the will will not be talked about until after the funeral, which takes place on Tuesday. The funeral services will be held in the magnificent mansion at Ashbourne, in which Mr. Elkins died. The interment will be entirely private. The body will be placed in the magnificent tomb, erected in Laurel Hill cemetery some years ago.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

IT'S RUSSIA'S MOVE.

Japan Is Awaiting Her Reply to Latest Proposal from Tokyo.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 8.—It is stated officially at Tokyo that the rumor that negotiations between the Russian and Japanese governments had come to the verge of a final settlement is misleading, but that the Tokyo government is now awaiting Russia's reply, which is due at any moment, but which will only advance the question of the far eastern difficulty to another stage.

The reports of the resignation of Viceroy Alexieff, his change of headquarters from Port Arthur to Vladivostock and the dismantling of the fort at Yongampho are all believed to indicate a temporary weakening of the Russian war party, but those incidents will also further delay a final settlement.

The new tonnage dues promulgated by Viceroy Alexieff provide that non-Russians must pay 19 times the dues charged to Russian vessels.

WEDDING GUESTS ARE DINED BY MRS GOELET

Select Party of Twelve Participate in First of Marriage Functions.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—With the dinner given tonight by Mrs. Ogden Goelet to the duchess of Roxburghe and Lady Isabel Innes-Ker, mother and sister of the duke of Roxburghe, who is to marry Miss May Goelet, the first of the premarital ceremonies that are to mark this most interesting of international marriages had its beginning.

For the past two weeks the duke has been meeting at his prospective mother-in-law's the people who are to be present in St. Thomas', but the dinner that was given tonight was the climax of Mrs. Goelet's hospitality.

There will be another dinner tomorrow night at which only the bridesmaids and ushers will be present, but that will be a family affair, and will occur after the rehearsal of the wedding and will break up early. The dinner party tonight consisted of 12 persons, among whom were the duchess, Lady Innes-Ker, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Miss Martha Johnston, Bradish Johnston, Robert Goelet and Robert Walton Goelet.

In order to avoid the crowd that it is expected will try to get a peep into the church to see the rehearsal an effort has been made to keep the time a secret, but all the people interested will be at the church today shortly before 4 o'clock and go through a brief and rapid rehearsal. Then they will go in a body to Mrs. Goelet's to dinner.

At 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Bishop Doane of Albany, assisted by the Rev. E. M. Stires.

FOUR CHILDREN KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION

Were Playing With a Can That Contained Nitro-Glycerine at Lancaster, O.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

LANCASTER, O., Nov. 8.—Four children were instantly killed by an explosion of nitroglycerin at Bucks Run, Rocking county, today.

THE DEAD.

OSCAR BOHN,
CHARLES BOHN,
JULIA BOHN,
SON OF ROBERT CONRAD.

The children were playing with a can which had contained nitroglycerin, and it is supposed they struck it with a stone. The home of the Bohns was partially wrecked. The bodies of the children were terribly mutilated.

TWO BOYS ATTEMPTED TO WRECK A TRAIN

WILKESBARRE, PA., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The youngest train wreckers ever arrested are awaiting the action of the grand jury of Wyoming county. They are Ernest Carl, aged 7, and Harry Feldman, aged 8. Yesterday they tried to wreck the Lehigh Valley express to New York because they longed to see what a wrecked train looked like. They fastened several boards to the rails by wires. The crew of a train on an adjoining track saw the obstruction and removed it. Later the boys were arrested and confessed.

Bank President Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Nov. 8.—Frank W. Tracy, president of the First National bank of Springfield, and a member of the committee on uniform laws of the National Bankers' association, died at his home here today of a complication of diseases, aged 60. He was a member of the board of directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railway.

Over 2,000 Men Laid Off.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—An announcement comes from the Illinois steel works in South Chicago, that over 2,000 men had been laid off at the plant this week, making the total of discharged men in the last fortnight, 3,000 to 3,500.

PACK OF WOLVES IS HUNTED IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, MO., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—A wolf hunt almost within the heart of Kansas City was a novel sport enjoyed by a number of east side men last night. The party with three fox hounds chased a pack of wolves up and down the cliffs of North Terrace Park for three hours. They ran around the cliffs through the east side bottoms and back again. It was hard running for the hounds and they finally lost the scent just as the hunters were getting enough sport for one evening.

FATAL DUEL IS FOUGHT WITH KNIFE AND FORK

A Man With Fork Is Fatally Stabbed by Infuriated Opponent.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Locked in the dining room of their boarding house in Forth Amboy today, Stephen Gondes and Peter Shylak fought a duel that ended only when Gondes fell to the floor dying. Both men had been on unfriendly terms for some time. It is said by friends that they were in love with the same woman.

Shylak entered the dining room at noon and met his man. Locking the door, he yelled to Gondes: "I am going to kill you or you must kill me!" Then seizing a carving knife he rushed at Gondes.

Gondes was unarmed, and before he could defend himself Shylak had slashed him twice. Seeing that he had no alternative but to fight for his life, he seized a fork and met the charge of his infuriated fellow-boarder.

The men fought around the room like maniacs, overturning tables and chairs. Soon the knife proved too much for the fork and Gondes sank to the floor stabbed many times.

Stepping over him Shylak opened the door and sought to escape. On the narrow stairway he met Policeman Mashron, who, after a fierce fight, took the man to police headquarters. Several physicians were called but said they could do nothing for Gondes.

LIFELESS BODY FOUND IN ROOM

University of Maryland Student Killed and Companion Was Injured.

HAD BEEN INITIATED

Death May Have Resulted from Rough Treatment in College Fraternity.

WERE HAZED BY CLASSMATES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—The police are investigating the cause of the death of Martin Loew, 27 years old, a student in the dental department of the University of Maryland, whose lifeless body was found today in his room at his boarding house. His roommate, Ephraim Stone, 25 years of age, was lying unconscious beside the bed. Loew is from Silesia, Germany, and Stone hails from Cape Town, South Africa. Loew, it is said, has relatives in New York city. His body is at the morgue.

It is said that the men were initiated last week into the Phi Psi Chi, a college fraternity, of which many of the students at the university are members. From bruises on the bodies of the two men it would seem that they had been roughly handled, whether from the initiation or otherwise is not known. An inquest and post-mortem examination will be held by the authorities tomorrow.

Stone has been removed to the Maryland University hospital. He has regained consciousness. It is reported by the physicians, but they will permit no one to see him. He is said to be in an improved condition tonight.

Stanley B. Smith of St. Johns, N. B., president of the fraternity, was arrested tonight on the technical charge of assault. Twenty-five members of the society have been cited to appear before the coroner's jury to testify.

Late tonight Stone made a rambling statement as to the experience of himself and Loew during last night. Neither was physically able to assist the other, he said, although each thought the other was dying in great agony. He claims that the bruises on the bodies of himself and Loew are due to "hazing" by their classmates, but admits that he and Loew had been recently initiated into the Phi Psi Chi fraternity.

EDWARD'S HONOR LIST.

Nothing Startling in Long List of Honorary Rewards for Service.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—King Edward's birthday honor list is extremely uninteresting. No new peers or privy councillors have been created, but there is a long list of promotions, decorations and knighthoods for services rendered in the various public departments.

Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford has been promoted from commander of the Bath to the knight commander of the Bath. August Manns, musical director of the Crystal palace, has been made a knight. The following Canadians have been honored: Robert Bell, Toronto, director of the geological survey of Canada; Col. Pinault, deputy minister of militia, and Louis Philippe Herbert, the artist.

Dowie Holds Final Meeting in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—John Alexander Dowie held his final meeting in New York in Carnegie hall tonight, addressing a sparse audience which he characterized as "scrawney and miserable." He announced that he had established a branch of his church in New York and that in future regular Sunday meetings would be addressed by various overseers. He also declared that he had decided to return in two years at the head of a host of 10,000.

KNIFE USED ON ROYAL LARYNX

Emperor of Germany Undergoes Operation for Simple Polypus.

NO DANGER OF DEATH

Otherwise His Majesty's Health Is Excellent and He Is Able to Be About.

LUNCHES WITH VON BUELOW

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Berlin, Nov. 8.—Emperor William yesterday underwent an operation for the removal of a polypus from his larynx. The operation was performed by Prof. Moritz Schmidt and was entirely successful. The only inconvenience suffered by his majesty is that he has been enjoined not to speak until the wound caused by the operation has been healed. The bulletin announcing the result of the operation caused much astonishment, even among court officials, who had no suspicion that his majesty was suffering from any affection of the throat. The emperor appears not to have known of the growth in his larynx until a few days ago and to have suffered no discomfort from it.

Potsdam, Nov. 7.

His majesty today underwent an operation for the removal of a polypus from his larynx. The operation was performed by Prof. Moritz Schmidt, and was most successful. His majesty is only enjoined not to speak until the wound caused by the operation is healed.

VON ZENTHOLD.
SCHMIDT.
ILBERG.

The North German Gazette also published the report of Prof. Johannes Orth, the famous cancer specialist, who succeeded the late Prof. Virchow in the chair of pathological anatomy in the University of Berlin. Prof. Orth made a microscopic examination which shows that the polypus consisted of a very soft connective tissue containing very few cells. This tissue was covered all over with a scaly epithelium sharply defined from the tissue. A portion of the connective tissue cells contained fine brown pigmented granules, which evidently were the result of former slight hemorrhages. The polypus also contained a large number of thin-walled corpuscles.

"It is, therefore," says Prof. Orth, "only a question of a benign connective tissue polypus."

The Court Circular this morning made the following announcement:

"The emperor yesterday went for a walk. No guests were invited to luncheon or dinner yesterday, but Count Von Bulow, the imperial chancellor, will be the emperor's guest at luncheon today."

The emperor received Count von Bulow at noon today and afterward lunched with the empress and the count in his bedroom. Count von Bulow found the emperor as cheerful and animated as ever. The emperor wore a dressing gown instead of a coat. He took light food and did not indulge in the courses served. His general health has never been so good. He has not felt the ear affection which troubled him for years, and has quite outgrown the nervous trouble that formerly impelled him to incessant physical activity. It is stated that the emperor will continue to receive visitors on official business.

The growth in the larynx at once suggested that the emperor might be suffering from something worse than a simple polypus, but Profs. von Leyden, Ilberg, Schmidt and Orth supplement the bulletins in replying to inquiries by the most positive personal declarations that the affection was merely a "good-natured polypus," which is not likely to return or to be followed by any evil effects.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Baron von dem Bussche-Haddenhausen, the German charge, received from Chancellor von Buelow this afternoon this cablegram regarding the operation which his majesty underwent yesterday:

"Emperor operated on yesterday for polypus stimmlippen. Operation successful and health of his majesty satisfactory. Microscopic inspection showed polypus innocuous. No reason for apprehension."

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Dr. Peter J. Gilbons, a well-known throat specialist of this city, when shown the cable dispatches telling of the operation on the Kaiser tonight, said:

"A polypus is a small tumor which may occur on any mucous membrane, most frequently in the nasal cavities. In substance it is soft, mucoid and gelatinous, resembling the structure and formation of an oyster. As to its being considered innocent, no growth or sore in the throat can be regarded as such, for the most innocent growths may become of a most malignant and cancerous nature in time. This is true especially in that part of the throat where the growth was found."

ENVENOMED CANADIANS HISS STARS AND STRIPES

OTTAWA, ONT., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Feeling here in some quarters is still intense over the Alaskan boundary award. About 2,000 people saw "The Prince of Pilsen" played here tonight. At the end of the first act two large American flags were waved in the air, while there is singing and a drill. Many in the house at sight of the American flag hissed and there was some excitement until the Union Jack was also brought on the platform.

WAR SECRETARY ROOT RETURNS FROM ABROAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—"Yes, there is a possibility that troops may have to be sent to the isthmus," said Secretary of War Root, in speaking of the Panama situation, on his arrival from Europe today. "There always is a possibility; that is what the army is for; but I hardly think it will be necessary in this case." Mr. Root went abroad as one of the American commissioners on the Alaskan tribunal and returned on the steamer Celtic this morning.

ANOTHER DENIAL DUE FROM HANNA

Noticeable Increase of Sentiment for Him Shown at Washington.

HIS VICTORY A POPULAR ONE

In Recounting Ohio Campaign Senator Hanna Say Ship Subsidy, When Explained to Voters, Was Well Received. Would Like to Stump on That Issue.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.

There has been a recrudescence among certain members of the Republican party of the anti-Roosevelt disease since Senator Hanna won his remarkable victory in Ohio and Maryland and New York City went Democratic. It has become so strong that another statement from Senator Hanna stronger than the one he made several months ago will be necessary to hold it in check. The revived Hanna boom has the support of the financial interests in New York who think the president is hostile to them, and also former officeholders and others who want to see a "practical politician of the old guard" at the head of the ticket.

Senator Hanna arrived here today and was overwhelmed with congratulations on his beating Tom Johnson and Clarke, his opponent, for the senatorship. In such a genial manner he gave no sign that he was a receptive or any other candidate for the presidential nomination but he laughingly referred to his threat to throw any man who talked presidency to him out of the sixth story window as a still holding good. Senator Hanna has this to say about the result in Ohio:

"I have no complaint to make. We are still on top in Ohio. But there is one thing I would like to say. That is that bringing forward by the Democrats of a dead issue and breathing the breath of life into it, the ship subsidy bill, as an argument increased the Republican majority in Ohio.

"My supposed opponent in Ohio, Mr. Clarke, attacked me for supporting the ship subsidy. He said I was an honest man personally, who paid his debts, but he accused me of favoring a bill which was a steal. He endeavored to desecrate that bill, and showed that he knew nothing about it. I took occasion one day to make a speech of half an hour telling just what that bill proposed. It took better than anything any of our speakers said on the stump. From that time on, I met the issue squarely, and told the voters in plain terms what the shipping bill would do. I found that was the thing they wanted to hear about. The result was that when the votes were counted I could tell just where that issue had slaughtered my opponent."

"Will the ship subsidy bill be introduced in this congress?" he was asked.

"I do not expect it will be, but I am very eager to stump the country on the subsidy and explain to all the people what it will do."

The most important news in connection with the revival of the Hanna boom reached Washington this evening. It is that one of the states which is in the habit of instructing its national delegates five months in advance of the convention is ready to declare for Mr. Hanna for the presidential nomination. This southern state and this action will be taken unless the Ohio senator enters emphatic protest. Alabama, which has 18 votes in the convention, is said to be ready to "follow suit."

SENATORS CONFER.

Hanna Will Visit President Roosevelt Today and Discuss Political Matters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Senator Hanna this evening had a long conference with the other leaders of the senate, including Senators Aldrich, Allison, Spooner, Lodge, Platt, Connecticut and Postmaster General Payne. They approved the president's course in recognizing the new republic of Panama.

Senator Hanna was asked if he would consent to be a candidate for Chairman in the presidential campaign, but he declined to discuss the matter. He has not seen the president since his return but will call at the White House tomorrow, when a strong effort will be made to get him to agree to take the leadership of the campaign and to make the announcement of his decision.

Trainload of Humanity Narrowly Escape Plunge to Death at Drawbridge.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—With a crash that threw more than 200 passengers into a panic, a New York Central passenger train dashed through Seneca canal bridge draw at Cayuga, N. Y., today, imperiling the life of every person on the various cars.

While women and men shrieked, the engineer, John Huck of Rochester, applied the brakes just in time to leave the forward coach half hanging over the canal. He was too late to save the engine and it dropped into the water, the engineer and fireman leaping from the cab as it left the rails. Huck was seriously injured and Conductor Gross of Rochester was cut by flying glass.

GENERAL STRIKE IN COLORADO COAL FIELDS

DENVER, COL., Nov. 8.—A general strike in the Northern Colorado coal field was declared tonight. In all about 1,275 men are idle or will be tomorrow morning. The action of the miners of the Northern field was a surprise to the operators. After the conferences held in this city, in which practically every demand except the eight-hour day was granted to the men, they determined to strike.

Dedication of Liederkranz Hall.

The new building of the Beltzhoover Liederkranz, in Knoxville, Twelfth avenue ward, will be dedicated on Thursday, November 26. All German singing and turn societies, in this vicinity are expected to participate in the parade which will precede the formal dedication. The building is 62 frame and will cost, when completed, $16,000.

Railroad Declares Dividend.

The Pennsylvania & Lake Erie Railroad Company will pay by check December 1 a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent to holders of preferred stock.

PIUS X. GIVES AUDIENCE TO MULTITUDE IN SAN DAMASO

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, Nov. 8.—Pope Pius X. this afternoon held another of the receptions inaugurated by him this autumn that the people of Rome might have his blessing. At an early hour the large court of San Damaso was so full that not another person could be squeezed in. It is believed that there were about 20,000 persons in the court and many were turned away, while Raphael's Loggia around the court was full to overflowing.

The appearance of the pope was made amidst great pomp. Preceded by guards and surrounded by the prelates of the court, he took up his position on the throne under the clock facing the entrance. As he came in a tremor of emotion was quite perceptible in the vast crowd, the present generation being unaccustomed to any public view of a pope. His holiness was visibly touched and his eyes filled with tears. After a brief silence there were loud cries of "Long live Pius." Then a chorus of clear-voiced girls sang a hymn to the pope which was of indescribable sweetness. As soon as this hymn was finished another was begun by a chorus of boy students, including pupils from the American college, led by Vice Rector Murphy of New York.

The pope spoke for 15 minutes on the gospel of the day and was clearly heard by all. His concluding words were:

"Times are evil, but the evil can be cured by prayer."

His holiness imparted the apostolic benediction to the great gathering. Several persons were then permitted to kiss his hand, including Booth Tarkington, the novelist, and Mrs. Tarkington and Mr. and Mrs. Abel of Baltimore.

COLOMBIA IS ASKING FOR PEACE

States gunboat Nashville has gone to Cartagena.

Wild rumors are in circulation here that the American and other foreign residents of Bogota are being massacred. The rumors are not confirmed and are looked upon as altogether improbable.

Colon last night gave itself up entirely to popular demonstration. Bands of music paraded the streets until early this morning, playing national and American airs, stopping in front of the residences of Col. Shaler, Gov. Mendez and others. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed and there was not the slightest disorder. The stars and stripes are displayed everywhere, and caused unceasing enthusiasm.

Porto Bello In Line.

Further enthusiasm has been caused by the attitude of Porto Bello, which sent news here today denying the reports that Colombian soldiers were in possession of the city and that the citizens had announced their loyalty to Colombia. The message was brought here in a launch and stated that the citizens of Porto Bello were enthusiastic in their support of the republic of Panama and would spend their last blood in its defense.

The American marines have been withdrawn to their ships. Business has been resumed, and the city presents the appearance of a holiday occasion. There appears to be absolutely no fear or even thought of the possible action of Colombia in the minds of the people since the news from Washington was received. Everyone seems to have the most absolute confidence in the intentions and invincible power of the Washington authorities to protect them from any other nation whatsoever, and, secure in this belief, they impress one merely with their gladness.

Many Colombians who refused to recognize the new republic have been arrested. Nothing seems to be known yet of the whereabouts of the Colombian gunboat Bogota, which made an impotent attack upon Panama last week, or of the movements of any Colombian forces. These matters cause only slight interest, the news from Panama of the arrival of United States warships and the approach of many more occupying the minds of the people to the exclusion of everything else.

ROME, Nov. 8.—The formation of the new Republic of Panama and its recognition by the United States is looked upon with satisfaction all over Italy. Old disputes between Italy and Colombia have never been settled, as the latter always succeeded in eluding its obligations. The sentiment common on occasion President Cleveland was called upon to act as arbitrator in these disputes and he gave a verdict entirely favorable to Italy. The Colombian government and the Colombian congress, however, refused to accept the decision on the ground that President Cleveland had evidently been ill advised. Italy has therefore hastened to recognize the new republic in the hope of contributing to the establishment of order in Central America and of hastening the building of the Panama canal.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—While satisfaction is expressed here over the appointment of M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla as diplomatic agent of the republic of Panama at Washington attention is called to the fact that it is probably unprecedented for a French citizen to be selected to represent a foreign government without first consulting the government to which the appointee owes his allegiance or without that government being asked whether in the event of his accepting the agency he would not thereby forfeit his French nationality.

The Gaulois suggests that M. Bunau-Varilla might obtain from the French government special permission to act for the Republic of Panama. Such permission has occasionally been granted to Frenchmen serving temporarily in foreign armies.

Mexico Is Waiting.

CITY OF MEXICO, MEXICO, Nov. 8.—Government officials refuse absolutely to be quoted on the Panama affair. From reliable sources, however, it can be stated that the government is not pleased with the prospect of the United States gaining a foothold south of Mexico. Colombia is blamed for not accepting the canal treaty and it is believed here that the United States has called Bogota's bluff. In case the new republic is firmly established, it is stated that Mexico will accept the situation without comment.

VALPARAISO, CHILI, Nov. 8.—(Special Cable.)—The government is waiting for a full report of the Panama affair before deciding its attitude toward the new republic. The Chilian consul at Panama has been asked to send complete details of the revolution. The newspapers and general public regard with little interest internal affairs, although there is a certain amount of indignation felt against the United States, which, it is alleged, played a part of the villain in the Panama plot.

MINISTER OF PANAMA WILL BE RECOGNIZED

M. Bunau-Varilla Makes Statement of Conditions as He Views Them.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla will be received by Secretary Hay tomorrow morning and duly recognized as the minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary of the new republic of Panama to the United States. After the presentation a long conference will take place at which plans for the opening of immediate negotiations for a canal treaty between the two governments will be discussed. The secretary has invited the new minister to luncheon tomorrow and the conference will be resumed at that time.

Secretary Hay and Minister Varilla already have gone over in considerable detail the necessary steps toward the conclusion of a new treaty which, while following to some extent the Hay-Herran treaty, in many ways will be simpler. As regards the financial conditions the Washington government does not desire any change, but the provisions of the new treaty regarding sovereignty over the canal strip and the extent of the United States' control will be less complicated and more positive in statement than is true of the Hay-Herran Colombian convention.

Minister Varilla talked tonight at his hotel, where he has temporarily established his legation, of his mission at Washington.

"As to my plans," he said, "it is perhaps a little premature for me to speak. I shall call at the state department tomorrow and it will depend largely on my conference with the officials there how rapidly canal negotiations can proceed. We wish to go ahead as soon as possible and to show that we shall not tolerate the delay and procrastination with which the Colombian canal negotiations dragged along to their final failure. It is my desire and that of the people of Panama that unnecessary red tape and formality, so far as dignity will permit, shall be waived and that we conclude and sign a treaty with the Washington government at the earliest day possible.

"To the Isthmian republic the canal is the corner stone of its future existence. To the United States its constructing is the great achievement on which the whole world waits. Therefore, for the general good, delay in this matter cannot be permitted.

"I consider that the republic of Panama today is fulfilling all the duties of a regular government. I am ready to begin negotiations tomorrow with the Washington government, which already has extended us practical recognition. I should say from the present outlook the conclusion of a satisfactory treaty need be a matter of but a short time, as both want the canal. Why should we wait? We are both of good faith and can take up the subject in sincerity and with a common desire to arrive at immediate and practical results."

The minister at this point reiterated strongly his declaration of yesterday, that he was in no way connected with the Panama Canal company.

"How soon do you expect to be recognized by the other powers?" the minister was asked.

"Very shortly," was the reply. "France has already indicated unofficially her willingness to follow the lead of the United States, thereby showing her appreciation of the Washington government's high motives which inspired the prompt action of the United States in promptly recognizing my government and offering her protection against foreign foes.

"The two tri-color flags will be once more associated with the American enterprise which France has begun and which the United States will finish.

"In notifying him of my appointment as minister I expressed to Secretary Hay the warm gratitude of the Panamanians and people of Panama. I do not fear that the South American republics will be hurt by the recent events. The good sense of the Latin Americans will cause them to literally approve and endorse an eminently correct and proper the entire course of the Washington government regarding the events of the past week on the Isthmus. So far from being a land-grabber, the United States will entirely respect and maintain the independence of my government."

MRS. SAGE EULOGIZES MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Tributes to the memory of the late Mrs. Emma Booth-Tucker were paid by Mrs. Russell Sage today at a men's mass meeting under the auspices of the West Side Young Men's Christian association in the Majestic theater. She said in part:

"A dear, loving, tender friend has gone. Today we come to give thanks for that beautiful life which was given to save the lost and to help the needy and suffering. A short time ago she was here with us; a week ago she became a shadow. The world has lost a great and good woman; I have lost a personal friend.

"Some time ago she came to me and, telling me that I did not get enough of outdoor air, asked me to come to her home in the country, where I could breathe the pure ozone that filled her home with her family. She wanted me to know her as a mother and see her children.

"I gladly consented, and we had planned for me to make the visit, when she was called away. I shall never carry out that plan. She is gone, but why weep for her? Her eyes look beyond all tears. God has indeed opened heaven to us through her.

"St. John, in his beautiful vision of the wedding feast, when he wanted to fall down and worship the angel, was told, 'Worship me not, worship God and serve Him.' We know that she worshiped God and served Him, and through her life here she has brought to us a new life, and though she has passed away her spirit is still with us and her loved ones. Now, dear friends, my message is a grand service open. Walk in God, Lord the Saviour and walk as she did, and the time will come when you go to be with her."

New Belgian Tariff Bill.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 8.—A bill modifying the Belgian tariff laws will soon be introduced in parliament. It will propose increased duties on wines, fruits and aluminum ware.

CHILD STUMBLES OVER A SUICIDE

Benjamin Buchanan Takes Carbolic Acid in Fourth Avenue Hallway.

DROP FROM LOFT COSTS LIFE

Teamster Is Alleged to Have Met With Foul Play in Rea's Stables—Watchman Says Victim Was Drunk and Fell Asleep—Harry McGregor Run Over.

While leaving her home for Sunday school yesterday morning little Eva Kirchliger, who lives with her aunt, Mrs. J. D. Smalley, a janitress, at No. 444 Fourth avenue, stumbled over the body of an apparently dead man lying in the darkened hall of the house. A policeman was notified and the man taken to Central station, where an examination by Surgeon McCandless proved that he had taken a dose of carbolic acid. He was removed to the Homeopathic hospital, where he died a half hour afterward.

The name of the suicide was learned to be Benjamin K. Buchanan, who resided somewhere in the Eleventh ward, as a tax receipt found in his pocket indicated. A letter also found on his person was from James Buchanan of Fair Haven, where the dead man's mother resides.

After a sleep in the hay mow of Rea & Co.'s stables at No. 617 Second avenue, Charles Ennis, a driver for Swift & Co., some time Saturday night in attempting to descend lost his balance and fell to the ground, breaking his neck. He was found dead at 5 o'clock yesterday by a teamster. Ennis was seen about the stables Saturday in an intoxicated condition, and it is presumed that he stole into the place to pass the night. He was 50 years of age and lived at No. 607 Sixth avenue. His home is in Cincinnati.

There was a rumor yesterday that Ennis had been murdered. The stable boss or watchman, however, denied this. It was said that Ennis entered the loft with several companions, one of whom knocked him down the ladder.

Harry McGregor, aged 22 years, of Versailles, an employe of the Mesta Machine Company, was run over and instantly killed by a Baltimore & Ohio freight train Saturday night near his home. McGregor was at the station when some of his friends asked him to go to the telegraph tower half mile away. They jumped on passing cars and McGregor alighted he fell under the wheels.

The coroner was informed yesterday that the man killed by a train on Dickson street, Homestead, Saturday night, was J. M. Murray, 24 years of age and unmarried, of Homestead.

Says New York Will Be Hell on Earth Again for Two Long Years.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—In his morning sermon in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church today Dr. Parkhurst painted a weird and fearsome picture of what the nation's metropolis is going to be like during the next two years.

Dr. Parkhurst's sympathies with the Fusionists in the last campaign being well known, there was an exchange of glances on the part of the congregation when the choir sang "Sound The Loud Timbrel."

The clergyman hurriedly took up the matter. He said that the musical program had been arranged before the result of the election was known, and added:

"If any of you think that it was malapropos, it was because you imagined that not only the Fusionists but the Almighty had been whipped. From '97 to 1901 the very mire that filled that pit so full rolled us upon the grass again. Now we are only seven weeks from the edge of another pit. With the first of January will commence two more years of hell on earth."

Subdued laughter was heard.

"How can you laugh?" demanded the clergyman. "People are going to have all the gambling, all the whisky they want—and they want a great deal. But before two years are gone there is a moral deadness here that is deader than I believe it to be, the eloquence of wide-open crime and liquor-sodden wretchedness will begin to tell; and while the moral enthusiasm of the last campaign was mostly manufactured and superficial enthusiasm, we will win again amid enthusiasm incited by the devil's own promise ministrations."

MARK TWAIN SETTLES IN FLORENTINE PALACE

FLORENCE, ITALY, Nov. 8.—Samuel L. Clemens and his family, accompanied by George Gregory Smith, have arrived here and taken possession of the villa Quarto, three miles distant from the city. The villa formerly was the property of a Russian grand duchess and was afterward occupied by the king of Würtemberg. It is now owned by Count Reybaud Masseglia, Italian minister to Persia, who was formerly consul at Philadelphia, where he married Miss Paxton.

State Company Organized.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—O. W. Kennedy, general manager for the H. C. Frick Coke Company; S. M. Graham and C. F. Kefover, Uniontown, Dr. J. Gordon, Bellevernon, and G. S. Geron, Martinsburg, W. Va., are the directors in a new company called the Superior Slate Company, capitalized at $125,000, which is beginning operations. It has 30 acres of slate near Martinsburg, W. Va., on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and will at once begin the quarrying of the mine and the shipping of slate.

Revival Services in North Braddock.

Union revival services will commence this evening in the North Braddock United Brethren church, of which the Rev. A. B. Wilson is pastor. Three other congregations will take part, the First Methodist Protestant, the First Congregational and the Second Methodist, all of Braddock. The four pastors will conduct services every evening for the next four weeks. There will be a union prayer service every Wednesday evening and a rally every Sunday afternoon. The services will be held in each church a week.

New Design for Cars.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The Standard steel car works of this city is manufacturing a new style of gondola car for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. The new car is known as the Mantoin drop car. It has in England two doors on its bottom and they are attached to the sides and operated by ratchets at the ends of the car, instead of dropping from the center, as they do in old style cars. One thousand are being built.

Another Death from Smallpox.

Daniel Steele, aged 59 years, of No. 5167 Butler street, died yesterday at the municipal hospital of smallpox. He had been ill only a few days. Two new cases of smallpox were reported in Pittsburgh yesterday—William Parks of No. 1612 Merriman alley, and Mamie Wallace or Wylie avenue and Francis street.

Three Brothers in a Fight.

Phillip, Owen and Patrick Brady, brothers, were arrested at 8:30 yesterday morning at the Saturn No. 2, Hazelton mines. Force was fought by the three before they could be subdued.

Discriminating Readers Get The Sunday Gazette Always

The people of this section are pretty wise, as is shown daily in many ways, notably in last Tuesday's election. This fact is further demonstrated by the large and constantly increasing number that take The Sunday Gazette. The people appreciate getting the news when it is news and recognize when it is given to them in the most interesting style. New features are constantly being added to The Sunday Gazette, and each succeeding issue is better than the preceding one.

The 76 pages and seven sections of Pittsburgh's leading paper yesterday were as compact and as full of information and interesting and instructive matter as was a registry list in the last election full of voters' names. Unlike some of the registry lists, however, there was no padding in The Sunday Gazette. Readers of The Sunday Gazette do not need to "blow off the froth" to get down to what they want, and then take the risk of being disappointed. By careful culling by persons who know their business the "foam" is removed where necessary before anything gets into print, so that when The Sunday Gazette emerges from the large perfecting presses it is as perfect as it can be made.

The most exacting could not have found fault with The Sunday Gazette yesterday, no matter of what taste, in addition to the news of all the world and all the departments of a well-edited newspaper, some of the special features of The Sunday Gazette were:

"A Visit to the New Planet Pittsburghus," "The Hill District a Cosmopolitan Center," "What a Coalboat Stage Means to Rivermen," "Preparing for Next Year's Garden," "Clyde Fitch's Cosy Quiet Corner," "The Girl Who Served Time Without Showing It," "Switzerland's Political Life," "Finest Motor Car Ever Built," "The Duke of Acres in Town," "How to Cure a Jealous Man," "Discussion as to Whether Domestics Should Have Diplomas," the great editorial section, "History of the Carnegie Steel Company," the colored comic section, containing the work of the world's best cartoonists, the Sunday home journal section, with words and music of "Coquetry," and everything of interest to women, besides many other high-class articles.

NEW CONGRESS OPENS AT HIGH NOON TODAY

it is possible that Senator Morgan may take advantage of the early opportunity to introduce his resolution calling for information regarding the Panama canal treaty and the recognition of the new republic of Panama. If he does not introduce this resolution on Monday he will do so on Tuesday or early in the week.

Morgan Will Be Heard.

Senator Morgan may occupy the time during the absence of the committee that will be appointed to notify the president that the senate is in session by making a few remarks on the subject of the Panama canal. But the adjournment will soon be taken until Tuesday when the president's message will be read. From that time on the senate may transact minor business while waiting for the house to pass the bill approving the Cuban treaty.

The house will be the chief attraction tomorrow and there will be crowded galleries to see "Uncle Joe" Cannon sworn in as speaker. The house galleries will seat about 575 people and nearly 800 tickets have been issued, so that it is easy to be seen that somebody will have to stand and others will not get in.

Representative George Shiras III. arrived here last evening and is stopping at the Arlington. He is the last of the three new Pittsburgh congressmen to arrive, and all of them will be present at roll call on Monday. Whether any of them will draw prizes in the way of desirable committee assignments remains to be seen. So far as known neither Mr. Porter, Mr. Brown nor Mr. Shiras have asked for any particular committee, but it is probable that Speaker Cannon will give Pittsburgh a fair deal in this matter.

Senator Penrose Arrives.

Senator Penrose arrived here this evening and has his former quarters at the New Willard. His headquarters at the capitol will be moved early in the week from the immigration committee room to the room of the committee on postoffices and post roads, of which he is now the head. Senator Quay is expected on Tuesday from the southwest, where he has been on a hunting trip. It was reported that Senator Quay went to New Mexico and Arizona to hunt for facts bearing upon the statehood proposition but while he was doing this he also took a few shots at jack rabbits and other game.

L. W. STRAYER.

ROLLED 200 FEET AND FELL DOWN 30

Wonderful Escape from Death of a Serb With a Hard Skull but a Weak Head.

Milos Winovich had a remarkable escape from death last evening. After drinking quantities of beer enough to make him unsteady, he rolled nearly a block over and over and then took a drop of 30 feet. He is in the South Seventh street police station, nothing ailing him but some loss of blood and a four-inch gash in his scalp. The charge against him is drunkenness.

Winovich is a Serb. With some Servian compatriots he spent yesterday afternoon drinking beer in houses on the hillside above the head of South Thirtieth street, and when he started home down the hill at 6 o'clock he was staggering. Losing his footing, he rolled about 200 feet down the hillside and then plunged over the 30-foot cliff near the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad tracks to the ground below. He struck the back of his head.

The blow was severe, and another Serb who happened by just afterward heard Winovich, on his face, silhouetting about the inordinate number of stars in the sky. A policeman was called, and when he looked at Winovich's head and with the eye measured the height of his fall, he said it was no wonder the man was alive. Winovich was first taken to the hospital, where his wound was dressed, and he was then removed to the police station.

Old Man Fell Off a Car.

Henry Lease 60 years old, of Ford City, fell off a street car, at Penn avenue and Sixth street, yesterday, and cut his head badly. He was taken to the Homeopathic hospital.

SHOT BY COMPANION AND IS EXPECTED TO DIE

Lawrenceville Young Man the Victim of Hunting Accident—Wounded Man Was Driven Long Distance for a Doctor.

George A. Hofmeister, a well-known young man of Lawrenceville and a former employe of the Pittsburgh fire department, is the victim of a hunting accident that will probably cost him his life. Hofmeister lives at No. 216 Forty-second street. Friday night, accompanied by William Criswell of Allegheny, he went to Hites station, on the West Penn railroad, on a hunting trip. Hofmeister and Criswell were joined there by two young men of that place, Charles Brown and John Haslett.

The four young men hired a rig and drove to Bullet's run, about seven miles from Hites station. Saturday morning they started out to hunt. Brown was loading his shotgun and it was accidentally discharged. Hofmeister was standing at Brown's side, with his hand in his pocket watching Brown load the gun. He received the full charge in his right leg, near the hip. His leg was almost torn off and his hand was shattered.

Hofmeister's companions hurriedly placed him in the buggy, drove rapidly to Hites station, where Dr. Davis dressed the injuries as well as he could. He was then put on board a train and brought to Pittsburgh.

An ambulance met the train and conveyed Hofmeister to St. Francis hospital, Forty-fourth street. He was wounded about 10 o'clock Saturday morning and was received at the hospital about 4 o'clock that afternoon. Hofmeister is 24 years of age and is employed as storekeeper at the Keystone branch of the American Bridge Company at Fifty-first street. He is married and has three children. Tom Brown, who did the shooting, is 18 years old.

GOV. PENNYPACKER IS AT CHATTANOOGA

Pennsylvanians Will Dedicate Monument to Heroes of This State.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Nov. 8.—Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker of Pennsylvania, accompanied by the members of his staff, members of the state legislature and 200 veterans, arrived here tonight to dedicate the monument to the Seventy-third Pennsylvania tomorrow. The monument will be presented to the Chickamauga National park commission in an address by Gov. Pennypacker, and the speech of acceptance will be made by Gen. H. V. Boynton, chairman of the commission. There will be a number of other addresses.

The Seventy-third Pennsylvania monument is a handsome shaft 13 feet in height and occupies a prominent position at the foot of Missionary Ridge. With the Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania regiment it participated in the storming of Missionary Ridge on November 25, 1863, in which Gen. Pragg was routed and sent into Georgia. In this battle Col. Joseph B. Taft, who commanded the regiment, was killed. The other officers of the regiment were Capt. Daniel F. Kelly and Lieut. Samuel D. Miller.

The monument is built of Barre granite, is eight feet square at the base and has the figure of a crescent on the summit. Engraved on two sides also are crescents and on the other two sides are two stars. On the north side of the monument is a bronze tablet containing the coat of arms of the state of Pennsylvania, and just below it is the following inscription: "The Seventy-third Pennsylvania Infantry was in the Forty-fifth Pennsylvania Legion, was recruited in Pennsylvania, organized August 3, 1861, entered the service September 19, 1861, and was attached to the Army of the Potomac. After participating in the battle of Gettysburg it was ordered to Chattanooga, September, 1863. On November 25, 1863, assisted in the storming of these hills, then moved to this position. Losses in killed and wounded and captured 181. January, 1865, re-enlisted as a veteran regiment, and joined the Second brigade, Second division, Twentieth army corps. From Raleigh, N. C., it marched to Alexandria, Va., when on the 14th of July it was mustered out of service."

FRANK P. SARGENT IS ATTACKED BY PARALYSIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Hon. Frank P. Sargent, the commissioner of immigration, suffered an attack of paralysis of the left side yesterday and for a time his condition gave his family considerable concern. He was better today, however, and because of his splendid physique, Mr. Sargent's physician hopes for a speedy recovery.

Highwaymen Held Up Brakeman.

Henry Booth, a brakeman on the Panhandle railroad, was held up and robbed by two men in the Carnegie yards about 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The highwaymen secured about $4. Booth was about to board a train when the men jumped upon him, grasping him by the throat, while another went through his pockets. Upon securing the money the men separated and in spite of the efforts of several brakemen, escaped from the yards.

New Delegates Admitted.

The United Labor league last night admitted delegates from the Carriage and Wagonmakers' union, the Harness makers' union and the Order of Railway Conductors. Resolutions on the death of Thomas Mitchell, the representative of Painters and Decorators' union, No. 2 were adopted. It was reported that all the bricklayers employed on the large building downtown had struck. The trouble arose over the employment of plumbers who are not members of the recognized union.

Thirty-six Lives Saved at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The steamer Charles Nelson, bound here from Astoria with a cargo of lumber, has been abandoned off Cocoa Head. The 36 passengers and crew were picked up by the tug Sea Rover. The crew and passengers were in two boats 36 hours. The Charles Nelson being waterlogged was the cause of her being abandoned.

EMPEROR CANNOT PLACATE GUELPHS

Recent Speech of Count Hans Von Hammerstein Brings Down Hornet's Nest.

HE IS BITTERLY UPBRAIDED

Southern Part of German Empire Hates Prussians Cordially and Are None Too Loyal—Would Probably Welcome Disintegration of Empire.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—It is a good many years since the Guelphs have been as active and as bitter against the Hohenzollerns as during the last month, and this activity is due to the changed policy of the kaiser, who, having failed in placating the Guelphs, has evidently decided in wiping the party out of existence, no matter at what cost.

The recent speech of the minister of the interior, Count Hans von Hammerstein, in which he denounced the Guelphs as little better than traitors to the empire, has aroused a storm of protest and indignation and revealed a Guelphish strength which no one had suspected. The erection of a Bismarck monument at Hanover has caused the hatred against the Prussians to show itself undisguised, and what is more serious, has clearly shown that in the entire southern part of the empire there is no more love for the Hohenzollerns and the Prussians than in 1866.

Should the empire be implicated and defeated in a war with Russia and France, there would evidently be little sorrow in the southern part of Germany and a split might result which would destroy all Bismarck's work and wipe out the present empire.

At present the whole press of the Guelphs is bitterly attacking Count von Hammerstein, who in turn is called a traitor to the cause of the Guelphs and reminded of the fact that his father, former prime minister of Hanover, was an enthusiastic Guelph, and to his death in 1890 hated the Prussians with a hatred so intense that he is said to have cursed them and the house of Hohenzollern on his deathbed.

ALL ESCAPED FROM FIRE.

Elm Street Woman Discovered Blaze While Putting Children to Bed.

A two-story frame house occupied by the family of Louis Kaufman, at No. 138 Elm street, was discovered to be on fire about 11 o'clock last night. An alarm was sent in from box No. 151.

Mrs. Kaufman discovered the fire in the attic when she went there to put two of her children to bed. She alarmed her husband and the family escaped, but some of their goods were destroyed. The roof, attic and rear wall were badly damaged, entailing a loss of about $400. The fire originated from a broken gas pipe attached to a small stove.

WHITE MAN LYNCHED BY ARKANSAS MOB

BRINKLEY, ARK., Nov. 8.—At an early hour this morning Z. C. Cadle, a white man, was lynched by a mob of 15 persons. Cadle, in an altercation, had stabbed Policeman J. C. Cox, who died shortly afterward. About 2 o'clock this morning a mob secured entrance to the jail and taking Cadle out, shot him four times and hanged him to a telephone pole. The coroner's jury today rendered a verdict that Cadle came to his death from lynching by parties unknown.

WOMAN DRANK TOO MUCH AND NOW SHE MAY DIE

A woman, said to be Mary Scanlon, was found unconscious from liquor last night in the rear of the city stables, in Tunnel street. It is not known where she lives. She was sent to Central station from where Police Surgeon McCandless had her removed to the Homeopathic hospital. There was very little life left in her and the doctors at the hospital hurried her into a ward and began at once to revive her. They were in doubt as to her recovery. The woman is about 35 years old.

GETTING LISTS READY FOR HAYS

Mayor Will Be Asked to Do Much Ripping When He Returns to His Desk.

ARE AFTER THE OLD MEN

Citizens Are Especially Anxious to Secure the Removal of the Employes Who Were Re-Instated — Alderman McGarry Candidate for Re-Election.

There will be a free use of the knife-blade set by the police and fire bureau officials of the Bigelow machine act of the opinion that there were many traitors among those city employes. In some instances the bosses have evidence, but in most instances it is largely a matter of suspicion.

Suspicion rests upon most of the men who held office under the Republicans and succeeded in securing a reinstatement from the Citizens. In the police bureau there were 109 old men retained and the bosses charge that 90 per cent either worked for the Republican ticket or did nothing against it. The percentage of old men in the fire bureau is greater than in the police bureau.

The Citizens workers in every ward have a hammer out for the old men. They figure that the defeat of Tuesday gives sufficient excuse to secure the removal of the majority of employes who were reinstated by Mayor W. B. Hays. Lists are being prepared and when the mayor gets back to his desk he will find the workers clamoring for the free use of the ax.

After Malone and Johns.

There were some Citizens in public office that failed to make good in their districts last Tuesday. This will give an excuse for their removal to make room for men who can deliver more votes. Hays has announced that he believes it is necessary to make a number of changes.

Thomas Malone, assistant superintendent of police, will probably have some trouble retaining his position. There is a report out that he is marked for slaughter. His district in the Eighth ward was carried by the Republicans. Some of the enemies think that this is ground to demand his removal. They do not take into consideration that the votes might have had some very pronounced views about the Citizens party generally. Over on the South Side there is a district which gave Hays a majority of 50. Since then 17 residents have been put on the payroll. Tuesday the Republicans had a majority of 20.

Dave Johns may have some trouble holding the chief clerkship of the department of public safety. When the Citizens made a deal with Recorder J. O. Brown in favor of Hays some of the stipulations was that Johns was to be taken care of by the new administration. It was not a popular bargain as viewed by the rank and file of the Citizens party. Now that there is to be a fresh job of rigging, leaders are advocating that Johns be led to the block.

McGarry a Candidate.

The Citizens thought that Alderman D. J. McGarry of the Twenty-sixth ward would not be a candidate for re-election. They have another guess. He has announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket and will be elected in February. Clarence J. Bleicher, a brother of John A. Bleicher, who was ousted from the Twenty-first by the Bigelow machine, has been mentioned as a probable fusion candidate.

The Sixth Ward Independent Political club has been organized with a membership of 150. The object of the organization is to advance the political interests of the Jewish voter. The first meeting was held at No. 1108 Fifth avenue last night. There were many prominent professional and business men present. The club expects to have a collection of 500 members within a couple of weeks. It will take part in the councilmanic election.

The temporary officers of the club are: Fred Rosenbaum, president; M. Rosenbaum, vice president; S. Goldman, secretary; L. Gordon, Jr., treasurer; S. Vlisokolsky, S. H. Switz, S. Cummings, S. Wolfson and L. Sid, agitating committee.

TWO HUNDRED MEN WILL PLAY FUNERAL MARCHES

Great Band Will Attend Interment of Prof. Weis and His Wife.

Nearly 200 musicians will play dirges at the funeral of Balthasar Weis and his wife of No. 6128 Penn avenue this morning. Mr. Weis, who for a number of years led the Great Western band, and an artist with the cornet, his favorite instrument, is expected to have the largest funeral that has taken place in Pittsburgh for a long time. He had a wide musical acquaintance, extending all over the country.

The funeral will be held at the SS. Peter and Paul's church, and interment will be in the St. Mary's cemetery.

The great Western band, which was organized over 40 years ago, gained its popularity under the direction of Prof. Weis. Paul Markwort, the cello player at the Bijou, will lead the band at the funeral this morning. Mr. Markwort was a member of the Great Western band and tells an interesting story regarding Mr. Weis.

During the exposition in 1883 the band was filling an engagement when the building was burned down. In the fire was Prof. Weis' cornet. The cornet was very valuable, but Prof. Weis valued the mouthpiece more than the instrument.

"I do not care so much for the loss of the instrument, but I regret losing the mouth piece," said Prof. Weis while the building was burning.

After the fire Prof. Weis was rummaging through the debris when he found his mouthpiece undamaged. He presented it to Mr. Markwort, who will use it this morning.

An interesting story is told about the Great Western band at the time of the second inauguration of President Grant. The day was exceptionally cold and every instrument in the parade was frozen, so that the musicians could not use them. When nearing the White House, realizing the conditions, Prof. Weis took his band out of the parade and into a dwelling house. Here was a log fire burning briskly. The members thawed out their instruments and then re-entered the parade. They started to play and kept playing until the White House was reached. Grant stepped from the White House steps and congratulated Prof. Weis for being the only band that played in front of the executive mansion.

MUCH VACCINATION DONE IN ALLEGHENY

Bacteriologist R. G. Burns of Allegheny and the corps of 12 physicians under him were successful in a systematic method of vaccination on the North side, working in connection with Dr. Hunt Bailey of the state board of health. Dr. Bailey, who is in the First ward Saturday night, says the four days' campaign in the North side vaccinated 4,000 persons. They will begin work probably in the Fourth or Fifth ward today.

Royal Arcanum in Minstrel Show.

The Ohio Valley council, Royal Arcanum, is planning a minstrel show which will be held in Masonic hall, Bellevue, on December 10 and 11. The affair will be under the direction of C. Martin Couch. An entirely new repertoire will be presented.

BOLD ROBBERIES IN ALLEGHENY

Porch Climbers Enter J. C. Heckman's Residence and Steal Jewelry Worth $700.

SEVEN STORES ARE LOOTED

Thieves Get in by Jimmying the Transoms Opening Into Ohio Street. Allegheny Police Issue a Warning to Householders Against Porch Experts.

Eight burglaries were committed in Allegheny city since midnight Thursday but only one of them was given out by the police, and that at the request of Joseph C. Heckman, who was robbed by porch climbers. Mr. Heckman lost $700 worth of jewelry, and he thought the police ought to make the fact of the robbery public, that other houses might not be robbed in the same easy way.

The Heckman family and a lady who is visiting the home went to dinner about 6 p. m. on Saturday. Mr. Heckman's little boy left the table about 6:30 o'clock to get something on the second floor. His father heard him call out and ran upstairs. The boy said that as he reached the top of the stairway he heard quick-running footsteps cross the front room, and then all was still.

Mr. Heckman went into the room and saw that the drawers of a dresser had been taken out and their contents scattered. Going into three other rooms he found evidence that all had been visited and turned upside down by a burglar. Going down to the porch he saw marks on a post, showing that somebody had climbed up.

Dropped from a Window.

Alongside the porch, right under a window of the front room, he saw footprints at least three inches deep and an impression in the soft earth of a man's hip. He judged the porch climber had got in at a window directly over the porch roof and had fled through the window alongside the porch, hung by his hands and let himself drop, and his theory was confirmed by Detective T. C. Johnson, who went as soon as Mr. Heckman had notified the Allegheny police by telephone. The burglar, it is supposed, had figured out that walls the way by the porch was the easiest way to get into the house, the best means of escape was to drop out of the window on to the ground, rather than to scramble down the slate roof to the porch and run the risk of sliding off to the ground. The drop from the window is about 15 feet.

The thief got away with three gold watches, one of them having the initials "A. J. H." a gold fob chain, one diamond-set bar pin, a diamond and sapphire ring and three other diamond rings; a small solitaire diamond stickpin, a stickpin containing pearls and small diamonds, a gold chain bracelet and a boy's silver watch. One of the diamond rings belonged to the visitor.

Asked for Publicity.

Assistant Superintendent of Police John Glenn and Thomas B. Scandrett, director of the department of public safety, went to the Heckman residence yesterday afternoon. Mr. Heckman told them the facts, as he had told them to Detective Johnson the night before, and said he thought the robbery ought to be made public, to serve as a warning to other householders.

In describing the robbery Glenn said people ought to look their windows in the evening while they are at dinner or supper, so that porch climbers, if persistent, will have to force the window open and thus betray their presence by the noise. Porch climbers travel in pairs, Glenn says, and one stations himself where he can watch the dining room and the movements of the family and servants, to be ready to give him the a warning signal.

The seven other robberies took place on East Ohio street, as far up as Horn's Island. The robbers were bold, for in every case they entered stores through transoms, right from Ohio street, undisturbed by policemen.

Thieves jimmied open the transom of the David Clear & News Company's store, No. 100 East Ohio street, within a stone's throw of the police station, and stole a lot of cigars and $11 in cash. On the other side of the street, at No. 120, is Levi Hatten's men's furnishing goods store. Burglars jimmied the transom opening on Ohio street and stole neckties, gold cuff buttons and some cheap jewelry. Five other stores were entered.

WIFE HIT HER HUSBAND WITH A STOVE LIFTER

Lawrenceville Man Beat Wife and Sister-in-Law — Marital Troubles in Police Court.

Ida Hofield, of Perry street, Allegheny, was fined $5 yesterday for hitting her husband with a stove lifter and the husband was discharged. In imposing the fine Magistrate Samuel Abernathy warned Mrs. Hofield to be careful with missiles in the future.

Walter Stein, arrested by Policeman George McAleese, was fined $25 yesterday on a charge of beating his wife and sister-in-law at his home, No. 2906 Penn avenue. He is alleged to have cut his wife on the hand with a bread knife.

Albert Jackson, who lives in Fifty-fourth, near Camellia street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policeman Jacob Schwartz, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by his wife. She alleges that he beat and kicked her and turned her and the children into the street. She also said he will not support his children. Jackson has several times been arrested charged with the same offense.

John F. Stiffich, aged 37, of No. 2201 Fox street, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct by Magistrate Vichestein yesterday. He was arrested at 1:30 yesterday morning by Inspector P. F. Kelly and Officer Charles Klopfer. It is alleged that Stiffich waited to beat his wife and that when some of his neighbors interfered that he charged them, vowing to kill all who came near him.

A Great Store for an Interested Public.

EDITORIAL.

THE kindly interest the general public has in this store, now fifty-four years young, is undisguisedly appreciated, and the fostering of that interest is always the first study of those immediately concerned in the store's directorate.

When the contemplated addition was discussed a year back, the usual handicaps incident to building were dwelt upon, and the consensus of opinion was that everything could be in readiness by October 1st of this year. But the vagaries of the contractive system are unfathomable.

Here we are at the threshold of the holidays and still finishing touches being applied; but the store is gradually shaping itself into a Grand Pittsburg Institution in which all residents of the Greater City as well as of the contiguous towns will have a pride. The completed store will be a revelation in utilizing large space to advantage, while the fixtures and the latest helpful inventions for increasing expert service, together with new public accommodations will be accepted as agreeable innovations.

Today the Men's Furnishing Department occupies its new position, the extreme East on main floor, East Store, having a separate entrance, first door west of Cecil Way. The main entrance of East Store is thrown open this morning by way of accommodation, giving direct access to the big Toy Store, the Linen Store, the Shoe Store, and to the new plunger elevators running to all floors.

The remodeled Suit and Wrap departments occupying entire second floor, West Store, take this as their opening day, and had ample publicity in our news of Saturday evening. Detail is not again taken up this morning. A visit will reveal departments replete with all modern improvements as well as the most complete lines of women's ready-to-wear attire.

Our Handsome China and Bric-a-Brac Department.

We are flattered by showers of praise over our splendidly appointed China and Art Ware Departments, now occupying the entire third floor, East Store. This praise from each visitor—and there were thousands of them last week—was just the least premature, for the departments are in nowise what we intend they shall be. There is yet much to be done. Still the outlines of our ideas are well shown, and we take it the finished departments will meet with the same general appreciation that they have in their incomplete state.

To prospective buyers of handsome presents, our new Art Wares from Europe and the magnificent display of rich Cut Glass, will have unusual interest. Attention is especially directed to the new Terra Cotta Wares, selected by our buyer in Vienna, comprising Busts and Statues, all noted subjects, and all perfectly modeled, some in delft, some in bronze, some in the new Pierre Amazon finish. The prices on this new ware range from $5.00 each to $100.00.

The "Rattina" ware, carrying with it more style and perfection of design than any other low-priced ware ever produced, is presented in Flower Vases, Card Receivers, Window Boxes and Fruit Compotes, prices from $1.50 each up to $17.00.

New Bronzes, in most perfectly modeled Indian subjects from Vienna, from $45.00 each up to $175.00.

The French Bronzes also show new models this year in statues, busts, vases, candlesticks and jardinieres, from $2.50 each up to $200.00.

We are showing two special pieces of Carrara marble, extra large busts, of "Mars" and "Peace," for the rather small price, as to high art, of $80.00 each. Other fine subjects up to $475.00.

The Bargain Side of the Display.

Hundreds of people took advantage of the extremely low prices on those Majolica vases in the dark Rockwood color, known to the trade as Oriental ware. The factory has discontinued this line and we took every piece in stock. Naturally some pieces may show slight imperfections, but all were bought low enough to sell very much under price. We divided the collection into six lots, priced as follows—

$ .50 and $ .75 vases for $ .25 each.
$1.00 and $1.25 vases for $ .35 each.
$1.25 and $1.50 vases for $ .50 each.
$1.75 and $2.00 vases for $ .75 each.
$2.50 and $3.00 vases for $1.00 each.
$3.50 and $4.00 vases for $1.50 each.

China Specials.

Herewith we present some neat specials which will be found in this department today:

10c each for 1,000 dainty tissue paper Candle Shades, mostly pink and red.

25c each for those famous Tulip Water or Milk Pitchers, only 200 of them.

$1.50 for fine French China Chop Dishes, the $3.00 kind, which were bought so quickly last August. Just 100 of them.

$5.00 a set—reduced from $7.50—for 12-piece Toilet Sets in fine English flow blue. These are from the celebrated Doulton pottery.

$15.75 for $25.00 French China Dinner Sets, 100 pieces, neat pink floral spray. You may know that this is a rapid seller when we tell you that we have remaining only ten sets.

Cotton Waistings, 18c a Yard.

Fancy Cotton Waistings, these, and the price has been brought down from 35c. At the regular price of 35c we sold thousands and thousands of yards, so you may know it is an excellent material. We would have heard about it soon enough were it not. Of course, at the reduced price you would not expect a full color range.

At 25c a yard, reduced from 50c, plain basket weaves Mercerized Waistings, light blue, tan, pink, navy, porcelain, black.

The Selling of Challis

was never so brisk at any time that we can recall as it has been this season. No doubt our extremely low prices have had much to do with this abnormal demand. Long ago we contracted for immense quantities, deliverable at will, one of the greatest things we ever did. More Challis assortments than anywhere, lower prices than anywhere.

All-wool Challis in three grades, the difference being chiefly a matter of printing, 25c, 30c, 35c a yard.

Men's Best Gloves.

The best manufacturers of England, France, Germany and America contribute to our superb glove assortment for men. Collectively, they are the dressiest glove we can procure. The range is a broad one, both as to grade and price.

Cape Walking Gloves, $1.00 and $1.50 a pair.
Dent's Walking Gloves, $2.00 a pair.
Fownes' Walking Gloves, $1.50 and $2.00 a pair.
Morley's Walking Gloves, $1.75 a pair.
Perrin's Gloves, $2.00 a pair.
Reynier's Gloves, $2.25 and $3.50 a pair.

Some New Arrivals and Special Offers in Dress Goods.

In the colored dress goods we take up the very special offer first, and it is worthy of a careful reading—

This morning in Fifth Street cross aisle there will be on sale the second shipment of $1.25 and $1.50 plain and notted Silk-Warp Eolienne, a material that has the dressiness of silk and is particularly adapted for house gowns. The width is 40 inches, and the color range includes rose, light blue, navy, reseda, gray, castor, green, black. Our price today, will be... 80c a Yard.

New shipments of Zibaline Panne, the fashionable fabric now greatly in favor for stylish gowns—46 to 54 inches—all the new colors, 80c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 and up to $3.00 a yard.

A late shipment from Paris just in of Cocoon Suitings, newest color tints, 44 to 48-inch widths, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 and on to $3.50 a yard.

Broadcloths in glove finish from Austria, special light weight, street and pastel shades, $1.25, $1.50 to $4.00 a yard.

Broadtail Cloth—the name will give you the idea of Persian Lamb, from which these fabrics are copied in perfect assimilation. Exceptionally handsome, exceptionally stylish. No material so appropriate for either the long or the short coats. All new colors; 52 to 55 inches wide; $1.75, $2.50, $3.50 to $5.00 a yard.

Black Dress Goods.

Like the above special in colored dress goods, we first take up an engaging special among the black materials—

3,000 yards $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 weaves in black Bolivines, plain and fancy Zibelines and Cheviots, today at the very special price of..... 80c a Yd.

Looking over our black goods variety we find there is no weave missing, and all staple weaves, as well as the newly invented textures, are here in a price range from $1.00 easily along to $5.00 a yard. Among them

Imported Panne Zibelines.
Imported Satin and Glove Finished Broadcloths.
Imported and domestic Crepe Eolisnnes.
Imported Peau de Chat.
English Worsteds.
French Cheviots.
Imported Prunellas and Melrosas.
Imported Kersey and Melton Cloths.

Dress Linings.

The most natural thing in the world to talk linings after you've got through with black and colored dress goods.

By the way, our Lining Department has a novelty in the shape of the Lily Haircloth Flounce, it's ready for use, made of the best French Hair Cloth, gives the skirt the desired flare, and there is no possible way it can lose its shape. Model to be seen at the Lining Counter.

This morning mention of the finer sorts of linings:

Boxbay, Nevertear Lining Silk is sold with our guarantee. All the wanted colors. Width 27 inches, 75c a yard.

Satin Serges and Satin for coat linings, full range of colors, 24-inch widths—50c a yard.

36-inch fast black satin for coat lining, two qualities, one 85c a yard, the other $1.00.

Our Millinery Department.

With the addition of the room formerly occupied by the Bric-a-Brac department, third floor, West Store, we now have the largest Millinery Show Room in Western Pennsylvania. There is not such another assemblage of millinery between New York and Chicago. There is no place in the Greater City where Millinery, that is pleasing to the eye, that possesses originality, that is commendable for its tasteless style, is sold for such remarkably low prices. Our hobby is exquisite Hats and Toques for little prices, and we ride it very hard. As specimens take the following:

Trimmed Hats.

In the finer grades we have a hat that we sell for $5.00 that will stand alongside of any hat to be seen anywhere in the city for as much more. As a matter of fact, the original price of this line of hats was $9.00, and at that price the thousands of women who bought manifested surprise that such an elegant hat could be sold for the price of $5.00. We saw our way clear to put the price down several points, and today we are selling this triumph of the millinery art for $5.00.

Other low prices for trimmed millinery—
$2.50 trimmed hats for $1.00 each.
$3.75 trimmed hats for $1.50.
$5.00 trimmed hats for $2.25 each.
$8.00 trimmed hats for $3.50 each.

Untrimmed Hats.

Many women, ingenious of mind and deft of finger, possess the knack of putting trimmings on a hat just as well as expert millinets. To such this list of low prices for untrimmed hats will appeal—

50c each for $1.00 grades of Zibeline Scratch Felt Hats, mostly black, still good choice among such colors as brown, navy, gray.

60c each for Untrimmed Hats of Zibeline Scratch Felt, worth $2.00. Black, brown, navy, gray, etc.

$2.50 each for genuine Fur Beaver Hats, worth $4.50. Black, brown, navy, castor.

Jaunty Street Hats.

We only refer again to the sample hats of Phipps & Atchison to say there is right good choice left. You may imagine that the line we bought from them was a large one when it lasted through the heaviest kind of selling for ten days.

$1.50 for hats that sell regularly for $ 2.00.
$2.50 for hats that sell regularly for $ 5.00.
$5.00 for hats that sell regularly for $10.00.
$7.50 for hats that sell regularly for $15.00.

Silks, Silks, Then More Silks.

If you were to come to our Silk Counter saying, "Show me your silks," and were possessed of much patience, we'd take the better part of a day in throwing out piece after piece of new silk for your inspection. There is no small collection of silks here, but one broad enough to meet the most exacting ideas, not only as to the quality, but also as to prices.

Colored Crepe de Chine, double widths, all the colors that could be inquired for, including such dainty tints as ivory and cream, as well as the pure white, $1.50, $2.00 and by easy steps up to $5.00 a yard.

Many beautiful new effects in Pompadour Taffeta, a Taffeta that is pleasing in every essential, $1.00 a yard and up to $2.50.

On special table today there will be different Silks, among them small neat effects, the always-popular checks, gun metal and other new colorings, 65c and $1.00 goods for 78c a yard.

Today we will have a 36-inch wide Black Peau de Soie which has a double face, is an extra good black, the grade a $2.50 one, for which we will charge you only $1.85 a yard.

Imported Black Taffeta, nice, soft finish, backed up by a broad guarantee, 75c grade for 69c a yard.

Black Crepe de Chine, a splendid ebony black, rich and silky, 24 inches wide, 85c grade for 65c a yard.

Good Things, but Cheap Things, for Babies.

The Infants' Department is ensconced in its new quarters, second floor, East Store, and it has much more room than formerly in which to show baby finery. And we want to tell you, boastful as it may seem, that there is more baby finery here for less prices than you could find elsewhere in a whole day's travel through the Greater City. As an idea of low prices, the following—

Infants' Poke Bonnets of silk, tan, red, navy blue, $1.65 and $2.00.

Coats for 1, 2 and 3-year-old children, fine cloth, in tan, navy and red, large collar stole effect, late trimming on small and large collar and cuffs. The price, $3.75.

Coats for 1, 2 and 3-year-old children, of finer cloth, capes, royal, red and tan, trimmed with fancy braid and fur, at $5.25.

Children's Military Sweaters, red, navy and royal, 2 to 6-year sizes, $1.50.

Baby Carriage Robes of eiderdown—a good Christmas hint for uncles and aunts—$1.50, $1.75 and up to $7.00.

Men's Overcoats for Greatly Reduced Prices.

Although our overcoat stock is the largest we ever had we could no more step aside from a bargain than can the average woman. A New York maker of fine Overcoats had some 500 which he offered us at a price which puts them on the wearer for prices away below the usual.

The coats are of the finest grades of worsted cheviots, Fur Beaver, soft finish English Thibet, and blind Twill Cheviot in colors of oxford gray, different mixtures, and the always staple black.

The tailoring of these garments comes up to our rigid notions of what good tailoring should be. There are medium lengths and there are the extreme long lengths, and the reduced prices are as follows—

$25.00 fine overcoats for $18.50	$30.00 fine overcoats for $22.50
$28.00 fine overcoats for $20.00	$35.00 fine overcoats for $25.00

St. Mary's Blankets for a Saving of $2 to $5 a Pair.

Last week we bought a huge pile of these St. Mary's Blankets direct from the mills at St. Mary's, Ohio—bought them for such prices as will show a saving of not less than $2.00 and from that up to $5.00 on each pair.

There are many varieties of these St. Mary's Blankets, among them Ohio Fleece, Hiawatha Plaids, Unshrinkable, St. Mary's, Colonial, Edelweiss and Saxony brands.

We have a wide reputation for always stating exactly what goods are. If seconds, we say seconds; if mussed, we say mussed, if badly soiled, you will know it from us. We mention this for fear the reduced prices might lead you to think the blankets were hurt to some degree. We wish to positively state that they are absolutely perfect in every respect. As the quantity is limited we should advise attendance this morning.

$4.00 a pair for $5.00 grades of St. Mary's White Wool Blankets.

$4.75 a pair for $7.00 grades of St. Mary's Wool Blankets—white, red, gray.

$5.50 a pair for $8.00 Unshrinkable Blankets, white and plaid.

$6.00 a pair for $8.50 St. Mary's Wool Blankets, white, red and gray.

$7.00 a pair for $10.00 grades of all white Ohio Fleece Blankets.

$8.00 a pair for $13.50 grades of Colonial Blankets, a mountain of wool—soft, fluffy, fleecy.

$9.00 a pair for the same grade of Blanket, the only difference being they present a mottled appearance.

$10.00 a pair for $25.00 grades of St. Mary's Blankets, each blanket finished separate, an extra size, and each blanket of the extra weight of 10 lbs.

Velvet and the Other Members of the Family.

If you read the fashion news you well know that velvet is now ultra-fashionable. If you were down our way last week no doubt you noticed the handsome velvet suits in the display window of the West Store. The question of fashion, as to velvet, is settled; the question of assortments, as to velvets, can be verified at our Velvet Counter.

Fancy Velvetees, in all the newest colorings and combinations, at $1.00 a yard.

Velour Chiffon, that rich and silky material now so popular, $1.50 a yard.

Colored Sametschwantz, every hue that you can think of, at $2.00 and $2.50 a yard.

Women's Negligee Apparel.

The bright and exceedingly cheerful department now occupied by these goods, second floor, East Store, is large enough to permit us to display the large variety in a pleasing manner. Everything there the heart of woman can wish for—and it doesn't matter what sort of a turn that wish takes—if it suggests Paris sheerness in lingerie, that is here in all its dainty beauty, if it suggests something simple and inexpensive, that is here. Suggestions—

75c for neat eiderdown Dressing Sacques, the cloth of a good quality, trimmed with crochet edge, finished with satin ribbon.

$1.25 for Kimonas of flannelette, pretty pink and blue stripes, the garments well made and tastefully trimmed.

$3.00 for Elder Robes, a fine plain eiderdown or ripple effect prettily trimmed with satin ribbon and embroidery. All sizes and a variety of colors.

Monday, November 9, 1903.

The stone bridge over a ravine near the entrance to Schenley park is a manifest superfluity and every one who sees it wonders why it was put there. The obvious plan would have been to fill up the ravine, just as Director Bigelow now proposes to do. But inasmuch as the removal of the bridge will yield only a lot of building stone at considerable expense, there seems no adequate reason for the demolition of the structure. Director Bigelow has a curious fondness for alterations and the expense involved doesn't appear to cut any figure in his eyes.

John Turner, the recently arrived English anarchist, whose deportation was ordered by the government in accordance with the provisions of the immigration act, took the case into court through a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Lacombe of the United States circuit court on Saturday decided against him. It is stated that an appeal will be taken to the United States supreme court, a proceeding which takes considerable time. Meanwhile, Turner must remain in the custody of the immigration officials on Ellis Island in New York harbor, and his lecturing tour for the propagation of anarchy is indefinitely postponed. The case happens opportunely as a warning to European anarchists that they can no longer regard the United States as a happy hunting ground.

The usefulness of Schenley park and the institutions grouped near its entrance was well illustrated again yesterday. Among the many thousands who visited the park the Phipps conservatory and the Carnegie institute were many hundreds from beyond the limits of even the Greater Pittsburgh. Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia were well represented in the throng bent upon pleasure and instruction. The railroad excursions which bring the people in at this season have become a familiar feature in the life of the city, and the fact that they are more largely patronized each succeeding year is the best of evidence of increasing influence of this center of art and literature and horticulture. It is a good influence.

It is now announced that all prospect of war between Russia and Japan has disappeared and that official announcement of a settlement of the matters in dispute may soon be expected. This result has all along been anticipated by The Gazette, as both nations had too much to risk by going to war. Russia has never gained much by war, but has gained vastly by the slow methods of diplomacy. Her repeated wars with Turkey have advanced her territory but a little way toward Constantinople, but bit by bit she has absorbed all the countries of Northern Asia until she is now in direct contact with China and Korea. It may be assumed that the settlement now reached recognizes Japan's sphere of influence in Korea. This leaves Russia free to deal with the United States, which is entitled to open ports in Manchuria by the new treaty with China. The arrangement is not in accord with Russian designs, and it is evident that she will work against it while avoiding a conflict with this country.

Our London cousins have been greatly shocked to learn that the number of fatal street accidents in New York last year was almost five times that in their own city. In other words, the number for New York reached a total of 888 in 1902, while the London fatality list was only 188. Unquestionably the comparison is highly unfavorable to the American metropolis, which has hardly more than one-half the population of London. It is a penalty paid for superior speed and energy in conjunction with inferior facilities for distributing the traffic. The completion of the subways in course of construction should reduce the quota of street accidents in New York by relieving the congestion, but with that improvement there should come greater care for human life also, even if it must be to some extent at the expense of speed. Fatal accidents are not so index to the vastly larger number of non-fatal accidents which tax a community heavily in loss of time, medical attendance, hospital support and the care of the permanently maimed victims.

The report that Colombia is getting together an army to invade Panama does not portend any serious demonstration. The Colombian authorities were fully aware that revolution was brewing and were in fact notified by our government, but were unable to take effective precautions. Colombia cannot attack the seaports, as they are under the protection of the United States, which is required by the treaty of 1846 to guarantee the neutrality of the isthmus. As there is no road from Colombia into Panama a land attack in any force is practically impossible. All that Colombia can really do is to protest, as the business is really settled. Panama is an independent state, as she has been several times before, but this time it is for keeps. The propriety of the course taken by our government will not be disputed by any respectable nation in the world, nor by any section of public opinion in this country whose attitude commands respect. The class of people who are patriots of every country except their own will raise their usual outcry, as they have always done when any important action has been taken for the advancement of American interests, but they do not count.

The cruiser Baltimore is now in San Domingo waters and the gunboat Newport, now at Savannah, has been ordered to proceed at full speed to San Domingo. Our warships are needed there to prevent infractions of international law such as would offer provocation to European powers. When the political factions in Haiti and San Domingo have their periodical shindies they are absolutely indifferent to the obligations of international law, about which they know little and care less. Their operations by land and sea are hardly distinguishable from brigandage and piracy. It will be remembered that in the last Haitian civil war a German gunboat sank a warship belonging to one of the Haitian factions, which was a very pointed reminder that if our government did not protect international rights there other nations would. It is reported that one of the Dominican factions has issued a decree closing the northern ports to commerce, and the German consul has protested. Paper blockades have no validity in international law, and if a Dominican faction seizes a foreign vessel for ignoring the paper blockade there will be trouble. If necessary our warships should use forcible measures to make the factions respect international rights. If there is to be any more blowing up of piratical gunboats it should not be left to Germany to do it.

Cuban Reciprocity.

No time will be lost in the organization of the house of representatives today since the Republican caucus has named Joseph G. Cannon for speaker and slated the other officers of the house of the Fifty-seventh congress for re-election. The Republicans have as good working majority as in the preceding congress, so there will be no hitch. Mr. Williams will get the complimentary vote of the Democrats for speaker, which will virtually elect him to the floor leadership of his party, and several other gentlemen will be named for clerk, sergeant-at-arms, etc., and promptly forgotten.

Then will come the business of the session, the enactment of a law to give force to the Cuban reciprocity treaty, which will be announced in a special message from the president. President Roosevelt has decided opinions upon this subject and he will set them forth forcibly in the brief document to be transmitted, together with the reasons why the act should be passed. The new speaker will be obliged to announce the committee on ways and means, to which the bill must be referred. He may at the same time, or later, announce the committees on elections and on expenses, while he will likely defer the appointment of other committees until the regular session in December.

It has been virtually agreed among the leaders that the indorsement of the treaty shall be by bill, reciting and enacting all of the provisions of the treaty, according to precedent. It is probable a draft of the bill will be ready for presentation as soon as the committee on ways and means is announced. The bill ought to be reported back to the house by Wednesday, so the debate may begin this week. Some latitude will be given Democratic members to make campaign tariff speeches, but the leaders should take care to close the debate promptly so as to give the bill to the senate, where the rules permit unlimited discussion and unreasonable delay. There is, of course, no reason why the matter should be debated in either house, for the subject is thoroughly understood by every member of congress and by every intelligent citizen. The treaty provides for a reduction of duties upon various articles exported from Cuba into the United States, principally sugar and tobacco, and for a reduction of duties upon certain articles exported from the United States into Cuba, principally four, live stock, dressed meats, tools and machinery.

This reciprocal arrangement will be of greater advantage to the United States than to Cuba. It will give to the island republic a more favorable market for its sugar and tobacco, nearly all of which comes here anyway, while it will secure for American agriculturists and manufacturers almost a monopoly of Cuban imports. In other words, it will return to the United States practically all of the increased value of the Cuban productions. This is sufficient reason for the prompt enactment of the treaty. But there is another reason sufficient in itself, the redemption of the nation's pledge and its obligation to the Cuban republic.

Mr. Bryan's Explanation.

Mr. Bryan has published in his own paper a long explanation of his connection with the Bennett will. He says that just before the election of 1896 he received a letter from Mr. Bennett offering to give him $2,000 if he should be defeated. After satisfying himself that Mr. Bennett was not interested in any silver mines he agreed to accept and Mr. Bennett gave him $1,000 in each of the three subsequent years, and $800 more in 1899. In the spring of 1900 Mr. Bennett visited Mr. Bryan's home and the will was then drawn, making bequests to Mr. and Mrs. Bryan. That no undue influence was used is shown by the fact that this was done upon Mr. Bennett's voluntary initiative, and after the will was drawn Mr. Bennett himself retained its custody and could have destroyed or altered it at any time during the three years which intervened before he died. Mr. Bennett was a childless man, and his wealth amounted to about $500,000—$100,000 more than he desired to leave to his widow and relatives. The bequests to Mr. Bryan were made to enable him "to devote a larger part of his time to unremunerative labor of a public character." Mr. Bryan intends to return the sum as a fund for the payment of work to be done for the public, his plan being to deliver without compensation enough lectures in college towns to make up the sum of $50,000 at the price which he usually receives from lecture bureaus." Mr. Bryan says he feels bound to carry out the wishes of the testator, "even though to do so he must come into conflict with the relatives of the deceased and with an attorney who is not in sympathy with the political views held by Mr. Bennett while he lived and still entertained by Mr. Bryan."

Mr. Bryan's perfect frankness in relating his dealings with Mr. Bennett made a favorable impression in court, and although the sealed letter by which the testator gave $50,000 to Mr. Bryan was not admitted to probate as part of the will, yet Mr. Bryan is fully cleared of having used any undue influence. Mr. Bennett was a man of decided business ability, and his testamentary capacity cannot be impugned. His gifts to Mr. Bryan were made upon his own initiative, but Mr. Bryan would stand in a better light if he had suggested to Mr. Bennett that he should employ some other attorney to draw the will. But despite the exoneration of Mr. Bryan's conduct, the affair will dispel much of the glamour that has surrounded his personality. Instead of the disinterested champion of public interests, sacrificing his own advantage for the sake of principle, he will appear as a professional agitator whose activities gain for him a handsome income. His earnings are perfectly legitimate and are only a fair recompense for his exertions, but it leaves him too prosaic a figure for the hero worship he has heretofore inspired.

What Have They Learned.

Both branches of councils meet regularly today and their action will be noted with interest. Select council in particular has many important measures locked up in its rump committees, including those of the Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wabash railroads. A motion is pending, as unfinished business, for the recall of the Baltimore & Ohio Glenwood ordinances from the committee on surveys, which may afford an opportunity to judge whether the lesson taught by the late election has been learned.

A better test of the purposes of the owners of the Democratic-Citizens machine, however, would be a motion for the abolition of the rump committees, thereby recalling at once all of the important legislation held by them. This action can be taken by the same majority that was effective in electing the city clerk. Though the Leader maintains a pretense that the Democratic-Citizens managers do not control the air-tight combine, evidence to the contrary has been given on three or four occasions. In any case the power of those managers to abolish the rump committees cannot be doubted, and no faith can be put in any reform promises made by them or their friends until that principal weapon of the air-tight combine is taken from it.

Common council should have before it the filtration question and an opinion from the city solicitor concerning the legality of the proposed blanket ordinance giving the director of the department of public works power to employ men at his own discretion. On these measures the common branch will have an opportunity to signify how much it has learned from recent events. The votes of members will be carefully noted for reference in February.

If the significance of the election of last week has been as thoroughly grasped by councilmen as by the repentant organs of the Democratic-Citizens machine and some of the leaders of that organization, the Orphans will have a larger following than formerly.

Returning to the pretense of the Leader that it has supported the Democratic-Citizens machine and hooted at the Orphans for the sake of reform, it may be said the people have given evidence that they understand the situation. Like The Gazette, they have perceived the unholy alliance between the proprietors of that machine and the air-tight combine, which, as the last remnant of the old machine, discredited the Republican organization in the municipal campaign last year. The Gazette is unable to say that any steps have been taken by the Republican organization to repudiate the members of the air-tight combine or to defeat them for re-election, because that point has not been reached. But The Gazette believes and expects that the voters of the unbossed Republican party in the several wards should and will nominate a better class of representatives for election to councils. What The Gazette thinks about the matter is no secret, having been openly proclaimed. It will support every man who has been steadfast for reform and oppose every one who has not, while the Leader will probably continue to support the machine which has threatened to put the Orphans' heads under water.

Erie Canal Enlargement.

Since the result of the election in New York city has become known and popular interest in it is subsiding, people outside the state are beginning to note with admiration that the people of the state of New York on the same day voted by a majority approximating 250,000 to bond the state for $101,000,000 for the purpose of enlarging the Erie canal, which connects the great lakes with the Hudson river, and for similarly enlarging its branches. But for the hullabaloo of the contest in the city tax proposition would have attracted national attention, for it is a matter of national importance. The question was settled by the people in a way to justify a continuance of their claim that New York is "the empire state."

New York city has been relatively retrograding as a port of entry and shipping, and the retrogression was regarded seriously. The Canadian route via the St. Lawrence river and southern routes were attracting shipments of which New York had enjoyed almost a monopoly. The railroads were appealed to in vain to favor New York until finally the city stated the case so eloquently to the state that the state was convinced that its supremacy was threatened along with the metropolitan position of the city. The legislature reluctantly submitted the matter to a vote and the result makes the reluctance appear pleasurable. Not more than $10,000,000 of the bond issue is by the terms of the legislative enactment to be expended in the first two years, and not more than $10,000,000 at any one time, and the whole sum is to be paid off in 18 years. The canal is to be increased to a size that will accommodate 1,000-ton barges. It is also believed that by the time it is completed a system of electric towing will have been perfected and the tow-path mule leave the track.

It is not believed that any plans will be formulated for the necessary work until the meeting of the legislature. Gen. Francis V. Greene, who will leave the police department of New York city when Mayor Low gives way to his successor, is, however, talked of as the head of the commission that will supervise the construction. New York people are justly proud of their public-spirited enterprise, as shown in the vote on the canal bonds, and they can hardly be blamed for asking in a patronizing way why all the fuss the United States is making about the Panama ditch.

Harry A. Warner denies that the Baltimore & Ohio hold-up lost the election for his party. He says there were a dozen things which contributed to the result. As he does not specify the causes it may be guessed that creation of former pledges was one of them.

There is a reaction on between the French ministry and the parliament that looks like a cabinet crisis. While the American system is not perfect there are at least some advantages in the fixed term of office.

While an increase of $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 in the assessed valuation of Pittsburgh property is flattering to the growth of the city, it also means increased taxation for public purposes.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

The principal groomsman at the wedding of Dora Labouchere and the Marquis Carlo Di Rudini will be Gabriele D'Annunzio, the noted author.

Senator Stewart of Nevada is the only man in the senate who has never been shaved. His beard began to grow when he was 16 and has been growing for 60 years.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas Fielding Scott, the first bishop of the Episcopal church in Oregon, was elected to that office in 1853. The semi-centennial of his consecration will occur in Portland January 8 next.

Right to the Point.

Within a very few days the president of the United States was stirred to utterances that the masses should hear and remember. The immediate cause of his speaking was the attack made by Senator Gorman, who rested his leadership in Maryland upon the race issue. The reply is instinct with American manhood and challenges the admiration of every citizen who appreciates true courage, no matter what his political opinions or his racial prejudices. Direct to Mr. Gorman and his kind was this: "If I could be absolutely assured of my election as president by turning my back on the principles of human liberty as enunciated by Abraham Lincoln, I would be incapable of doing it and unfit for president if I could be capable of doing it." There is no dodging or equivocation in this and it says with all the emphasis possible that the president will stand by the constitutional guarantees so long as they are a part of that instrument.—Detroit Free Press.

EN VOYAGE.

Whichever way the wind doth blow,
Some heart is glad to have it so;
Then blow it east or blow it west,
The wind that blows, that wind is best.

My little craft sails not alone;
A thousand fleets from every zone
Are out upon a thousand seas;
What blows for one a favoring breeze
Might dash another with the shock
Of doom upon some hidden rock.
And so I do not dare to pray
For winds to waft me on my way,
But leave it to a higher will
To stay or speed me, trusting still
That all is well, and sure that He
Who launched me bark will sail with me
Through storm and calm, and will not fail,
Whatever breezes may prevail
To land me, every peril past,
Within the sheltered haven at last.

Then, whatsoever wind doth blow,
My heart is glad to have it so;
And blow it east, or blow it west,
The wind that blows, that wind is best.
—Caroline A. Mason.

The Quiet Observer.

BY ERASMUS WILSON.

The bills we have always with us the same as the poor.

Why is it that men able-bodied men, are idle in times of peace and prosperity?

Go where you will and you find them—some loafing around, some fussing about hard times, while others are busy trying to explain why some have more than they need and others all they want.

So it is, but why is it thus?

Does not every man not a lunatic know that to obtain the means necessary to support life he must work—work at something that needs to be done?

Surely there are no men now who are not acquainted with the fact that all life is established by labor, but is it according to their taste, their desires or penchant?

The kind providence that feeds the birds provides them to labor. The seeds are in the grass, the berries on the bushes, the insects in their respective places and ready can eat and live, or starve in the midst of plenty.

What more can man expect of the lower kind providence?

The world is full of material comforts for all, but they have to be diligently sought for, and used with care.

* * * * *

Those who complain most of the lack of the comforts of life are those who waste in times of plenty.

Who does not know that waste makes want? As Poor Richard has it, "Willful waste makes woeful want." There are none to deny this in words, but many there are who deny it in their works. These, however, are compelled to endure a practical demonstration of the fact, and yet many of them refuse to take the demonstration evidently.

Commencement teaches all alike that the time to work is when there is work to do, and not when there is no demand for it. The farmer who would allow his grain to go to waste because the harvest season is particularly hot or because he prefers going on a journey to another place, would be thought a fool; and were he to complain of lack of food in the winter, he would be deemed worse than a fool.

So, what shall we say of those who allow the work season to pass without earning a surplus to carry them through the dull season? What excuse can any man have for not working when there is work to do?

Why, during these years there has been a constantly increasing demand for laborers, with constantly advancing wages.

Are you prepared for a dull period should one set in? Bosses, as you very well know, do not continue indefinitely, but long enough to allow labor talent to accumulate a goodly fund to tide it over the dull places.

* * * * *

Maybe you have not been able to find work easy enough to suit your or that was entirely agreeable with your tastes, or that paid as well as you desired.

The winter will be just as cold, coal and groceries just as high as if you had worked right along and saved a few dollars. Your excuse for not working when there was work to do will not satisfy the demands of the landlord, nor soften the pangs of hunger.

And what satisfaction will there be in railing at those who wrought throughout the busy season at whatever their hands found to do, and have provisions for the dull period? Nor will it avail anything to complain against those who, by the exercise of their several talents, have gained for themselves the comfortable homes and here money besides.

What grounds for complaint can you have against the industrious Jew Drifty, the man of forethought? What will be your answer when he asks why you have not done as he did, or done what you could?

Capital suffers from idleness and improvidence, as much as labor, if not more. Wealth comes not without effort and great effort is necessary to secure great wealth.

Then, how does it come that in a thrifty, even in a prospering city, where all men are rated as intelligent, that there should be so much idleness? There is no doubt as to why there should be want, for it is a veritable follower of idleness.

* * * * *

That willful idleness is sinful there can be no doubt, and idleness due to negligence in seeking work is no better.

Industry is an essential element of morality, as it is of health of physical and spiritual comfort, and of substantial success in life.

Idleness begets no good thing, but is a prolific breeder of physical and moral ills.

These facts are not only well known, but they are accepted by all who have sufficient intelligence to live without guardians or attendants, and yet we do not hear them preached from the pulpit, by way of stirring up the minds of those who have not forgotten them, and reminding others of them that they forget at a time when forgetfulness would be sinfulness.

How do we hear of them being taught—taught persistently and effectively—in our schools? How many of our boys and girls have a reasoning sense of the dignity, the necessity, and the righteousness of labor, when they leave school?

Most have a dislike for it, and have already been planning how they may manage to get along without it, thus saving their hands from becoming hard and their complexions from being spoiled.

Is it not about time for the church to awaken to the fact that in order to save men and women the boys and girls must be taught how to live well, which means how to work well, to earn well and to use well that which is given them?

* * * * *

Is it not unto, and do the times not demand that men and women be taught from the pulpit that wastefulness is sinfulness, litterage is negligence, idleness and improvidence, and that pride of dress, show of wealth and superciliousness are specially and particularly unchristian and out of harmony with things heavenly?

This should be deeply and indelibly impressed on all persons, whether they profess to be Christians or not.

And since good men and women are industrious, economical, and live consistently is it not also meet that boys and girls should be taught that these are essential virtues, and that if they hope to succeed in life they must possess them?

Are they so taught?

Do they show it in their lives and manners, in their schools? Do they show it in their habits after starting out in the world? Does the close of their lives prove that they had been so taught, and that they so lived?

Somebody will have to answer for this lack of proper, practical teaching.

Who will it be?

If not taught from the pulpit, in the school and in the home, it will be taught, with painful and unlucky as teachers.

* * * * *

There are conventions, convocations and assemblies galore, but what do they discuss? What questions of moment do they consider, and what they determine that is of practical value to those who are striving and struggling to get on well in the world?

The delegates to these may look their parts, walk through them acceptably, and return to their homes, without fear of having offended any of their influential supporters by advocating any live, practical, useful departure from present methods characterized by failure.

It may be that these ingenuous folks have the money, and without money the work of saving the world cannot go on.

How much money was used in establishing the Christian church? Were fortunes invested in cathedrals to catch the eye of sightseers? Were the rich consulted as to what should be preached, or who should preach? How were the rich advised to use their riches in order that they might gain the kingdom of heaven?

But these hard, puzzling questions might be asked without limit, for there are so very many pertinent questions that are quietly passed over, or conveniently forgotten.

These will come up some day, and don't forget it. They must be answered, even if the answers are written in blood.

Thus it ever has been, and thus it ever shall be, world without end, for it is God's way.

China's Appeal.

China's appeal to the United States for help from the predatory movements of Russia has elicited, official confirmation, of what well informed newspapers have interpreted to be the attitude of this government in the orient. Until the ratification of the commercial treaty negotiated with the Flowery Kingdom, the United States is without a substantial ground for interference with the ambitions of Russia. When that treaty is ratified the United States will become a party with interests at stake, and will be released of its traditional policy allowing those interests to be overridden. At the present time our statesmen may only pity China. They are in no position to offer her help. Even acts of flagrant injustice on the part of the Manchurian leaders of Manchuria do not furnish a legitimate basis for American interference.—Philadelphia Press.

GEORGE C. JENKS.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—An attempt to break the shopping record between New York and Philadelphia is under way. A theatrical manager who will have an "attraction" in Gotham tomorrow night left Broadway in the middle of yesterday afternoon and is experiencing his motive personally. He thinks he has a "novelty" which will cover the ground as well as or better than any that have made the trip. Allowing for distractions in town and village architecture on the way, he believes he can put into Washington tomorrow in less than one hour consumed in the task, and with his wife in good condition, too. He took a deep interest in the recent trial trip for endurance between New York and Pittsburgh, and has had his automobile tuned up in various ways as a result of his observations of the difficulties met in that hectic trade journey. Pittsburghers need not be afraid of him with an average of whiskey on board, possible, which the trip in question was. There is no reason to doubt that this manager will get to Washington on time and in good condition. He appreciates the risks, however, and has asked a quart of food with him in case he should be laid by the heels in some wilderness. Although he has little fear of such a catastrophe. The trip will be watched by automobilists everywhere, and with the more concern because the owner will be his own chauffeur. On that matter, every owner of a motor car should know how to handle it as well as a professional chauffeur. And it must be admitted that most of them do.

Parks on His Good Behavior.

Word comes from Sing Sing that Sam Parks has settled down to his prison life calmly and resignedly. The officials at Sing Sing believe that he will be a model prisoner.

Those "Declined With Thanks" Boys.

The great army of struggling authors in New York is worrying itself now about the possibility of the Society of American Authors being successful in its endeavors to have manuscripts classed as third-class matter in the United States mails. Under the law manuscript demands letter postage, which is a considerable drain on the resources of writers who get many of their offerings back and have to send them on half a dozen trips before they strike the right editor and publisher. The Dramatists' Society, the authors' organization to a partnership publication, with mutual admiration as a prominent feature, but so far it has not been able to accomplish any great public reform in favor of its members. It hopes to break its record in the present instance.

The Taming of "Coney."

This was not a particularly favorable day for a "Coney Island outing. Therefore there were not many persons at the island to look over the ground and give an intimate opinion on the merits of the scheme to make a 60-foot street of the "Bowery" instead of rebuilding it with the wooden shanties lately destroyed by fire. Sentiment is divided on the subject. On the one side are those who enjoy the feverish delights of a Coney Island Sunday in summer time, when one can walk for three blocks among the shows, peanut stands, merry-go-rounds and restaurants, and buy 20 "gold bricks" of assorted sizes and values in that distance. This class would like the "Bowery" to remain, declaring that they get enough fun out of it to make up for the money charmed out of their pockets by the "fakirs" and other highwaymen. Opposed to them is the element that goes to the island for the pleasure of spending the ocean, and occasionally taking a dip therein. These are the people who, after their children's days outing and a big swim, would rather not be bothered to "do" the youngsters to many shows and open-air vaudeville on the "Bowery." With nothing definite has been reached in the controversy the chances are good for the wide thoroughfare coming into existence with from one to three cross streets cut through to the ocean. Coney Island needs taming down, most people admit that.

The Court Speaks.

One of the live magistrates of New York, whose methods are original and independent, is Lexow Crane. He makes occasional addresses of unbiased affairs from the bench to which the court officials and prisoners always listen respectfully, while the reporters enjoy the outbursts because they are sure to be picturesque. Mr. Crane said yesterday that he was glad the election of last Tuesday will put a new man at the head of the police department, who will not be favorable to arrests for petty misdemeanors that should never be called up in court at all. A man was arrested as a suspicious person because he was seen coming out of a classroom which is suspected of being the home of a pool-selling business. Mr. Crane discharged the prisoner, telling him that his arrest was an outrage. The magistrate does not believe in a "wide open" town, but he is opposed to the curtailment of individual liberty. His comments on the distinction, but Mr. Crane is an argumentative person and no one ventures to open a controversy with him on the subject.

Money Tight at the Track.

According to the bookmakers who have been in constant attendance on the races at Aqueduct, where meeting has just closed for the season, stringency in money was strongly marked there. That is to say, the public did not bet as freely as in previous years. As the bookies made it a point to get most of the cash that was staked, perhaps this outcome was to the benefit of the race-goers at large. The bookmakers think that the public is in dry circumstances, as they put it, although this kind of complaint may be heard at the end of every race meeting. If one were to listen to the "hard luck" of the professional losers of odds.

Yeats Is Coming.

William Butler Yeats, the Irish poet and dramatist, is expected to arrive in this city early in the week. He sailed from Liverpool on the Oceanic last Wednesday. He will lecture at the College of the City of New York, Yale, Harvard, the University of Pennsylvania, and many other educational institutions in the next months he intends to remain in this country. He has never been to the United States. Some of the Irish and literary societies of New York are preparing to give him a reception.

The Merry Mushroom Growth.

There is a fashionable fruit store in upper Broadway which always has some article of nature in its show-window to attract the attention of passers-by. For the week which ended last night the attraction was a mushroom bed, in which the finest were growing before open eyes. The rich, black loam was dotted by mushrooms in various stages of development, from the large tabellike, perfect specimen, on which groups of elves might caper, to the tiny white point showing where a mushroom was just poking its nose into the light. One could see the actual processes of growing between morning and afternoon, and again to the next morning. It was an object lesson in horticulture such as is seldom to be enjoyed on a public thoroughfare and doubtless was a good advertisement.

Cut and Thrust at Columbia.

Columbia university, having proved its prowess on the gridiron—even though it was licked by Yale last week—is going for fencing. As a relief from the football field. There are many young men on Morningside Heights who show a skill a la carte and there which may be useful when they make "the grand tour," and perhaps get into currently of honor with some of the fire eaters of the continent.

Recognizing Panama.

The president's recognition of the de facto government of the revolutionists in Panama gives no cause for revising of the views currently expressed both here and abroad, that the attitude of our government toward recent stormy troubles has been and is studiously correct. He set to in accord with long established policy. "As a general rule of foreign policy, obtaining since the foundation of our government," said Mr. Hunter, the acting secretary of state in 1826, "the recognition of a foreign government by this is not dependent on right, but on fact. In the case of Hungary, whatever may be the right, there seems to be no doubt about the fact. The revolutionary government is the only actual government. The Hungarian government has, at least for the time, ceased to exercise its functions, given up order in Hungary, and shown no power anywhere able to reduce it to order. Hungary itself, therefore, like the United States, must, in the matter now of the rights and the discharge of its duties, have its relations with some government there, and, as the revolutionary government is the only one, those relations must be with it. We may pertinently recall and, with the change of a word or two, apply to the case the statement of John Quincy Adams, made in recognizing the de facto government of Colombia, or New Granada, herself, when she won her independence from Spain. This recognition," he said, "is neither intended to invalidate any right of Spain now to affect the employment of any means which she may yet be disposed or enabled to use with success in reconquering those provinces or the rest of them. It is by the mere acknowledgment of existing facts, with the view to the establishment of those relations, political and commercial, which it is the moral obligation of civilized and Christian nations to entertain reciprocally without another."—New York Tribune.

Our consul is instructed, as soon as he is satisfied that a de facto government, republican in form, without substantial opposition from its own people, has been established, to enter into relations with it as the responsible government of the country. This is a partial recognition for business purposes; the full political recognition has yet to come. The Colombian government troops having evacuated the isthmus, the revolutionists are the only armed force in possession and control of any sort. The Bogota government may be compelled to give up the isthmus without a struggle. If it can restore its power there without trespassing on this country's treaty rights, well and good, but it is informed through our minister that the United States government regards it as its duty to see that the peaceful traffic of the world across the isthmus shall no longer be disturbed by a constant succession of unnecessary and wasteful civil wars, and it commends to the government of Colombia and Panama the peaceful and equitable settlement of all questions at issue. It looks as though the Bogota government had overreached itself and will not be able to play the dog in the manger any longer in respect to the Panama canal.—Philadelphia Press.

Although the recognition comes very quickly after the revolution, it is justified by the circumstances. The Colombian government having been overthrown and the Colombian authorities having withdrawn, the new provisional government of Panama is the only authority left upon to deal with, and is the de facto government. It now becomes responsible for the preservation of the persons and property of foreign residents. Not to have recognized it pending the establishment of a permanent government would have been a slight and a sacrifice of dignity for which other powers might have held the United States responsible as being the recognized dominant power in American affairs.—Indianapolis Journal.

Of course, if the new republic be on the isthmus shall justify its existence and thoroughly establish its independence, the United States will be a gainer by the deal. The new government will undoubtedly give us the right to complete the canal, which will be an immense advantage not only to Panama and the United States, but to the entire world as well. Why, however, should this circumstance tie our hands and compel us to an excessive caution and timidity in dealing with accomplished facts? Statesmen, when they serve the cause do not turn their backs upon opportunities which give us the power to act. They long desire to act in a certain contingency, and grasp these opportunities and make them justify the more so when, as in this case, the result is one to be desired in the interests of national prosperity and the completion of a civilizing task in which benefits all the world will share.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The recognition of the republic of Panama by the United States and its de facto government was not only the inevitable step, but the right step. The withdrawal of the Colombian troops from Panama left the insurrectionary government in full possession of all parts of it as organized and active government capable of treating with foreign governments of preserving order and of maintaining itself at least as permanently as any other of the Central or South American states. In fact, with the canal once under control and under control of the United States the stability of the republic of Panama is assured to a much greater degree than that of any of its neighbors. Incidentally it is Colombia's duty to be its enemy.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

As the backsliding Boers congress refused to make a reasonable agreement, the prospective organization of a government with which they will be possible to treat is a matter for congratulation. And while we need not worry about the opinions of other countries, it may be noted that at every European capital the policy which this country is pursuing is regarded with unstinted approval.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The case is one in which the refinements of argument count for little by comparison with facts and necessities that are apparent to the whole world.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pittsburgh's Planet.

Pittsburgh is puffing up with pride because a newly discovered planet in the solar system has been named after it. "Pittsburghia" is the name of the star. Dr. Max Wolf, of the Observatory of Heidelberg, Germany, discovered the tiny glint of light and he courteously agreed to name it that. Besides, Pittsburgh is to be christened. Be sharp, ye patriots, nothing to offer Pittsburg. Pittsburghia, pray, lives due to pique the world's fair. Pittsburgh and Berlin are thought to be the nearest family of Ceres. Failing Juno and Vesta, all well known Hall celebs in comparison with their celestial neighbors. Of course, it would have been better if all concerned if the discovery of the planet were put in a Pittsburgh establishment. It won't have the advertised any astounding foreign alliances with German astronomers, but then the fact remains that it is named in honor of a city that Pennsylvania and that is considered so. It shows that there are some things better as smoke and grime in Pittsburgh's affairs.—Washington Observer.

One Way of Looking at It.

When one has read the local political editorial in Wednesday morning's Pittsburgh Post, and then reads the one on the same subject in Thursday morning's Post, he cannot help feeling indignant at the forbidden's unaccountable neglect of what ought to be a very agreeable duty.—Uniontown Evening Star.

Happiness.

Happiness seems to be a matter of enduring our troubles with calm fortitude, particularly those which never happen.—Detroit Free Press.

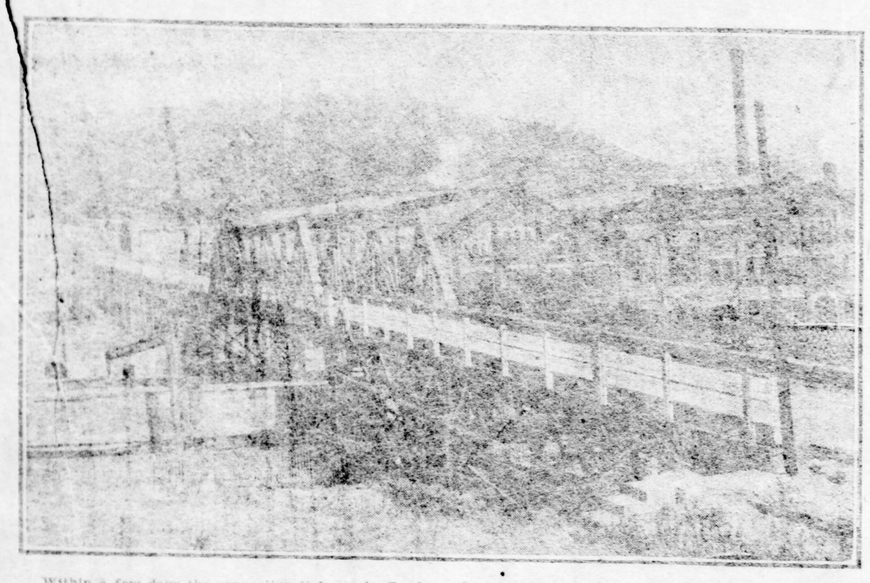
New Viaduct Will Shorten Traction Routes



Within a few days the connecting link on the Braddock and McKeesport divisions of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at Wilmerding will be completed and a perfect loop will then be formed for the cars between Pittsburgh, Braddock and McKeesport, and the inconvenience of transferring from the Turtle Creek to the Monongahela valley line will be dispensed with. The new viaduct at Wilmerding, which makes possible the connection between the Braddock and McKeesport lines, has been finished for several weeks, and double tracks have been finished in Stanton street, Wilmerding, and but a few minor details remain to be completed before the cars will commence running over the new route.

The new viaduct is a massive steel structure, nearly a quarter-mile long. It passes close to the works of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company and ends in the heart of the business district on the south side of the borough, close to the new depot of the Pennsylvania railroad. The viaduct will not only serve as a convenience to the patrons of the car lines, but brings the resident district of the north side within two minutes' walk of the principal business thoroughfare of Wilmerding. A number of important rearrangements in fares are promised by the traction company as soon as cars begin running over the viaduct.

EXCURSIONISTS GO TO SCHENLEY

Fame of Pittsburgh's Show Places Has Spread Far and Wide.

SPECIAL TRAINS ARE RUN

Chrysanthemum Shows in the Phipps Conservatories Are Nearly Over. Fogs Caused Flowers to Fade—Lion Cubs Are on View—Interest in Art.

Despite the beautiful weather, the visitors to the art exhibition of the Carnegie Institute yesterday were not so numerous as on the first Sunday of last year, although the galleries, during the afternoon hours, were packed with admiring and appreciative throngs. The three attractions at Schenley park, the pictures, chrysanthemums and organ recital, drew thousands of people from all quarters of the city and many from cities as far distant as 100 miles. The Allegheny Valley railroad offered cheap rates on an inducement, and an army of out-of-town people swarmed in. The "Mum show" in the Phipps conservatory is fast losing its brilliancy, and next Sunday will see its close. Over 5,000 plants will be displayed this morning.

Last year the art exhibition embraced paintings by the world's masters, while this year the collection is limited, competitively, to American artists. Doubtless this collection may contain the works of several, if not many masters-to-be, but the average lover of the fine arts who has only one out of seven days to rest does not care to give it over in search of a new master.

Wants to Be Told.

He must first be told who the masters are, and when his paintings are on view he sees them as a matter of education. This view is believed to have been responsible for the falling off in attendance yesterday.

Among the most admired paintings, excepting the prize winners in the west gallery, were "Die Furian," by Franz Stuck, one of the collection of the International Society of Artists of London, on view in the east gallery, and the portrait of Mrs. Curtis by John Sargent, in the main gallery.

It is estimated that from 8:30 a. m., when the doors of the conservatories were opened, until 5:30 in the afternoon, when they were closed, no less than 20,000 people saw the chrysanthemums. This is a falling off of about 10,000 from the previous Sunday. The foggy weather, said Supt. George W. Burke, has caused the flowers to fade very quickly. Those now in the first show house will be removed today and replaced by ferns and begonias. The display will be entirely over by next week, Sunday being the last day for the public. Supt. Burke will leave here tomorrow night to attend the "Mum show of the New York florists.

Accessions to the Zoo.

Ernest Trefow, superintendent of the Highland park zoo, reports the birth of a grill baboon monkey, and the presentation of a seven-foot rattlesnake from Mr. F. W. Brockman. The reptile came from the everglades of Florida and is said to be a remarkable specimen. It is fully four inches thick and its head is easily as large as the hand of a man. The age of the snake is not known, as some of the rattlers are believed to be missing.

The Honess Sayda yesterday brought out her new cubs, Edytha, Tessie and Hans Wagner for the first time, and the fact that she would permit the public to gaze on her offspring was pretty widely advertised.

Edwin H. Lemare at his 616th free organ recital in Carnegie music hall yesterday afternoon included selections from Wagner, Bach, Weber, Handel, Wolstenholme and a delightful bacarolle of his own composition. The attendance was large.

ANNIVERSARY RECEPTION.
At the Merchants Saving & Trust Co.

Tomorrow, the 10th, at their handsome and commodious new banking house, Nos. 2410-1472 Fifth avenue, the "Merchants" will keep "open house" for their stockholders and patrons, as well as the general public, celebrating the first anniversary of the establishment of the company.

It is a pleasure to call attention to the success of this banking institution, to their splendid banking house, just completed, with its handsome marble and mahogany interior, its fireproof walls and incidentally to its capital and surplus of $400,000.00 and past year's earnings of $25,000.00. The officers and board will declare their first dividend January 1, 1904. Its success is flattering alike to its stockholders, and the management, who has given their business energies in unstinted measure to its upbuilding their wisdom in the construction of their building home as well in the rental of three upper stories as tenements thus making the cost of the bank's quarters nominal and giving them quarters second to none in the city in point of space and equipment.

The date of their first anniversary finds them in a very healthy and prosperous condition, with a large clientele and new accounts coming daily. The invitation to the public for tomorrow is cordial and all will be welcomed.

FIGHT RENEWED ON RAILROAD BILLS

Leaders of Hold-Up Now Demand Exorbitant Rental from Baltimore & Ohio Co.

MURPHY'S MOTION PENDING

Ordinance for Extension of Shops and Yards at Glenwood to Come Up First. Recalcitrant Orphans Now Ask to Be Forgiven.

The fight for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances will be renewed today in select council. John A. Murphy's motion to withdraw the street vacation ordinance for the extension of the railroad shops and yards at Glenwood is still pending in the upper branch and will come up the first thing under the order of unfinished business, unless the Citizens party leaders force an adjournment before the motion is reached.

At the last session of select council an adjournment was taken before a vote on the withdrawal of the Glenwood ordinance could be secured. If the Glenwood ordinance goes through an effort will also be made to withdraw the ordinance for the new B. & O. passenger station on the Monongahela wharf. Knowing that it would be unwise to hold up the station ordinance any longer, the Citizens party leaders have decided to pass it in such shape that it will not be acceptable to the railroad company. It is proposed to raise the rental to an exorbitant figure, so as to render the ordinance practically useless to the company.

The company has agreed to pay $10,000 a year for the privilege, but the leaders who have been conspicuous in the hold-up are talking of increasing the rental to $20,000 or $25,000. The company is now paying $4,000 a year and offers to pay $6,000 additional for the narrow strip that lies between the present station and the river.

The firemen will have a lobby at the meeting of select council this afternoon. The ordinance granting them an increase in wages will be received today from common council. It will probably be referred to the finance committee of the upper branch. The Citizens leaders are disposed to defeat the ordinance, claiming that there is not enough money in the appropriation of the fire bureau to meet the advances that have been allowed by common council. There promises to be a lively debate when the ordinance comes up in select council for final action.

The "Orphans" will begin a vigorous campaign in common council tonight. From now until the next February election the "Orphans" will be engaged in manufacturing campaign material to advance their political fortunes. The "Orphans," having severed all connection with the Citizens party, will keep "in the middle of the road" and go along with the Citizens or Republicans whenever it may suit their cause. While half a dozen of the "Orphans" returned to the Citizens fold just prior to the last election, they have asked to be forgiven and taken back, as they consider their best chances of being elected next February lies in taking a course independent of the Citizens party machine. Among this number are Jacob Soffel of the Thirty-second ward, and Frederick Beehner of Twenty-third ward.

Solicitor William B. Rodgers is expected to give councils tonight an opinion on the blanket ordinances for the public works and charities departments. They were sent to him at the last meeting for legal advice. The filtration resolution will also come up tonight for final passage.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

MURDERED BY PICK DRIVEN THROUGH HEAD

Four Persons Are Arrested on Charge of Killing Miner at Rice's Landing.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WAYNESBURG, PA., Nov. 8.—Four persons were arrested at Rice's Landing, this county, last evening charged with the murder of Alexander Jones, a miner who was employed by Dilworth Company's coal works. Jones' body was found in a field last Monday morning, the back of his head being crushed with a pick, the sharp point of which had been driven clear through his skull to the forehead.

Jones had been missing three days and the fact that the clothing on his body showed no marks of blood, convinced the coroner that he had been killed elsewhere, his clothing changed and his body carried to where it was found. His wife asserted that the last she had seen of him was on the afternoon of the Friday previous, when he started ground hog hunting. Blood was found on the stove and weatherboarding of the house where he lived, which was claimed by the inmates to be due to dressing rabbits.

An information was made by Constable A. G. Rex charging Elwood Loving, Thomas Loving, Daniel Jefferson and Mrs. Jones with the murder. The Joneses and Lovings lived together. Elwood Loving is single. Evidence has developed which leads to the theory that Jones was murdered for the purpose of securing $500 insurance which he had upon his life and that Elwood Loving and Mrs. Jones contemplated eloping after obtaining the money. The Lovings and Mrs. Jones moved from the house the day of the funeral, giving as a reason that they could not sleep there and Mrs. Thomas Loving alleged that Jones' spirit had appeared the night before. The parties are all in jail.

Quarrel Ended in Death.

ALTOONA, PA., Nov. 8.—Charles Imler, aged 19, was struck on the head with a club, it is alleged, by Homer Quarry, aged 25, at Woodbury, this county, late last night, and his skull fractured. Imler died this morning. The men, who, it is said had been drinking, quarreled over some trivial matter when Quarry dealt the death blow. Quarry escaped, but officers are scouring the country for him. Both men lived at Woodbury.

Aged Trio Celebrate Mr. Balph's Birthday

Mrs. Isabella Balph. Alexander Balph. Miss Susan Balph.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Alexander Balph, one of the oldest residents of Western Pennsylvania, celebrated yesterday at his home the completion of 91 years of life. Assisting him in observing the happy event are his wife, who is but five years his junior, and his sister, Miss Susan Balph, who is the youngest of the trio, at 84 years of age. Mr. Balph, with his wife and sister, is a member of the Second United Presbyterian church of this city, and has also been a Republican since the birth of that party, when he was already well advanced in middle age. He was born November 7, 1812, on a farm about five miles west of Butler, where his parents, James and Elizabeth Balph, settled shortly after Revolutionary days. He was married in 1829 to Miss Isabella Russell, who was born January 20, 1817, in Westmoreland county, England. She came with her parents to this country when she was but two years old and settled near the home of her future husband. They were married by the late Rev. Dr. William Findley, a celebrated minister of the United Presbyterian church, and the father of John Findley, formerly publisher of the United Presbyterian of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Balph first located at Mechanicsburg, Butler county, which is now known as Jacksville. There Mr. Balph engaged for many years in the tanning and shoe making business, but finally left it to become a farmer. About 20 years ago he retired on a competence from active business life and has since been living quietly in this city. The aged couple have two children, J. Russell Balph and D. F. Balph, both business men of this city.

The nonagenarian comes of a long lived family. His father died at the close of the civil war, at the advanced age of 82, and his wife, who was six months his junior, followed him to the grave two years later in her 84th year. Miss Susan Balph resided with her parents near Butler until their demise, since when she has resided here with her brother. Both the aged ladies possess excellent health, as did Mr. Balph until he tripped and fell recently at his home, since when he suffers much from nervous shock. All have excellent memories and many a happy hour is passed in the quiet family circle, discussing the events of days now long gone by. The celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Balph's fifth wedding anniversary four years ago, was a great event here.

CHURCH CORNER STONE LAID AT BEAVER FALLS

H. J. Heinz of Pittsburgh Delivers Address and Presents Relics.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 8.—The corner stone of the new church of the Methodist Protestant congregation of this place was laid this afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. The weather was beautiful and fully 3,000 people were present, including the Knights of Pythias and the Knights of Malta. The music was furnished by the church choir, assisted by the Nonpareil A. M. band. The Rev. A. C. Swift, D. D., pastor of the church, delivered an address, his subject being "The Corner Stone," and H. J. Heinz, of Pittsburgh, spoke on "The Relations of Business to Religion." The Rev. J. D. Moorehead, D. D., the Rev. G. G. Westfall, the Rev. C. W. Hunter, the Rev. A. E. Fletcher, the Rev. R. E. Mansell, D. D., and the Rev. John McKee took part in the exercises.

Among articles placed in the corner stone were the Bible and Hymnal, copies of the Beaver county papers, the church history, a copy of the Methodist Recorder and Methodist Protestant, charts showing of auxiliary societies of the church, relic of the rebellion, a piece of stone from Solomon's temple and relics presented by H. J. Heinz.

The church building will be 55x107 feet in dimension, constructed of grey sandstone. It is to cost $25,000. The corner stone laying services at the church at 2:30 o'clock were very interesting and were largely attended.

The church was organized by the Rev. S. F. Crowther, while serving as pastor of the New Brighton church. The organization took place in the little brick schoolhouse at Seventh avenue and Eighth street, May 23, 1869, the following persons composing the organization: Henry T. Reeves and wife, Charles Taylor and wife, George Zahlar and wife, Abijah McGrath, wife and daughter Agnes, Mrs. Catherine McGrath and Miss Howe.

The conference of 1869 returned the Rev. S. F. Crowther as pastor of the New Brighton charge and by his efforts, the Rev. John Hodgkinson was secured to take charge of the Beaver Falls work. During the spring of 1870 work on the church was commenced and on July 17, 1870, the church was dedicated. At the close of the conference year it was felt by the members of the organization that it should be made a separate charge and at the conference of 1870 it was set off as a mission with the Rev. W. J. Sheilan as pastor.

ROUNDHOUSE TO BE BUILT AT KISKIMINETAS JUNCTION

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—It is announced that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will erect a roundhouse and repair shops for the use of the West Penn and Buffalo & Allegheny divisions, at Kiskiminetas Junction. A large tract of land has been purchased as a site for the shops. A big transfer yard will also be built at that point. The shops will be used to relieve the crowded condition of the works at Verona, on the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley division, and at Blairsville, on the West Penn.

Injured Man Becomes Insane.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—An unknown Italian laborer brought to the hospital from Piedmont, W. Va., several days ago with his right arm so badly injured that it had to be amputated, last night developed insanity. Tearing away from his attendants he rushed through the building, falling down the stone steps leading to the street. Officer William Burrall took him back to the hospital. He became so violent that he had to be taken to the insane asylum.

Sentenced to Penitentiary.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Henry Betz, the would-be slayer of his mother and her husband, Thomas Rohan, convicted of assault with intent to murder, was yesterday sentenced to eight years in the Maryland penitentiary. and J. C. Gates of Charleston, W. Va., convicted of abduction, was sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary. The other cases against Betz for assault with intent to kill Rohan and the bigamy proceedings against Rohan were dismissed.

Dr. Evans' Bondsmen Released.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The circuit court has released the bondsmen of Dr. John M. Evans of Phoenix, Ariz., who was arrested here on charges preferred by Pittsburgh people regarding the stock of a mining company of Arizona. He was later released under habeas corpus proceedings and the case has never been tried. An attempt was made to have him brought back from Arizona, but it failed.

THE DEATH ROLL

Neis Peter Bergman.

Neis Peter Bergman, a leader among the Scandinavians of Braddock and vicinity, died at his home, 1104 Brinton avenue, Braddock, yesterday afternoon from necrotic action of the heart. He had suffered from asthma for several years. Mr. Bergman was 57 years old and was born in Stockholm, Sweden, coming to this country in 1873 and settling in Braddock, where he became influential among the Swedens and Norwegians. He owned one of the largest merchandise stores in Braddock. He was an officer and one of the organizers of the Scandinavian Brotherhood of America, belonging to the Vallyrian lodge of Braddock. He was married and is survived by his widow and one grown son, John, also of Braddock. The funeral services will be held Tuesday. He was a member of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church of Braddock.

John Harrison.

John Harrison, a member of a pioneer family of Braddock, died at his home, Sixth street and Hulbert avenue, Braddock, yesterday afternoon of locomotor ataxia, which he had contracted in his position as inspector foreman for the Duquesne forge at Rankin. He was 57 years old and was born in Braddock, where he spent all his life. He was well known and is survived by his father, aged 82, two married sisters and three brothers. He was a member of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, commandery No. 126, Knights of Malta, and the Odd Fellows. He was also a member of the United Presbyterian church. The funeral will be held at his late residence at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Peter Schmitchen.

Peter Schmitchen, aged 56 years, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 2011 Main street, Sharpsburg, after a long illness. Mr. Schmitchen was born in Germany in 1847 and went to Sharpsburg in 1858. He had been employed at the plants of the Moorhead Brothers, Sharpsburg, Spang-Chalfant company, Etna, and Pittsburg and Carnegie mill on Twenty-ninth street. He was a son of the late Nichol and Mary Schmitchen and a brother of John Schmitchen of Sharpsburg. A widow and eight children survive. Mr. Schmitchen was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church of Sharpsburg and of the Knights of St. George.

Miss Constance Maher.

Miss Constance Maher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maher of Pittsburgh, formerly of Altoona, died at St. Joseph's academy, Seton hill, near Greensburg, yesterday noon. She was 17 years old and had been a student at St. Joseph's for several years. Funeral services will take place Wednesday at 9 o'clock in Sacred Heart Catholic church, Altoona, to where the remains will be taken from the parents' residence, No. 730 Brown street, Sandyside.

Obituary Notes.

Alfred B. Charney, aged 73 years, died yesterday at his residence, No. 1407 Western avenue, Allegheny.

Mary Dimler Ernest, aged 68, widow of Louis Ernest, died yesterday at the residence of her son-in-law, John Hoerner, No. 2613 Bedford avenue.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Foster, widow of Jesse S. Foster, died at Steubenville, O., yesterday, aged 61 years. She was a daughter of the late Joshua Manley. One son, J. L. Foster, resides in Pittsburgh.

Miss Jane Murphy, formerly matron of the Cottage hospital in Mercer, is dead in Chicago after a brief illness. Miss Murphy resigned her position at the Mercer hospital and joined the Red Cross society when the Spanish-American war began.

Mrs. Cornelius S. Van Wagoner of Cleveland, O., treasurer of the international board of Woman's and Young Women's Christian associations, and intimately connected with the local organization, died yesterday of paralysis. Mrs. Van Wagoner returned from St. Louis last Wednesday and was taken seriously ill Thursday.

Mrs. Hattie Loar, wife of Capt. J. B. Loar of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., died yesterday after an illness of only six days, death being due to spinal meningitis. Mrs. Loar was a prominent member of the United Brethren church and she always took a leading part in the church work. She was 62 years old and is survived by her husband and one son, Dr. B. M. Loar.

RAILROAD MAN CHARGED WITH KILLING BROTHER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Nov. 8.—Two brothers, John Dougherty, aged 25, employed as Pennsylvania railroad track walker between Gallitzin and Bennis Creek, and Charles Dougherty, aged 28, employed in a like capacity by the same company between Cresson and Lilly, had a quarrel last evening near the home of their aged mother, with whom they resided, on the outskirts of Cresson.

John, it is alleged, shot at his brother five times, one bullet taking effect in the abdomen. His brother, it is said, let him lie at the scene of the tragedy, believing him dead, and went to work and reported his brother sick. Charles was afterward found and brought to the hospital, where he died this afternoon.

Before dying he became conscious long enough to tell of the crime. The brother is under arrest at Gallitzin

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—The city is suffering an epidemic of diphtheria. Some of the school rooms have been closed.

COAL CENTER, PA.—Barney Sloan, a well-known resident of this place, was struck by a train and instantly killed.

SHARON, PA.—Fred Radford, a well-known Sharon boy, reported to the police that he was drugged and robbed of $12 while on his way home.

STEUBENVILLE, O.—Carey M. Roberts, a well-known traveling salesman, was found dead in bed having died of neuralgia of the heart. He was 45 years old and his home is at Canton.

ALTOONA, PA.—The postoffice at Patton, Cambria county, was visited by robbers, who secured a shotgun and considerable small change belonging to William Green, the postmaster.

ERIE, PA.—County Detective F. H. Watson went to Cleveland and brought back Frank Bushey, aged 22, who confessed that he robbed the Moorhead residence near this city last Sunday. The house is a big country mansion which Bushey said he had no trouble in entering, single handed while the family was at church.

POLICE ARE BUSY WITH YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS

Six Boys Are Now Under Arrest, Four of Them Being Gathered in Yesterday—Robbery Is the Most Popular Charge.

Pittsburgh police have been kept busy recently arresting youthful offenders, the principal charge against them being robbery. Yesterday four young men were gathered in, and they, with two others arrested on Saturday, will be given hearings today. William Loftus, a 14 year-old boy of Mt. Washington was arrested at Sixth street and Duquesne way last night by Policeman J. C. Tanney. He had a dozen boxes in his hands and each of them containing a hand glass. The policeman found they had been stolen from a store in Sixth street that had been entered about 7 o'clock.

A little later the same policeman arrested Albert Augustine, of No. 3 Grandview avenue, and an hour afterward Special Officers Merritt and McCabe arrested Harry Kennedy at his home, No. 812 Second avenue, both of whom are alleged to have been with Loftus in the store. Both of them are the same age as Loftus.

August Loedding, aged 23 years, of No. 5413 Holmes street and Herman Finger, aged 16 years, of No. 5106 Lotus alley are locked up in police station No. 5. On election night young Finger was arrested by Capt. Peter Walsh on a charge of incorrigibility preferred by his father. The boy did not know what the charge was and confessed to Capt. Walsh he and Loedding had committed a number of small robberies.

On October 1, he said they looted a Polish boarding house at Fourty-eighth and Hemlock streets, securing a trunk which contained $20 in cash and a quantity of clothing. A week ago he said they broke into the butcher shop of S. J. Nikolalszk and stole a dressed sheep and $3 in change. Lieut. R. H. Robinson arrested Loedding on Saturday.

Harry Churchill, 13 years old, of Wilmerding, and Edward Hirsch, 14 years old, of Sharpsburg, were brought here from Zanesville, O., early yesterday morning by Special Officer J. J. Dillon. The boys had escaped from a local institution a week ago, where they had been placed a few days before by order of the juvenile court. No trace of them was found until the police of Zanesville sent word here on Saturday that they had arrested the boys there. They were locked up in Central station last night and will be again turned over to the juvenile court today.

DIPPOLD WAS PUPIL OF PERVERSE PRIEST

Learned Cruelties Practiced on Koch Boy While Attending Seminary.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The ultramontane New Bavarian Country Gazette of Wuerzburg today prints sensational disclosures according to which private tutor Dippold, the convicted murderer of Heinz Koch, who is now serving a ridiculously small term in prison for his crime, is a victim of a perverse Catholic priest, formerly attached to the Boys' seminary in Muennerstadt.

In this seminary, where Dippold was a scholar, ghastly things are said to have occurred. Editor Monninger learned of these occurrences through several university students who had formerly been in the seminary. He writes that he immediately notified the authorities of what he had learned, and duties the monk in question was given ample time to flee over the border before action was taken. The monk whose name is Sanktor, according to rule story, is responsible for the ruin of an entire generation of students in the school and was permitted to escape without punishment, while one (Dippold), who owes his entire downfall to him, is in prison and is disgraced for life.

Dippold, it will be remembered, beat his two little charges, Heinz and Jojo Koch, so dreadfully that Heinz died and Jojo could barely be saved from a similar fate.

PLEA FOR JAMAICA MISSION.

Christian Church Women Asked to Repair Damage Done by Cyclone.

Miss Elsie E. Taylor, appointed state organizer of the woman's board of missions of the Christian church at the missionary convention in Philadelphia last month addressed the women of the Bellevue Christian church last evening upon the work of the board in this state and in foreign countries.

Miss Taylor until this week was assistant helper of the Central Christian church of this city, which position she has filled for three years. In her address last evening she made an earnest appeal for help for Jamaica, where the board has its representatives. The cyclone there some time ago destroyed all the property of the mission board on the island. Miss Taylor also spoke of the records of the board in India under the direction of Dr. Mary Longdon, a native of Allegheny.

Mary of Magdala Tonight.

Mrs. Fiske's engagement in "Mary of Magdala," justly ranked as one of the most important dramatic events of the season, will begin at the Duquesne tonight. There has been a large advance sale and a brilliant and representative audience is assured. The curtain will rise on the three play potentially at 8 and the first act prologue-fifty years in the story occur at the opening of the first act, it is desirable for patrons to be seated at that time. Two carloads of scenery and effects reached here yesterday from Tecumseh, for with the mechanical force of the company. Last night this portion of the production was placed on the stage of the Duquesne. This morning another carload of scenery will arrive, as will Mrs. Fiske and the company.

Gas Pipe Burst and Caused Alarm.

The bursting of a gas pipe in the house of Rachel Browarsky, No. 2027 Penn avenue, caused an alarm of fire at 9:20 o'clock last night. No damage was done.

ONE VICTIM OF NEGRO'S BULLET WILL RECOVER

Two Transfer Company Employes Held as Witness of East McKeesport Shooting.

John Merriman of East McKeesport, who was shot in the back during the affray in front of the Hotel Victory late Saturday night, will probably recover. He is still at the hotel and will not be removed. The bullet lodged under the left shoulder blade and the surgeons have been unable to locate it. Merriman had just gone on to the porch to ascertain the cause of the pistol shot when the negro who had killed Timothy Dalton opened fire on him. The remains of Dalton have been removed to his late home, 10 Melrose avenue, East McKeesport.

The coroner viewed the remains and the inquest will be held next Saturday at 11 o'clock. N. J. Tetzel of the Wilson Transfer Company of McKeesport, who had hired John Swingler, the negro accused of the shooting, spent the night in jail at Wilmerding in company with Benjamin Underwood, another employe of the transfer company. Tetzel and Underwood were given a hearing yesterday morning before Justice Samuel Welty of East McKeesport, and each was held under $500 bond as a witness.

ASPECT IN LONDON.

Nearly All Loose Gold Has Been Cleaned Up to Send to the United States.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—There was no hammering on the stock exchange yesterday as there had been last Saturday and the outlook for the approaching settlement is not considered altogether a bad one. Although after the placid end of the October account there has been no material trouble there has not been any change either in the situation during the week. The American position caused much more concern than the continued negotiations in the far east. There is, however, still some uneasiness lest an outward incident should occur in the latter quarter.

Practically all the gold obtainable in the open market has been taken for New York and the renewed decline in American exchange is taken in some quarters to indicate that more bullion will have to be shipped across the Atlantic when common bills come forward. On this point there is a difference of opinion among the best authorities. The Economist believes the city money to the United States if something does not happen to give a shock to credit. If new runs upon the banks and trust companies of the interior should occur, the Statist, the New York associated banks might become severe and then it might become necessary to import gold from Europe, but gold will not be taken if it is possible to avoid it. Up to now gold has been bought in the open market in London for London, but none has been taken out of the Bank of England and none, the Economist concludes, will be taken out of the bank if recourse to that institution can be by any means avoided.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION.

Dr. Howard Will Open the Session in Pittsburgh Tonight.

The University Extension society will open its season of lectures tonight in Carnegie hall. George Elliott Howard, professorial lecturer in history of the University of Chicago being the lecturer for this course of six. Dr. Howard's subject tonight is "Oliver Cromwell—His Place in the History of Intellectual Progress."

Tomorrow night Dr. Howard will speak in the lecture room of Allegheny Carnegie library. His subject is, "Social Anarchy Forces Out a Union Settlement." Dr. Howard has written a number of works which are accepted as authority on history in all the leading educational institutions in the United States.

Top Notch
Butter Scotch
A new kind of butter scotch, made in a new way; a better butter scotch than you ever tasted. Better because it is nutritious as well as delicious; better because it's pure, wholesome. Try the following recipe and test its real goodness.
One cup of Karo Corn Syrup, one cup of granulated sugar, one-half cup of fresh butter. Boil until a small quantity dropped in cold water becomes hard and snappy. Do not stir while boiling. Add butter just before candy is done.
Karo
is decidedly preferable to any other syrups, which come to the consumer with all the dirt and dust the syrup measure has accumulated since its last use. Karo Corn Syrup is protected by airtight, friction-top tins, which preserve its purity, insure its cleanliness, guarantee its goodness. 10c, 25c and 50c, at grocers.

THE BIG SCHOOL GAME TO BE DECIDED TODAY AT FRIENDSHIP PARK

SHADYSIDE AND KISKIMINETAS ELEVENS ARE VERY CONFIDENT

Annual Game Today Has Big Bearing on Championship for This Section.

BOTH MEET PITTSBURGH H. S.

Few Changes Made in Line-Up of Each Team, the East Enders Having But One—Eddie Cramer to Officiate in the Game.

The Interscholastic and "Big League" Hockey Leagues Hold Meetings.

CHANGES IN SCHOOL LEAGUE

The Students Open Season December 5, and the Professionals December 1—Hamilton Is Chosen for the New President.

CONFIDENCE EXPRESSED BY THE CAPTAINS

"Shadyside should score at least three touchdowns, which means that we will win. Our team is in fine shape, and can go the route, and if Kiski wins it will be because they play better football. We want the championship again, and will get it."—Arch Williams, Shadyside captain.

"Of course, Kiski will win, but I do not care to predict by how many touchdowns. Shadyside will find that it will be the same old Kiski team that they will have to go against, and the Kiski spirit is, 'Always be in the game.' It is our turn to win, and we will take the championship."—F. Caughey, Kiski captain.

Shadyside Academy and Kiskiminetas Springs school, considered the two leading Prep. schools in Western Pennsylvania, will have their annual football game this afternoon.

The scene of action will be at Friendship Park, the Pittsburgh High school grounds, and the winner of the battle for which it will be, will have a strong claim on the Interscholastic championship of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. Both teams will play the Pittsburgh High school, and the title will be played for by these teams. In years previous Shadyside and Kiski have played two games each year, but this season the schedule shows but one game which hereafter will be an annual event.

Confidence of victory pervades the camp of each school, Shadyside, with its long string of victories from good teams, is much the more confident, and Capt. Arch Williams is of the opinion that his men will score at least three touchdowns, while Capt. Francis Caughey, a Pittsburgh boy who is the Kiski leader, is just as confident that his team will be returned the winner, but is not sure how many touchdowns his side will make.

Both teams will be in tip top condition when they go on the field and ready to battle for their lives. Shadyside spent the latter part of last week at hard work and the same thing was done at Kiski.

Kiski will, in all probability, start the game with the men who have been in the regular lineup all season, while the only probable change in the Shadyside line will be Rosser in place of Alan Donnelly at right tackle instead of Pierce. However, Coaches Young and Shotter have not announced the line-up definitely, but Donnelly has been tried at tackle and it will not be surprising to see him in the line when the kick off takes place.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock, in order to allow Kiski get an early train home. The only officials decided upon late last night were Referee Cramer of Greensburg and Hockenbury of Duquesne, and Arthur Poe, Princeton. The other official will be decided today when the coaches of both teams confer.

If there is any unpleasant feature to the game it will arise from the condition of the field, which has been very unsatisfactory since last Tuesday when the East End A. A. played W. H. P. When High school played the Pittsburgh College reserves Friday the field was in such a poor condition that good playing was almost out of the question. There were no lines, either in the field or along the sidelines and the field was very uneven.

The park is given to parties who are supposed to take care of it, but the High school football management and players are loud in condemning the manner in which they look after it. Prof. Cooper says "Shadyside would be better off were there no outside parties connected with the park. However, he has served notice on them to have the field in a respectable shape for the game this afternoon.

MANCHESTERS' OPENING.

Plays Fast Bellefield Passers at the Rafeigh—Partisan's Are Anxious.

A long looked-for and long expected event will be decided tonight in Lower Allegheny at the Raleigh corner of Locust and Market streets. For two or three months past the Rafeigh football talent have been answering questions relative to the first game, which has now stated to play, the date, etc. At last these questions can be answered in the affirmative. The game will be played tonight at 8 o'clock sharp. The attendance of tonight is expected to be of the record breaking variety as more than one team are interested. Manager Little will have several attendants to take care of the crowd and seat them so as to accommodate as large a number as possible.

The Manchester Hunters will play a preliminary with the Rafeigh team of Allegheny, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, and the big game will be put on the stage immediately after the completion. Both Manchester teams will appear in their new uniforms of orange and black. Lineup of the big game:

Manchester.		Bellefield.
P. Seibel	R. T.	Rosser
Koch	R. G.	Yeagy
Somers, Walliser	C.	Lury
Graham	L. G.	McCreight
McAbee, Burry	L. T.	Gross, LeMuth

WILL REORGANIZE TEAM.

Bellevue Outing Club Has New Coach and Will Finish Its Schedule.

On account of the poor showing made thus far this season by the Bellevue Outing club owing to the failure of players to report for practice and even games, and the failure of several leaders to put up a appearance on several dates, several officers of the club have resigned. Capt. Shaw, who was badly injured in the game with Ambridge, will not be able to play again this year.

At a meeting held at the clubhouse Saturday evening it was decided to arrange a new team, and which will be done at once with the assistance of several new players and the services of Allen Tate of Syracuse, who has offered to coach the team for the balance of the season. Manager Ed. Dalton has also been requested to write C. C. Zimmer, 1320 Penn building, or call 2801 Bellevue in every night and for games.

The following players are requested to be out for practice Tuesday evening: Snodgrass, Hickory, Bromley, Combs, Crozier, Pierce, Dalton, Clinton, Shaffer, Goldsborough, Moore, Wilson, McKeever and Somerville.

HOT SUNDAY GAME AT CANAL DOVER, O.

CANAL DOVER, O., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The hottest football game of the season took place here this afternoon on the Sunnyside grounds here on the Canton Interurban, championship of Stark county and the Dover giants, the champions of this county and Bowerston were bitterly contested and every inch of ground was fought for. The score ended in a tie, neither side being able to score a single point. The attendance was estimated by nearly 2,000 people.

MEETINGS ARE HELD BY HOCKEY LEAGUES

The Interscholastic Hockey league will open its season December 5, Shadyside and East Liberty academy playing. New rules are adopted by the league, which includes one covering the eligibility question. Garnet Sixsmith may be the official referee.

The Western Pennsylvania league will open its season December 1, but it is not known yet what clubs will compete. At yesterday's meeting a new president was elected.

The Interscholastic Hockey league season will be formally opened Saturday, December 5, when the Shadyside academy and East Liberty academy sevens meet at Duquesne Garden. The Western Pennsylvania championship season will be inaugurated December 1, but at yesterday's meeting at the garden it was not decided what clubs would furnish the attraction.

The captains of the Interscholastic league met yesterday at The Gazette office and talked over business and other affairs relative to the league. Manager A. S. McSwigan, of Duquesne Garden, assigned December 5 as the opening date for the school boys and if it was decided for Shadyside and East Liberty to meet first. These teams played the first game last year and East Liberty won.

The officials of the league decided on some important changes in conducting the league. Each team will be uniformed with their school colors, and they must at all times be neat and tidy. The practice of having outside players act as official judges will be discontinued. Hereafter responsible players from the league teams will serve. For instance: If Shadyside and East Liberty are playing, Capt. Spuhler and Herm Smith of High school will officiate as referees, Charlie Ahl and James McCutcheon, for Shadyside, when East Liberty is playing. High school and when High school and Shadyside are contesting Alex. McCracken and Capt. Bunton would serve, perhaps, as referees.

It was also decided that no player will be eligible to play in the league unless he has been a registered student one month prior to the opening game. Garnet Sixsmith, of the Wesleys team, will likely be the official referee.

There will be some lively hustling by the candidates for positions on the different teams, as many players of last year's sevens have been graduated. Capt. Spuhler and Herm Smith are the only old players left at High school. Shadyside has Arch Williams, Charlie Ahl, Kerr Lew, Edwards, Joe Bryant, Capt. Bunton.

The Western Pennsylvania league at its meeting elected Hamilton president, Charles Miller resigning. Another meeting will be held next Sunday when a committee on rules and schedule will report.

PREPARING BROWN'S RANCH.

Pittsburgh Horsemen Will Ship String to Mobile—Distemper Breaks Out.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The Mobile agents of Capt. Sam Brown, the Pittsburgh millionaire race horse fancier, have been requested to get his fine southern ranch known as Rosemont, in readiness for the reception of a string of horses any day. In response to this request hurried preparations are going on. The buildings are being overhauled, new fences put in oats and rye, and the quarters are being overhauled.

Capt. Brown writes Mobile that he does not yet know when the entire string will be shipped to that point or not, for the reason distemper has broken out in his stables. On this account he is doubtful whether the young foals, if shipped to the far south, would have time to recover and be put in proper training for the season of 1904.

However, it is evident that Capt. Brown proposed to winter and train a big string at Mobile, and it will be the best and busiest winter ever known at Rosembo.

LEECHBURG A. A. BEATEN.

Moxie Boys of Apollo Take Game by Score of 22 to 0.

APOLLO, Pa., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—The Moxie Boys of Apollo showed under their old-time rivals, the Leechburg A. A., here yesterday. The Leechburg aggregation was humbled by Reconstructed Moxie Boys' combination by a score of 22 to 0. The game was played on Bellefield park, in readiness for the reception of a string of horses any day. In response to this request hurried preparations are going on. The buildings are being overhauled, new fences put in oats and rye, and the quarters are being overhauled.

WILL SUIT GERMANS.

Route of Auto Race Will Be Arranged to Their Liking.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—(Special Cable.)—The route for the automobile race next year may be taken as one which will certainly be accepted by the German Automobile club. At the last meeting of the club it was announced that the French Automobile club had accepted the modification proposed.

Count Sternroff is starting at once for Paris to arrange with M. Rene Kuyff for the two principal points, which are, first, the provision that the chauffeurs driving in the race need not be wholly members of an automobile club, it being sufficient that they be nominated by it, and, second, to provide for an alteration of the deed of gift for a slight diminution of the distance.

STRUTHERS H. S. TEAM PLAYING GOOD BALL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Struthers High school eleven has developed into one of the strongest aggregations in this and of the state and yesterday it showed its mettle in defeating the New Castle eleven by a score of 15 to 0. New Castle team outweighed the Struthers team.

THREE PITTSBURGH BOYS ARE INJURED

DEPLORING LOSS OF RAFFERTY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—The freshmen football team, as well as the coaches, are much encouraged by the strong game they played against the Mercer Hill school eleven, at Pottstown, last week.

"Spook" McClintock at fullback was the best ground gainer, and backed up the line excellently, while J. Scott, Jr., another Pittsburgh boy, showed rare judgment and ability at quarterback. The three other boys, Sloan, Palmeyer and Zahniser, all from Pittsburgh, have injuries that will keep them out of the game with the Yale freshmen next Saturday.

The varsity coaches are deploring the loss of Rafferty every day, as they have no first class substitute for the guard position.

Two records were broken in the first regular test shoot of the gun team, Capt. Archer, the champion clay pigeon shot, breaking 49 out of a possible 50 birds, the old record being 47. The second record to go was the five-man team record at 10 bluerocks each, the new record of 47 supplanting the old one of 45. Five Shadyside men, present holders of the collegiate championship, former captain of the Shadyside academy gun team.

The opening speed trials of the Princeton Auto, on the new half-mile course, between Princeton and the Junction. The best time was made by H. C. Richards, 1906, who covered the distance on an Indian motor-cycle in :50 1-5. Childs, Frick's Chemical class, 1904, made his time :56 3-5. Other times were: Indian, :51 4-5; Ford, :54; Orient, :57 4-5; Orient (buckboard), :58 1-5. President J. H. Reed, Jr., did not enter his Orient.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

The Surban Reserves would like to hear from any 70 or 80-pound team for Thanksgiving day.

The North Side team will practice this evening instead of tomorrow evening. All players must report.

The Goehring Athletics would like to arrange games with all 85 and 90-pound teams. Address C. Freeman, 15 Florida avenue, Allegheny.

The Sharpsburg Tigers want games with any 90-pound team. North Side and Coraopolis preferred. Adress Robert A. Smith, Fifth street, Sharpsburg.

The Monarch A. C. of Knoxville would like to arrange a game for Saturday, November 14, with any 90 or 95-pound team. Address Fred Hartley, 44 Arabella street, Knoxville.

The Sewickley Y. M. C. A. team was disappointed in a game yesterday, the Bellevue Outing club failing to show up. The Young Sewickley goes to Franklin to play the strong Franklin eleven.

The champion Hazelwood A. C. would like to arrange games with all 60, 65, 70 and 75-pound teams. Address Lowell and Bryant A. C. preferred. Address William Bolthe, Hazelwood avenue, Hazelwood.

The McGunnigle Indians defeated the Brilliant team 5 to 0 on Saturday. The Morning Indians would like to hear from Idlewood Juniors and Superior A. A. for Thanksgiving day. Address P. Duffy, Sheridanville, Pa.

The Sewickley Y. M. C. A. (third team wants a game for next Saturday, with Sewickley with a 60 to 70-pound team, Bryant A. C. preferred. Call Bell phone 257, ask for Bartholomew, or address C. L. Beall, 621 Broad street, Sewickley.

Manager G. Price of East Homestead would like to hear from the manager of the Belmar A. C. for a game for next Saturday, the game to be played at Steel Works park, Homestead. Call up George Price, Bell phone, 112, Homestead.

Reliance claims the game from Wilmerding Juniors by the score of :6 to 0 for non-appearance. Reliance would like to hear from any good 70 to 80-pound team for Thanksgiving afternoon on Bellefield grounds. Adress Wm. Cole, 4512 Minerva street, city.

Sewickley Y. M. C. A. second team defeated the Oakland A. C. Saturday afternoon on the Schenley park oval 6 to 0. A long forward pass by Sewickley was good. Next Saturday the Sewickley team will play the Allegheny Preparatory school on Sewickley grounds.

The Millvale Amateurs played the Lyceum Juniors Saturday at Vermont park, the score being 5 to 5. The Amateurs would like to secure games with 80 to 90-pound teams for November 21 and 26 and Thanksgiving day. Address C. P. Ballantine, 403 North avenue, Millvale.

The manager of the Oak Leaves would like to hear from any strong 100 or 110-pound teams all parts of abroad. Crescent, Oakland and Beechwood preferred. All players are requested to report for practice Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Address T. McClure, 7 Hope street, city, or G. J. Smith, Bell 'phone 398-3 Grant.

Company F, Fourteenth regiment team would like to hear from all first-class teams for games on November 14 and 21, at their grounds, D. C. & A. C. parks, Wilkinsburg. Expenses to full for 14 men guaranteed and good treatment. Call up 524 East 8s A. or write to Charles W. Campbell, 7346 Hermitage street, East End.

The Duquesne High school team claims the High school championship of Western Pennsylvania and would like to arrange games with any high school team that disputes the claim. D. H. S. will probably play Washington H. S. Thanksgiving at Washington, which will be one of the hardest games. Address Norman Black or call Bell phone 14 ring 6, Duquesne.

The Crescent's manager is trying to bring the Flavel Tigers and his team together on the Saturday after Thanksgiving at Friendship park. The Flavels have won the sub-point championship for the past three years, and as the Crescents have not been scored against for two years in the 80 and 85-pound class, they are anxious to see what they could do in the 90-pound class.

Twin City would like all players to report for practice this evening without fail, or the team will disband. The players not reporting tonight will be cut out of the game between Sycamore and Twin City on November 14, and players must report every evening except Wednesday of this week. Twin City has one open date, November 21. Address Jas. Gibbons, Hoyt, No. 1248 Fifth avenue, Allegheny.

The manager of the Clipper A. C. wishes to state that the North Sides did not play a no-score game with them last Saturday, as the score was 5-0 in Clipper's favor. The North Sides left the field after the first half, claiming the touchdown was made after time was up. The Clippers would like to arrange another game with them to be played at Bellefield park. The Clippers are out for the 90-pound championship and would like to hear from the Avalons, Glenfield and Tarentum. Address all challenges to John J. McMahon, 2054 Pike street, Pittsburgh.

THE YALE COACHES ORDER TWO DAYS' HARD PRACTICE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 8.—Yale's football coaches have ordered two days of sharp practice to settle the makeup of the eleven which will face Princeton here Saturday. Then the team will be given the lightest of work before tackling the Tigers. Trainer Mike Murphy and his assistants made a thorough examination of the hospital corps tonight and report that every man will be on hand for next Saturday, except Owsley and he will probably be able to play although lame. Metcalf, Hogan, Soper and Rockwell are rounding into shape fast. Boomer has had four days of light work since his injury and barring another accident, looks certain to play in his old time form.

That Morton and Korabacek will be given their former places in the line tomorrow again after two days lay off is now practically assured. Not until after the gruelling practice of tomorrow and Tuesday will the back field make-up be settled.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Although the University of Pennsylvania eleven came through the Harvard game on Saturday in good shape the coaches have decided to have no practice tomorrow but will devote the time to the perfecting of Dame and Quigley. Quigley is unable to use any of their trick plays against Harvard for fear of losing the ball.

They play the Indians on Saturday and they are much alarmed over the strength of the Red men. In this game they will use all of their tricks. They are determined to beat the Indians as badly as they can in order to avenge last year's defeat and better Harvard's score against the Red men.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Princeton students were wondering today whether the work of the Tigers' eleven in yesterday's game means a stump or not. The score 11 to 0 was not taken into entirely in figuring on the chances of Princeton against the Elis. The coaches were far from satisfied with the work of the men and they intend to take drastic measures this week to strengthen the defense. The unexpected weakness at center and left tackle where Cooney and Butterlorio been a tower of strength has put the undergraduates in a state of despondency and it is safe to say that it will take better odds than 10 to 7 to bring out any Princeton money now. There are only three more days of hard practice and there is little hope that much improvement if any can be effected in the defensive play.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—While the Cornell football leaders regard the fie game played on Percy Field Saturday with Lehigh University as much the same as a defeat and while there is an atmosphere of gloom about the Cornell camp, Captain Hunt and the coaches will begin the week's work in preparation for the Columbia game on Saturday with undaunted spirits and while it is realized that the chances are against Cornell, it is believed that a victory is not impossible. The lineup against Columbia will be substantially the same as against Lehigh.

TWENTY THOUSAND PEOPLE CHEER LOU DILLON

Owner Billings Sends Her Over Speedway Four Times Before Enthusiastic Throng.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The largest crowd that ever gathered on the Speedway since its construction, visited the famous drive this morning to give Lou Dillon, 1:58½, the world's champion, and her owner, C. K. G. Billings, a reception on their return from Memphis, where Lou Dillon smashed all existing trotting records. It is estimated that fully 20,000 persons cheered them.

It was a cosmopolitan crowd, and probably never before did a champion receive such a royal welcome as that tendered the handsome chestnut queen of the trotting turf, as her owner stepped her down the stretch between two solid walls of humanity. It was a fitting ovation to the champion that has placed the world's record at a mark horsemen never dreamed possible, and whose performances are the talk of the entire horse world.

Lou Dillon stepped over the road on a log, and each time she passed the crowd Billings was forced to doff his hat a dozen times in acknowledgement of the applause. Four times Billings sent his champion over the road. The first time she was alone, but the second time when half way down the road the fast pacer, Mercury Wilkes, was sent after the champion, but Lou Dillon did nothing more than jog to keep ahead.

It was not Billings' intention to extend the champion, but when he found the mare going so smoothly the temptation was too great, and he sent her down the road in company with his fast pacer, Greenline, 2:07¾, driven by Doc. Tanner. The honors proved easy for Lou Dillon, who repeated her original performance. Those who witnessed the performance were all of one opinion—that Lou Dillon was a perfect pacing machine, her slow, sweeping stride carrying her over the ground at a terrific pace, but apparently without the slightest effort.

In each heat Tanner forced the pacer to his limit, while Billings sat perfectly still, driving his champion with one hand. Billings later drove his fast pacer, Hontas Crooks, and in an exciting brush, defeated his stable mate, Greenline, driven by Tanner.

ALL TURF ROADS LEADING TO COAST

Horsemen and Horses Arriving Daily at Oakland and Ingleside for Opening.

LEADING JOCKEYS ARE THERE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Nov. 8.—Horses are daily arriving in Oakland and Ingleside for the racing season, which opens here next Saturday. There are more horses on the ground and ready to race than ever before in the history of racing on the coast, and the prospects for a high-class winter meeting were never brighter.

The liberal stakes offered by the New California Jockey club have filled particularly well, there being 400 more entries than during any other season. High-class performers from the eastern and middle west tracks are named in the various events and prominent owners are represented.

The leading jockeys of the country will be seen in the saddle, among them Burns, Bullman, O'Neill, Higgins, Michaels, Rodgers, Hall, Ferrell, Gray, Johnny Daly and W. Knapp. The officials are about the same as last season. E. C. Hopper will preside and C. H. Pettingill will be his associate. Col. Fletcher will act as handicapper and Richard Dwyer and Jacob Holtman of Cincinnati will alternate as starters. Dwyer goes the season and will continue to preside at the barrier until Holtman reaches here from Latonia.

The weights for the opening handicap, at one mile, to be decided at Oakland next Saturday, have been announced. The event will be worth over $3,000 and a good field is sure to go to the post. Kenilworth is assigned top weight of 119 pounds, while Beau Ormonde is next with 118.

Following are the weights: Kenilworth, 119; Beau Ormonde, 117; Divina, 115; Claude, 114; Lucien Appleby, 112; Daisy Green, 111; Aibula, 111; Solon, 111; Eva G., 110; Futurity, 110; Ben Mate Dhui, 109; Carrie Nation, 109; Falconbridge, Jack De Mund, Horton, Huntsman, Mecharus, Hagerdon, Yellow Tail, Horatius, Princess Titania, Royal Rogue, Incubator, 107 each; Waite Night, Arabo, Dwyer, Grandstand, Royal Byron, Rose Bill, Massie, Jolly Roger, Lord Mal, Tenny, 105 each; Brake, Dalsity, Schreiber, 94 each; Alfredo, Piratess, Flush of Gold, Kitty Kelly, 103 each; Martimas, 102; Ishtar, Col. Roosevelt, 100 each; Jockey Club, Nilgrette, Forde, 97 each; Col. Van, 88; Marilla, Waterspurse, Queen, 97 each; Constellator, Arcade, 95 each; Lach Crawford, 94; Ultrads, 93; Carson Beauty, 92; Gorgalette, Grand Sachem, 90 each; Intravel, 87.

The colors of T. H. Ryan reached the Oakland track from Chicago yesterday. In the string are Instructor, Chaseur, Flyer, Ledus and another one. Lewis W. Casper, Carat and Instrument, owned by A. McAlester & Co., and Incubator, who will carry the colors of Frank Van Meter, were in the same car.

C. E. Durnell arrived from Chicago en route to Los Angeles. He has Golden Rule, Nitrate, Sir Hugh and five others. The entries for the Burns handicap have not yet been given out.

HERBERT REHEARSES FOR OPERA "BABETTE"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Victor Herbert, conductor of the Pittsburg orchestra, was here to witness the opening performance of his new opera, "Babette," which will be produced at the New National theater tomorrow night with Mme. Fritzi-Scheff as the star. Mr. Herbert is spending the night conducting the final rehearsals.

Speaking of the country he said: "The rickshaw is being done away with. When I left Japan 15 years ago there was about the only mode of travel, but now many kinds are being used. The advantage of the rickshaw has thrown about 2,000 men idle in Tokyo. The men who wheeled them are unable to get employment in Tokyo or other places. These men were mainly in the army. With the exercise of ratherto the rickshaw they were used to as members of the army equipment. The modern equipment requires horses. With that exception business in Japan is good."

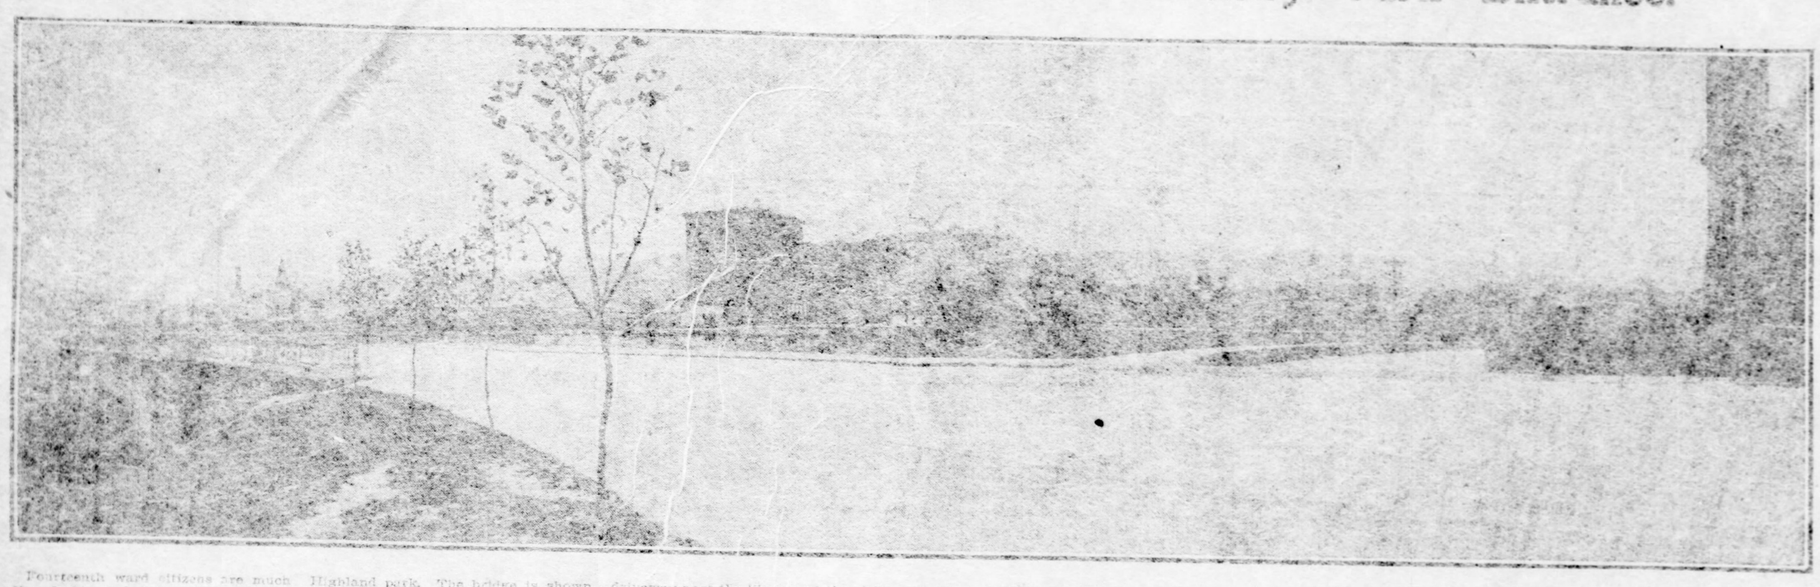
Stone Bridge to Be Removed From the Schenley Park Entrance.



Fourteenth ward citizens are much disturbed at the prospect of losing the handsome stone bridge that stands at the entrance to Schenley park, which Director P. M. Bigelow has declared he will remove to Butler street extension to make a new entrance to Highland park. The bridge is shown in the above photograph. It stands at the left side of the picture. The photograph was taken from the rear of the Carnegie library, looking northwest toward the Hotel Schenley and Forbes street. The Hotel Schenley is in the center of the picture and the driveway past the library on the right.

The bridge spans a deep ravine and is a massive piece of masonry. It cost the city $103,0 0, but cost the contractors who built it considerably more, they meeting with financial loss on the contract.

Director Bigelow returned from New York yesterday and admitted that he intended to remove the bridge.

"It depends upon what is put in its place," he said.

It is believed that Director Bigelow is planning to fill in the ravine and build the memorial arch for Mrs. Mary E. Schenley near the spot where the bridge now stands. It is believed that Mr. Bigelow's visit to New York was partly for the purpose of consulting Andrew Carnegie about the memorial arch for Mrs. Schenley.

Director Bigelow further intends to buy some of the abutting property on the west side of the bridge from the Schenley estate and convert the large unoccupied space between the bridge and Forbes street into a pleasure ground, studded with beautiful flower beds and lined with walks and benches for the people who find it too long a walk to get inside the present boundaries of Schenley park.

HUMAN EARS ARE WORTH A FORTUNE

Doctor in New York Wants Nice One for a Particular Friend.

ADVERTISES IN THE PAPERS

Office Besieged by 300 Persons of Every Race, Color and Creed Who Are Willing to Sell Their Aural Appendages—Prices $8,000 to $10,000.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 8.

Dr. A. L. Nelden of No. 13 East Twenty-ninth street was the busiest physician in the city today. His sudden growth of practice is due to an advertisement in which he offered $5,000 for the right ear of a healthy male or female, the only stipulation being that the ear should have perfect curves, a full lobe and be 2½ inches long by 1¼ inches wide. Dr. Nelden desires to graft this sort of an ear to the side of the head of a friend of his who lost an ear in a fight with a grizzly bear in Colorado.

When the doctor opened his office this morning, he found 30 persons in his waiting room and the sidewalk and steps leading to his house literally jammed with people who were willing to part with their right ears for a consideration.

In all Dr. Nelden examined more than 300 persons today, but of this number two only were selected as desirable subjects and one of these will be selected for the operation. All sorts and conditions of men presented themselves and not a few came from the region of the Bowery. Most of these were dismissed summarily. One condition of the offer is that the subject must have a perfectly healthful body.

As the day wore on the market rose in the price of ears. A man presented himself, who possessed a right ear, which he was willing to part with, but he wanted $8,000 for it, considering his personal beauty worth about that figure. A German, who had quarrelled with his sweetheart, was a schemer. He was willing to have himself disfigured to the extent of one ear in the hope that his Gretchen would have sympathy.

About 4 o'clock the market for perfect right ears went to $10,000, being bulled to that point by a dapper-looking chap in a high hat. His plan was to allow Dr. Nelden to chop off his right ear then and there, accept $10,000 for it and take a trip to Europe. He had even gone so far as to engage the services of an expert to make him a papier-mache ear and produced a plaster model of the ear he was willing to part with.

Next Friday Dr. Nelden will begin operation on one of the two men selected today. The lobe of the purchaser will be closely bound to the head of the seller of the right ear. One half the ear will first be separated from the seller and left to the proper place on the head of the buyer, after a few days the other half will be treated in like manner. The two men involved in the operation will have to lie on a specially constructed cot about two weeks.

NEW ITALIAN CHURCH.

Edifice Erected by the Efforts of East End Presbyterians is Dedicated.

The new First Italian Presbyterian church, Lehmer avenue and Mayflower street, East End, was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The dedicatory service, which was in Italian, was in charge of the Rev. Thomas C. Ricetti, M. D., the first pastor of the church. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. T. D. Witherspoon, Philadelphia. Short addresses of congratulation were also made by the Rev. A. Bellosse, of Farmdale; the Rev. J. Launitz, of Allegheny, and the Rev. L. Carrion, of McDonald in Italian, and the Rev. Raymond S. Holmes, of the Shadyside Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Frank C. Snee, of the Third Liberty Presbyterian church, in English.

The new church, which is the only congregation of the kind in Western Pennsylvania, was organized in 1896. It was started as a mission school by mission workers from the East Liberty Presbyterian church, and services for the Italians were held each Sunday afternoon in that church. After a few months the school was turned over to the Rev. D. C. Gibson and services were held in Italian in Center avenue and in Collins avenue. In 1898 the Rev. David Angiorna became pastor of the church, and in 1899 the present edifice was erected. The lot, which is directly in the rear of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company's offices, was purchased with the aid of the Pittsburgh Presbytery, the ground on which the new church stands was purchased and work on the new structure began in 1902. The new church is of pressed brick and stone, and will accommodate about 500 people. The church, including ground and furnishings, cost $18,000, on which a debt of $2,000 is still outstanding.

Contract for New Orphan Asylum.

The contract has been awarded for the erection of the superstructure of a Polish orphans' asylum at Ellsworth, which is to cost $100,000. Work will be started at once. The project is the outcome of the efforts of the Rev. Father Tomaszewski, pastor of the St. Stanislaus Polish Catholic church, at Twenty-first and Smallman streets. Foundations of the building are completed.

Y. M. C. A. IS NOW 37 YEARS OLD

Pittsburgh Association Celebrates the Anniversary in Alvin Theater.

DR. THOBURN, THE SPEAKER

For the First Time Local Man Makes the Annual Address—President Reads Encouraging Report—Annual Observance of Week of Prayer Begins.

Before one of the largest crowds in its 37 years of life, the anniversary of the Young Men's Christian association was fittingly celebrated last night in the Alvin theater, Sixth street. A distinct departure from similar celebrations was the presence last night as the principal speaker of the Rev. Dr. James M. Thoburn, D. D., a local minister. Heretofore the managers of the celebration have gone to other parts of the world to secure the speaker at the annual exercises.

Dr. Thoburn is pastor of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny. That the association made no mistake this year in its selection of him as speaker is amply proved by the strong address he made and the enthusiastic manner with which it was received. The celebration of the anniversary also marked the beginning of a week of prayer observed annually by the branches of the association throughout the world.

The exercises opened with an anthem by the choir of the First Presbyterian church, which was followed by the singing of a hymn in which the large audience joined. In the absence of the Rev. Maitland Alexander, D. D., the scripture was read and a prayer offered by W. K. Jennings. The annual report of the association was then read by President William D. Lyon.

An Encouraging Report.

The annual report showed that increases were made in all the departments of work during the year. There were 789 new members admitted, of which 489 were church members. The total membership at the close of the year is 2,824 and including all the branches, 4,815. Continuing, the president's report says:

The membership is made up of all classes and conditions of self-respecting young men, representing every religious denomination and engaged in almost every pursuit in life. Without any objectionable distinction, they have found an easy access to the bright and useful and wholesome benefit. Many of them have been attracted by the advantages offered for self-improvement and finding these all that they were represented to be, have profited by the opportunities and, soon learning that the spirit of the association is one of helpfulness to others, have united their efforts with those who sought the association as an opportunity to do good. And have contributed to the mutual welfare of the many young men constantly coming to the building.

The social life of the association is one of the strongest attractions. In its wholesome atmosphere the allurements of other places forgotten, and, it is love for the pure and true, the desire for evil is banished. During the evenings of the week, those used by many other agencies for the ruin of young men, our building is thronged to its utmost capacity with those who are earnestly seeking their best welfare, sincerely desiring to break with old associates, and who gladly turn to an opening to surroundings that are helpful to an upright, useful and honorable life. And it is for this continued from year to year, which makes it possible for us to provide them with the opportunities. The educational classes have been enlarged and a new class in Latin and one in stationary engineering and iron and steel have been added with a large attendance.

While property at Liberty and Seventh streets, purchased two years ago at a cost of $228,000, and which is leased to desirable tenants for short terms, brought to us after the payment of interest on the mortgage and all expenses for the year, a net income of $1,001. The purchase of this property was a wise provision for the future, and mention of this fact prompts us to again call to your attention the urgent need of a new building. With such a building as a generous fund would erect we would be enabled to benefit a greater number of young men than it is now possible to reach with our inadequate facilities.

The size of our city and its commercial importance justify us in believing that we should have a building of the first class. With the assistance of all the members and of all men and women interested in the aims and work of the association, we think this could be accomplished, without any solicitation. A few months have come to us, but many more should come in order to meet a purpose. Contributions in any sum will receive prompt acknowledgment from the treasurer and will be held in a separate fund by the board of trustees and increased with interest and when a sufficient amount is reached work will be started on the building.

The audience joined in the singing of a hymn, after which Dr. Thoburn delivered the annual address, which was in part as follows:

The Young Men's Christian association represents the knighthood of the church. No empty sepulchre do they seek to rescue from infidel hands, but life empty hearts and lives they would carry the more abundant life of Jesus Christ. The association is not a new church, but the ministering servant of all the churches, sent upon the Master's errand. It is Christianity in earnest, a city of refuge for young men. A moral rendezvous for all classes. It has been a rallying point for railroad men ever since the Pacific road was built. Sixty-five thousand men have left the ways of sin at the Calvary Junction, and are on the upline to heaven. No more with engines, misplaced switches, phantom signals and loaded safety valves for them. Nothing but white lights clear through.

It was a great thing when Stanley found Livingstone in the wilds of Africa, but it was a greater deed when Moody found Henry Drummond in the old Scotch university and with the breath of God called him from aimless years to the many sided ministry of his all too short life. There are today through the work of the Young Men's Christian association 40,000 students in all institutions of learning, who are sitting at the feet of Jesus.

What a war record the association has had! From the days of the christian commission in the civil war, down to the recent period when with their colored flag they followed the soldiers and sailors in our conflict with Spain. Wherever young men go for country or commerce or culture, there this association has a mission. Over the entire life, religious, mental and bodily, the Young Men's Christian association has thrown the seamless robe of the Nazarene. It has belted with songs and testimonies and prayers this old world until to the new enthusiasm of humanity, modern prophets see the kingdom of God on earth.

The Jesus, around whom this wonderful brotherhood has been centered, has a message for all who are in any way the keepers of their brethren. There are many in this city for ruining young men, to match this one whom they may be helped to respectability and eternal life. Oh, that those who are building the monuments of our greatness might realize their opportunity for shaping the future of the city for righteousness.

A generation of pure, strong young men is the need of the hour. Our hope for tomorrow is not in sky-scraping buildings, standing like granite hills against storm and time, but in the young men whose hopes are above the clouds, on whom falls the white light of the eternal throne; young men who stand four square amid the hypocrisies and perplexities and the deafling impulses of our easy-going social life. In these days of centralization we need a trust for the protection and redemption of young men.

Every good citizen should join hands with the Young Men's Christian association in its helpful endeavors to befriend the rising youth.

Following the address a collection was taken and the celebration concluded with the rendition of a hymn.

Prayer meeting services will be held every afternoon this week at the association building, Penn avenue and Seventh street, between 12 and 12:40 o'clock. The speakers and their topics are as follows: Today, the Rev. Dr. Wallace G. Partridge, "The Hearer of Prayer." Tuesday, the Rev. Ernest M. Paddock, "The Hour of Prayer." Wednesday, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Leak, "The House of Prayer." Thursday, the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Hunter, "The Habit of Prayer." Friday, the Rev. Alonzo J. Turkle, "The Helper of Prayer." Saturday, the Rev. William J. Reid, Sabbath school lesson.

ERECT WATER FOUNTAIN.

The Rev Dr. Young Wants a Lasting Memorial to Mrs. Schenley in the Park.

The Rev. S. Edward Young, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Penn avenue and Seventh street, preached a sermon yesterday morning in which he paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Mary E. Schenley, who died last Wednesday. It was Dr. Young who originated the Sunday services in Schenley park. He said in part:

She wrote no book. She made no speech. She built no edifice. She shone at no social function. Half myth to our present Pittsburgh population, seemed her faraway, impersonality. Yet long as mortals walk these streets will praise shall be upon their tongues concerning the doorway of No. 14 Princess Gate, Hyde Park, London, I unveiled at the simple state of this multimillionaire. We cannot add a tablet to her fame, but we must do aught why not right at Schenley park entrance an ice-cool fountain the water filtered crystalline and germless, where the ever-passing thousands may drink to her memory and live the name of that foremost friend of Pittsburgh, that queen of philanthropists, Mary Elizabeth Schenley?

RABBI LEVY ON "MOBS."

Violence by Them is Unpardonable Where Law is the Supreme Authority.

The third lecture of the third series of Sunday services before the Reform congregation Rodeph Shalom, Eighth street below Penn avenue, was given yesterday morning by the Rev. Dr. Leonard Levy. The subject of the address was "Mobs" dealing with some historic insurrections, raids, riots and other such evidences of the mob spirit. Dr. Levy said in part:

Mob violence is a symptom of decaying government, or a lurking protest against the maladministration of justice or unrestrained indulgences of brutal passion. It is unpardonable in a nation where law is the supreme authority. In this land, at least, patriotism must take the expression of respect for law. Where the law is bad it must be amended by the will of the people in whose power rests the inalienable right of self-government. Where the law is good, only self-destruction can be the outcome of defying it by inciting the passions of the mob.

HAVE POWERFUL FRIENDS

Association of Workers Is to Insist That Employers Shall Meet Employes Half Way—Better Law Than That of Supply and Demand Is Cited.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 8.—"On the horizon there are hopeful signs that the lot of the laboring man will be bettered. Already we have that manly man, Senator Hanna, and President Roosevelt, as the friends of the honest laborer; and Bishop Potter and Archbishop Ireland speak strongly of sympathy and give us good counsel. When nation, church and organized labor join they will bring this country of ours to its intended destiny," said Theodore J. Shaffer, national president of the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers union at a mass meeting here this afternoon. "It is not the purpose of the honest labor leaders," he said, "to form local unions simply to clamor at the door of the office for wage increase, nor to harry the men into a strike to test their power, nor to dictate how a shop or mill shall be managed. But organized labor can perform the unfinished work of church and state, can be a social uplifter by insisting that nobody shall tear down unless the purpose be to build stronger, loftier and better; by insisting that employer and employe meet half way, so that commercial and industrial relations may remain untrained. Employers are beginning to see that a better law than that of supply and demand is the law of purchasing power. They see that by paying fair wages to the laboring class they are creating a consuming class and business is improved."

Mr. Shaffer said he hoped that those departments of his own association which now insist on a work day of limited hours shall not also insist on a limit of output, but will be convinced of the unfairness of that policy and abandon it.

Father Said He Was a Loafer.

James Carney of Lamont street was arrested on complaint of his father, who called him a loafer and said he laid about the house drunk. He was fined $25 or 30 days to the workhouse yesterday.

MUSIC AND RELIGION BLENDED AT THE BIJOU

The first of the series of Sunday afternoon meetings conducted by the Rev. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, was held yesterday at the Bijou theater. If yesterday's meeting is a criterion, the others will be wonderfully successful, for the theater held an enormous audience and the congregational singing was inspiring in excellence and volume.

The program of vocal and instrumental music was well rendered, and the audience would more than once have broken out in applause had they not been restrained by the request of Mr. Young that they remember the occasion and refrain from hand-clapping. The impression had gone out that the meeting was for men only, but the notice in The Gazette that this opinion was erroneous had served to bring out a large contingent of women. No one under 14 years of age was admitted without a responsible escort.

Among the features of the meeting were the singing by the trained choir of 100 voices under the direction of Prof. Tali Esen Morgan, a violin solo by Adolph Rosen, the "Inflammatus," by Mrs. Gay Snyder Brown and chorus, and "He Is Tenderly Calling," by Mrs. Brown. Miss Helen M. Wickersham was the accompanist. "Ben Hur" was reproduced by stereopticon. Pastor Young spoke from the text, St. Luke 19:10, "The Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Next Sunday afternoon the chorus will be robed in handsome gowns.

BISHOP HARDY PREACHES.

Three Sessions of the Parent Mite Society of A. M. E. Church Held.

Large congregations attended each of three sessions held by the Women's Parent Mite society, in Bethel A. M. E. church, Wylie avenue and Elm street yesterday. Many out-of-town visitors came to spend the day and to these dinner was served in the church by the ladies of the congregation. At the morning service Bishop James A. Handy, of Baltimore, delivered the sermon, taking as his text the 150rd psalm. His topic was "Glory to Mercy."

During the afternoon the Sunday school was addressed by Bishop W. B. Derrick, of New York; Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsey Davis, of Chicago, and Miss Mattie E. Brown, of Washington, D. C. A memorial service was held in honor of those members of the society who died during the past four years. Addresses were made by Mrs. Mary Ann Stansbury, Philadelphia; Mrs. Rosa Johnston, Cleveland; Mrs. Grace P. Offer, Pittsburgh; Miss Hollie Q. Brown, Wilberforce, O., and Mrs. Carrie C. Cuff, Philadelphia. Last night religious services were held, Bishop Derrick preaching the sermon.

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD BY CATHOLICS

Bijou Was Filled With Friends and Relatives of Deceased C. M. B. A. Members.

Impressive memorial services in honor of deceased members of the advisory council of Western Pennsylvania of the Catholic Mutual Beneficial association were held last night at the Bijou theater. It was the second occasion of the kind, the first memorial services of the C. M. B. A. having been held last year.

The theater was well filled with members of the association, their relatives and friends, and the instrumental and vocal selections and the addresses in memory of the departed held the attention of all until the end. The stage was decorated with a black pedestal surmounted by a purple cross.

B. J. Devlin, the president of the advisory council, opened the meeting with an explanation of the reason for holding the memorial services, and he was followed by Father Lawrence A. O'Connell, who first said prayer for the dead and then followed with a brief address, in which he said that the custom of honoring the dead was an old one, to which Christianity had added prayer for the souls of the departed.

J. B. Leonard spoke words of consolation to those of the relatives of the dead present, and J. B. Drew told of attending the memorial services of President McKinley. Father Augustine, O. M. C., was the last speaker, and he dwelt upon the beauty of the Catholic idea of praying for the dead and explained that the memorial services were not a substitute for the regular Catholic custom.

The Misses Mary and Eunice Harsilus sang as a duet, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "The Fisherman," L. A. Mamaux sang "The Unseen Kingdom," and the Bookmyer orchestra played several selections.

TO ELECT OFFICERS.

Bartenders Will Appoint an Assistant Business Agent.

The annual election of officers for Local No. 118, International Bartenders' union, will take place November 20. The election promises to be interesting from the fact that a new office is to be created, that of assistant business agent.

John Miller, who holds the presidency and business agency, demands assistance, as the local extends over most portion of the country. James Connelly, at present vice president, has announced himself candidate for the position and James Dunbar is also out.

Colored Womens Club Organizing.

Representatives of the Colored Women's clubs of Pittsburg and Allegheny will meet in Grace Presbyterian church, Arthur street, at 10 a. m. tomorrow and endeavor to organize a branch of the State Federation of Colored Women's clubs. Miss Elizabeth Lindsey Davis of Chicago, the national organizer, will be present.

IRRIGATION DOES MUCH FOR HAWAII

Production of Sugar Has Been Greatly Multiplied by Means of It.

CROP THIS YEAR 420,000 TONS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.

The announcement that the Hawaiian sugar crop of 1903 is 420,000 tons, or 840,000,000 pounds, lends special interest to some figures recently presented by the Department of Commerce and Labor, through its bureau of statistics, covering the growth of sugar production in Hawaii under the close commercial relations with the United States established by the reciprocity treaty in 1876, and further developed by annexation in 1898. These figures show that the sugar production of Hawaii in 1903 was practically 35 times as great as that of the period immediately preceding the reciprocity treaty. Prior to the establishment of the reciprocity treaty of 1876 the sugar production of Hawaii averaged 25,000,000 pounds per annum. Within two years following the reciprocity treaty the production had doubled; by another two years it had quadrupled. By the end of the first decade under reciprocity it was nearly ten times as great, and the growth during the entire period has continued at a very rapid rate. The rapidity of growth in sugar production in Hawaii during the period under consideration is shown by the following figures of production at decennial periods:

	Pounds.		Pounds.
1862	114,109,180	1903	840,000,000

It will be seen that the increase in the decade from 1872 to 1882 was nearly 100,000,000 pounds, from 1882 to 1893, about 200,000,000 pounds, and from 1893 to 1903 about 500,000,000 pounds.

Results of Irrigation.

The development of sugar production the first decade was in bringing under cultivation lands capable of producing sugar without irrigation; during the second decade irrigation was applied in the least difficult sections; during the third decade the development of irrigation and application of high-grade modern machinery to production greatly developed. The irrigation system now applied in Hawaii is of great importance and has brought under cultivation large areas which were absolutely valueless for sugar production without the application of water by artificial methods. More than one-half of the sugar of Hawaii is now produced from irrigated lands.

In this development of Hawaiian sugar production American capital and American energy have been the chief factors. A statement recently received from a high authority in Hawaii by the bureau of statistics indicates that about $100,000,000 of capital from the United States have been invested in Hawaii since the reciprocity treaty in 1876, a large part of this having been so invested since annexation in 1898. This development since annexation, in the increased investments in capital from the United States and its application to irrigation in its highest forms has resulted in an increase of more than 50 per cent in the sugar production of the islands, the production of 1897 being 562,000,000 pounds, that of 1903, 840,000,000 pounds.

Hawaii Stands Third.

The Hawaiian Islands now stand third in the list of sections producing cane sugar for exportation. Curiously, all of the great cane sugar exporting spots of the world are islands. Cuba stands at the head of the list, with an annual exportation under normal conditions of over 2,000,000,000 pounds; Java next, with an average annual production of 1,900,000,000 pounds, while the Hawaiian Islands have now nearly reached the 1,000,000,000 mark. China and India are also large producers of cane sugar, but consume practically all of their production, their exportation being small.

Sugar production in the Hawaiian Islands have developed much more rapidly during the last thirty years than in any other cane-producing section of the world. The production of Java grew from 482,820,000 pounds in 1875 to 1,887,896,000 pounds in 1903, or less than five times as much in 1903 as in 1875. Cuba has increased its production from 1,736,000,000 pounds in 1873 to 2,188,000,000 in 1903, while that of Hawaii, as already indicated, has grown from 23,000,000 pounds in 1875 to $40,000,000 in 1903. Thus, Java's production is now less than five times that of 1875; that of Cuba has increased less than 50 per cent, while that of Hawaii is about 35 times as great as in 1875. Meantime, the cane-sugar production of the world has grown from 1,792,000 tons in 1872 to 4,118,000 tons in 1903 having about trebled during that period. The beet-sugar production of the world has grown from 1,210,000 tons in 1875 to 8,520,000 tons in 1903, being about four and one-half times as much in 1903 as in 1873.

Hawaii's share in supplying the sugar consumption of the United States has increased very rapidly since the reciprocity treaty of 1876. Prior to that date sugar imported from Hawaii formed about 1½ per cent of the total importation, while in the fiscal year 1903 Hawaii supplied about 15 per cent of the total brought into continental United States.

The following tables show the sugar exportation of the Hawaiian Islands from 1873 to 1903, and the total crop from 1893 to 1903, the figures of total production for the earlier years not being available:

THE DOCTRINE OF THE MILLENNIUM

Pastor C. T. Russell, in a Discourse, Points Out Its Reasonableness.

POPULATION OF THE WORLD

Figures Are Given to Disprove the Contention That "All the Dead Were Restored to Life, the Earth Could Not Accommodate Them.

Before the Bible House congregation, Pastor C. T. Russell delivered a discourse yesterday afternoon on "The Reasonableness of the Doctrine of the Millennium." The text was taken from Matt. vi:9-10. "After this manner, therefore, pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth as it is done in heaven." Pastor Russell spoke as follows:

The latter part of the text is the particular topic for this afternoon: "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." We are not in those who oppose the doctrine of the coming kingdom with the objection that it would be a reflection upon our heavenly Father to accomplish the thing which has been declared, that the kingdom would forever come, that the blessing of all the families of the earth would be an impossibility. We want, therefore, to discuss that feature of the subject first. We want to examine some of the objections that are stated—"this or that" for instance, as it respects to the impossibility of the earth accommodating all the families of the earth if they were restored. Some think the argument that it is impossible to have the restitution of all things which God has spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began," as the Apostle mentions. The words of the critic are these:

"This millennial doctrine encounters a very serious difficulty. If the world's population had doubled each century for the past 60 centuries, as the present estimate—the present population of the earth would be two and one-third quintillions of people. That would cover over the 50,000,000 square miles of land surface of the globe with people as thickly as they could stand, 4,000 to the square foot, each were 5 feet high, they would reach up above the sky nearly four miles. No doubt people enough have been born to make that number."

The above remarks were addressed by the Rev. Dr. R. S. Eaton to the Methodist Episcopal ministers of Pittsburgh, at a meeting held April 27, 1903. The remarks were published editorially by the learned gentlemen present and brought so highly of that it was printed for circulation six months later, on October 29, 1903, among the clergy. Dr. R. S. Eaton, in debate with the present speaker, in the presence of the above as applied to his method of calculation, but revised his figures as to the total humanity for the past 6,000 years. As illustrating Dr. Eaton's concession we place his figures side by side:

First statement	2,333,333,333,333,333,333
Second statement	98,095,999,999,999
Shrinkage in 6 months	2,235,234,255,033,333,334

A Defense of the Truth.

Let us hope that a man of so liberal a mind and so easy a pencil may yet get to see the question he is discussing in its true and reasonable light. Let us hope, also, that the intelligent, though deluded, clergymen, who so innocently swallowed the first exaggeration will be as ready to weigh the question on the subject as they were to accept the error. This and our thought to speak slightingly of any one's honest endeavor to ascertain truth, we have expressly said we may err in his attempts; neither do we object to any and all rational criticisms, but extravagantly erroneous statements have been so freely made by men of culture, reputation and deficient comprehension, that, in justice to the cause of truth and for the assistance of the unlearned and non-professional, that this matter be critically examined. Our statements, therefore, are not those of a professional, but a general criticism of all the learned who have talked so foolishly upon this subject. Evolution and his figures merely come in consideration at the present time. Our criticisms apply equally to the thousands of other heads which have similarly misapprehended the truth on this subject.

In offering the reasonable figures for the total of humanity who have ever lived on this earth let us give a simple illustration of the inaccuracy of Dr. Eaton's computations that will be proof positive of the inaccuracy of his figures. We intended to refer to everyone possessing a sufficiency of gray matter to be able to reason on any subject. Any one can demonstrate this matter for the least for the argument that it is impossible to have the "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began," as the Apostle mentions. The words of the critic are these:

"This millennial doctrine encounters a very serious difficulty. If the world's population had doubled each century for the past 60 centuries, as the present estimate—the present population of the earth would be two and one-third quintillions of people. WALL STREET IS WATCHING DIAL OF STEEL BAROMETER hewal of Liquidation in United States Steel Due Incorrect Deductions from Recent Cut in Price of Billets and Other Products.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

YORK, Nov. 8.—In connection iron and steel industry, Wall d, for that matter, the entire y, is deep grounded in two con- The one is that this metal ful utility is the barometer of nd that advances and declines product or finished commod- th with the same accuracy as instrument the elevation or the adversity or prosperity, or fair weather of general The other, set forth originally matic style by Andrew Car- eat iron and steel must be or pauper, which according on acceptation of this figure only another way of saying stry is either highly pros- erely depressed. ortunate, perhaps, that the phices a literal interpretation o generalizations. A barom- instance, requires adjustment ydrographic office from time to correct errors. On occasions adings of the glass are confused pumping" or gusty winds and show ndition which is not a true index atmospheric pressure or impending terological change.

No doubt the resumption of liquidation United States Steel Corporation se- urities is disquieting to many of the mall holders among the 80,000 or 90,000 of those who consider themselves part- ners with Mr. Morgan and Mr. Carnegie in the enterprise.

But the case is by no means hopeless, for all that. Readjustment of prices must come in every form of finished iron and steel. The billet is the unit of value in the steel industry and the cut in price there will determine the price elsewhere. Those foolish persons in Wall street who took the total output of billets by tons and multiplied it by 34 to determine the basis for computation does not exist, for the corporation mines and cokes and manufactures and transports and buys and sells among its constituent plants. Added profits in one direction may compensate for loss elsewhere. The net reduction in earnings, if the figure could ever be reached, will be distributed over the entire ultimate output, not to billets alone. For instance, if rails can be maintained at $28, while billets are reduced from $27 to $25, there is an apparent increased profit on rails of $1 a ton. Few persons, of course, believe that rails can long be maintained in price now that billets have been cut, and any railroad officials placing orders at the old figures when the raw product is reduced, ought to be a proper subject for investigation.

The reduction in the price of billets attracts more attention now than ever before in consequence of listing of the stocks of the giant corporation on the exchange. Anything which to the remotest degree bears upon the earnings of steel properties finds instant reflection in the price of shares. Wall street has lugged its barometer into the stock exchange and is watching the needle on the dial in a manner which was impossible a few years ago. The effect of the cut, however, gains force because only as recently as September 17 the billet pool gave consideration to the subject of price reduction and formally decided to make no change, despite the fact the independent manufacturers were selling under the pool price. It naturally occurs to anyone who gives the matter consideration that the condition of the industry must have changed radically for the worse during the interval, for in the meantime numerous products other than billets have been reduced and cuts to make sales abroad have been far more drastic than any reported at home.

In considering the price of steel products and that in steel securities, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that Wall street is viewing the subject more from the standpoint of the stock market than anything else. Of course, this is unavoidable, in view of the fact that the modern corporation was capitalized on the basis of earnings, and not on the value of the plants.

In the case of the Steel Corporation, the capitalization was swollen to such enormous proportions by taking over the constituent companies, which in themselves were over-capitalized, that a comparatively slight reduction per ton in the value of finished products, unless accompanied by compensating reductions in labor and manufacture, will work serious losses. If the question of disproportionate capitalization did not enter so largely into the proposition, Wall street would have little occasion for serious apprehension over a reduction of $4 a ton in steel billets and the other price readjustment. The decline might be taken as an evidence of business contraction in iron and steel, but $25 a ton for billets would not be regarded as foreshadowing serious difficulty.

The United States Steel Corporation, with its large capitalization, is an industrial experiment, one which, within the next two years, will doubtless be severely tested. How the great industry will act independent of the capitalization was clearly enough set forth in President Schwab's letter to Mr. Frick when the plan to capitalize the Carnegie Steel Company was being agitated. Under the date of May 15, 1899, and steel billets in November of that year were selling as high as $30 50 a ton, Mr. Schwab said:

"As to the future, even on low prices, I am sanguine. I know positively that England cannot produce pig iron at actual cost for less than $11 50 per ton, even allowing no profit on raw material, and cannot put pig iron into a rail for less than $7 50 a ton. This would make rails at net cost to them $19.

"We can sell at this price and ship abroad so as to net us $16 at works, for foreign business is nearly as good as home business has been. What is true of rails is equally true of other steel products. As a result of this we are going to control the business of the world. You know we can make rails at $12 per ton, leaving a nice margin on foreign business. Besides this, foreign costs are going to increase year by year because they have not the raw material, while ours are going to decrease. The result of this is that we are going to sell our surplus abroad, run our works full all the time, and get the best practical costs in that way."

Probably if Mr. Schwab were writing the letter today he would be forced to admit that the cost of manufacturing a steel rail, instead of decreasing, had increased a trifle. However, allowing $6 a ton or 50 per cent for the increase, which is excessive, steel rails, according to the figures exchanged between Mr. Schwab and Mr. Frick, would cost $18 to produce, leaving the net profit of $10 a ton to steel rail manufacturers.

It is thus clear enough that the steel industry, protected by a tariff of $8 a ton or thereabouts on finished products, may continue highly prosperous at prices far less than $28 for billets and $28 for rails. It appears, therefore, that it is capitalization and not the industry that gives concern.

GRAIN MARKETS CLOSE AT A LOWER FIGURE

Wheat Was Easier Due to Liquidation by the Holders of the December Option.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—December wheat was offered quite freely at the start on large receipts in the northwest and there was also good commission house sales of that commodity which resulted in the losses early in the day. December opened a shade to 4c lower at 78½@78¾c, and before the end of the first hour the price had dropped to 76½c. Toward the middle of the session a good scattering demand developed and with outside markets showing some advance and with predictions of unfavorable weather the market assumed a brighter aspect and the early loss was all regained. Reports of a small export business at the seaboard caused further liquidation late in the day and prices again eased off. The close was at the bottom. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 461,800 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,908,800 bushels, against 1,614,400 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 975 cars, which, with local receipts of 61 cars, left contract grade—made total receipts for three points of 1,070 cars, against 1,022 cars last week and 1,376 cars a year ago.

Corn did not receive any particular support and prices ranged. Fine weather made the pit mood somewhat bearish and there was scattered selling by local traders who deemed it best to even up over Sunday. Export sales of four cargoes were little larger. Local receipts were 337 cars, with 17 of contract grade.

Oats ruled a little easier along with wheat and corn, but local traders showed little disposition to take the selling side of the market. Cash houses were fair buyers of December. Local receipts were 279 cars.

With the exception of lard, provisions ruled easier. There was some buying of lard at the start, but from the action of the other hog products it looked as if lard was being supported in order to make a better market upon which to unload. There was considerable selling of pork by first holders and that commodity closed 15c lower at $11 90 for the January option. January lard was 5c higher at $6 80, but this was off 7½c at $6 72½@6 75.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 120 cars; corn, 220 cars; oats, 215 cars; hogs, 23,000 head.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Lighter Receipts Strengthen Hay—Flour Situation Easier. Chickens Lower.

A better feeling was current in the hay market at the close of the week than at the opening, owing to the congested receipts, the average for the last two or three days having been less than for some time. Nice clean timothy of No. 1 grade, is particularly strong and firm at quotations, while other grades are holding steady, and show no change in quotations. Straw is very strong, and is placed readily upon arrival; an especial shortage being noticed in rye straw, which has sharply advanced within the past week, and supplies are hard to obtain even at the higher figures now ruling. The oat market is quiet, but receipts are not heavy, and quotations are the range of quotations is unchanged. Bar corn continues dull, and very hard to move. An occasional car of new No. 2 yellow ear comes in, one selling on 'change Saturday at 47c. Demand for shelled corn is good, and prices have not changed for a week. Millfeed is quiet, with range of quotations for middlings slightly lower, and sales are holding off in hope of further declines.

Wheat in the Northwest has shown a tendency toward easier conditions, and flour has been weaker in sympathy. Locally there has been much change in the situation, for supplies are not yet in normal quantity, mills not yet having caught up with orders since the cessation of the strike. Jobbers here show no condition to make much change in prices while stocks are so low, but there is an easier feeling, and some shading, which amounts virtually to a cut of 5c a barrel, for spring wheat has been done. Coffee is unchanged, and the market is firm as quoted. News from Brazil continues bullish, and sellers are more nearly in control of the situation than for several years. Planters are taking advantage of the opportunity to make good some of their past losses, and are holding on to a higher range of quotations, their position being favored by the fact that Santos coffee is changing hands, and refiners claim to see no outlook for any more decline in the margin between raw and refined is said to be less than the cost of refining. Locally sugars are unchanged, but the close of the week in the matter of price, but no action changing the list which has stood for a week was taken. Canned goods are steady for near-by lines, corn being very firm and tomatoes weak. Cereals are unchanged, and navy beans are offering at figures quoted during the week. Demand for dried fruits is growing with peaches the leaders. Oils did not change.

Produce has had rather a quiet week, and there has been little to it. Eggs are weak. Potatoes are just about steady at former quotations. Sweet potatoes are holding their own, with demand moderate. Turnips, parsnips, cabbage and other roughage held steady on their own, showing no change from figures which have ruled for some time. Fresh vegetables are gradually disappearing, and such as remain are in poor quality and common ship prices. String beans are coming in from the south, and are bringing $4 00 to $5 00 a bushel. Eggplant arrives occasionally, but is not offering regularly. Tomatoes are still to be found, but they are not fancy, and sell at high prices. Lima beans are still offering, bringing 20c to 25c a quart.

Concord grapes are higher than they were a week ago, and are in rich supply. Apples are plentiful, and the demand is fair, but not yet real active. Cranberries are moving fairly well at unchanged quotations.

Hardly the advance of a half cent last Monday and is slow. Cheese is firm and selling freely. Fresh eggs are scarce and higher than they were a week ago.

Poultry is also coming forward freely, and are lower in price, with demand quiet. Turkeys have commenced to advance, and are likely to rule high from now until after Thanksgiving day, as the supply will be light.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

In all of the fields under development in the lower southwest, nothing occurred during the week to cause a ripple of excitement in any locality. Fewer wells were completed than has been the case for some time, and there was no lethargy on the part of operators. In many districts there is a scarcity of water, and many drilling wells have had to shut down temporarily. In the Fairchance producing territory is very great, and operators are doing all they can to locate the latter and will lose no time in starting development work. It cost to be covered in some of the old districts that promised extensions a few months ago, dry holes have made their appearance and in such numbers as to prove the territory worthless. This is true in part during the week was completed and shot its No. 101 on the big Mills tract. The first 12 hours after it was drilled on a 2-inch orifice, yield it produced 150 barrels. On the Thomas side of the Fallen Timber district in the same county, there is some new work starting in the vicinity of the good well completed recently by N. J. Snyder & Co. on the 8 Snyder farm. This well is still flowing up at 200 barrels a day and makes the territory on the west side look promising.

In Wetzel, Monongalia and Marion counties the usual activity prevails in their search for a new supply. It was thought that while searching for gas they would discover new oil pools, but up to the present nothing of the kind has resulted from their operations.

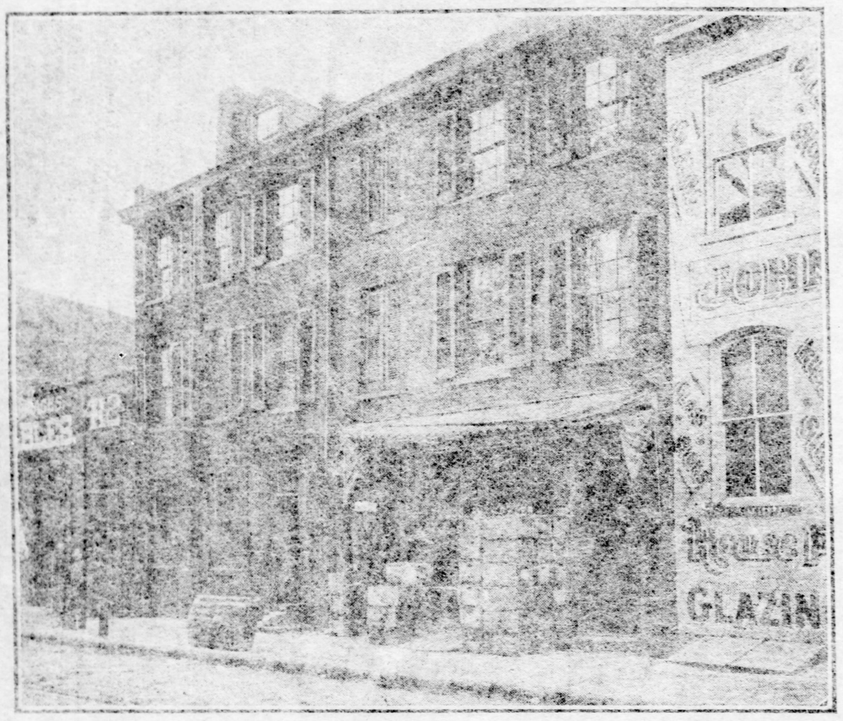
During the summer it was thought the Preserve Gas Company had discovered a fourth sand pool on the Snyder farm, in Doddridge county, on account of the heavy flow of gas it was worth while to look further for an extension.

It appears this would prove the greatest money losing venture of the season. It is the most expensive territory to operate and the production of a dry hole is nearly as heavy. On the west side, in the vicinity of the Lemasters farm, operators have had better success. In that locality the producing formation shows more regularity.

In nearly all of the old districts in West Virginia, new work is starting. In some operations were abandoned several years ago, but operators are now going back over the ground with the old prospect. The most that can be hoped for is small producers and a falling off in the production of the old pumpers. Searching for equal to the old gushers is the attention of operators. For the last few months, or since the discovery of the Accident south of the old Whisky Run pool on Grandy creek, success has not attended this class of work.

Some months ago when the Philadelphia Company drilled in a test on the Thomas farm, located north of the old Big Run pool on Grandy creek, Tyler county, and got a producer, it was thought that an extension had been discovered. The same company started a test on C. E. Pierce's farm, joining the other, and it was drilled through all sands and is a failure. The oil in the Thomas well was developed in the Big Injun sand and with a view to getting a producer in that formation the Hope Natural Gas Company started a test on the Thomas J. Shewalter farm and got a gusher that started at 700 barrels a day. It was thought that a prolific producing extension had been found in the Fallen Timber district connecting up that development with the old field on Rocky run. Since then eight new wells have been drilled through the Big Injun. Six are total failures and the first one completed in the latest completed is located to the northeast of the initial well and shows that the producing territory does not extend in that direction. In nearly all directions from the gusher test wells have been completed, and it does not seem now as if

New Hotel Planned Near Wabash Terminal



Pittsburgh is to have a new hotel. It will be the first of the modern structures to grace what is termed the new "Wabash center." It will occupy the lots at Nos. 405 and 410 Ferry street, directly across from the Wabash passenger station. The owner is J. S. Wilson of the Jeremy Catering company, who has commissioned Architect M. Nirdlinger to prepare plans for a 16-story hotel to cost $150,000. The building will cover a plot 40x63 feet, one half bought by Mr. Wilson six months ago and the remainder he has owned for years. As shown in the accompanying cut the present three-story brick buildings on the lots are dilapidated and would not rent for store purposes.

The hotel will be strictly fire proof and will be faced with terra cotta. The entire first floor will be taken up by the offices and cafe. On the upper floors there will be 180 rooms conveniently arranged in suites and provided with an abundance of bath rooms. None of the usual modern improvements will be omitted in the building of the hotel, and its finishing throughout will be of a high class. Bids will be taken on the building about December 1, and work will be rushed to complete it by June 1, when the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western railroad will be in operation.

GREAT AUTO PATH TO GOLDEN GATE

Millionaire Automobile Enthusiasts Ready to Back the Project.

ASTOR ARGUES IN ITS FAVOR

Says It Should Be as Nearly Straight as Possible,—Have Smooth Surface and Freedom from Excessive Grades. Would Benefit Contiguous Territory.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A number of multi-millionaires, among them Col. John Jacob Astor, are deeply interested in the scheme to build a great national highway across the continent from New York to San Francisco. They will back the scheme both with their influence and their money. Such a highway, suitable for speeding automobiles, would, it is claimed, become a pleasure ground for the wealthy men, not only of this country, but of Europe as well and would keep millions of dollars in this country which now go to Europe.

In addition to this the road would be a mighty factor in building up the country and in bringing a more intimate knowledge of its possibilities for development and its resources. To five classes of men who can utilize this knowledge, in an article to be printed here Col. John Jacob Astor says:

While home as a traveler returning from across the Atlantic, more, perhaps, than anything else, is the woeful inferiority of our roads, compared, we will say, with those in France.

Probably the fact that France was a civilized country with a strong, centralized government many years before railroads were introduced accounts for the magnificent system of highways.

And this brings us to the three requisites for a really good road:

First—Straightness.

Second—Surface, which should be hard and smooth; and

Third—Freedom from grades that are steeper than about six feet in the hundred.

(1) Direction—As soon as it is decided to what point the road is to run, it should be laid out as nearly as possible as the crow flies. It should not deviate from its course to please landowners or avoid towns. It is much better to touch a town at its circumference than to go through it, for the right of way costs less and there is then less restriction of speed.

If the townspeople wish to attract passing business, let the road be built so that a short, connecting spur, it is thus better for all that the great state or national highway continue absolutely straight to its objective point.

None of the roads in the states and in many others were so badly located originally it would be wise economy to abandon them to purely local uses, and make an entirely fresh cut. In the case of the New York-Albany highway, which is destined to be a component part of a national road to Chicago and thence to the Pacific coast, it seems that an easy and natural point of departure would be the northern terminus of the concourse that Greater New York is building to the city line.

From that point, about midway between the Hudson and the sound, a right of way 100 feet wide should be acquired, and so through the Mohawk Valley, without a considerable elevation, to Syracuse and Buffalo, after which there are no natural obstacles to be overcome in reaching Chicago.

Once there and traversing this naturally rich and densely populated region, connections for the extension to San Francisco would become irresistible. After this also we should probably soon have a system of national and state highways almost as complete and on a much larger scale than we find in France.

KAISER ADVISES PRUSSIAN VOTERS

He Is Working Hard to Secure Conservative Majority in the Landtag.

HE FEARS SOCIALIST VICTORY

Press of That Party Resents His Interference and Condemns It as Far as Possible in Country Where Confiscation Threatens Too Liberal Papers.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—All parties are looking forward with great expectations to the elections to the Prussian landtag which are to take place on Thursday next and no person is more intensely interested in the result than the kaiser. Though the constitution says that the king of Prussia stands above all parties and is not supposed to condescend to take any part in politics whatever, it is well known that Emperor William is using all the influence he possesses to bring about the election of a Conservative majority in the landtag. Of course, his efforts are especially directed against the Socialists, in his eyes the arch-enemy of the empire, and though at first he was careful to act only through the bureau of labor, his zeal, as election draws nearer, has made him more reckless and he has on several occasions made his wishes so clear that there is no voter who does not know exactly what the kaiser wishes.

The Socialist press, of course, resents this active interference in politics very much and goes as far in condemning it as it dares without running the risk of confiscation for lese majeste. A prominent Berlin Socialist leader said yesterday:

"There is no doubt that the kaiser often wishes with the old Roman emperor that all Socialist heads were supported by one neck and he be allowed to sever this neck. If his majesty saw any way of doing so he would probably make election speeches all over the country as in President Roosevelt, and I admit that his speeches would be worth listening to, judging from his words to his officers at different occasions, but, luckily our constitution condemns him to an inactivity which is exceedingly galling to his restless and nervous nature. As for the results of Thursday's election there is in my mind little doubt but that the Conservatives will suffer a defeat without precedent. Germany is surely and rapidly becoming Socialistic, and anything the kaiser might do or say will have no effect whatever on the masses of the people."

Drank Another Man's Beer.

John W. Collins of No. 1932 Sidney street went into a saloon in South Twelfth street Saturday night and drank another man's glass of beer. Trouble resulted and Collins was arrested and yesterday fined $10 and costs or 20 days.

White Enamel Iron Beds

One might inquire why so modest a bed should have been chosen the subject of the illustration, instead of one of the multitude of regally magnificent beds comprised in this stock.

The purpose is to show, that while McElveen's have furniture of every description to suit the most modest as well as the most lavish purse, there is not wanting in the lower priced goods that correctness of taste and distinctive elegance characteristic of all McElveen furniture.

This bed is 4 feet 6 inches wide; made of iron, white enameled and brass trimmed.

The price is surprisingly low and the bed is an excellent value. Indeed this is true of the entire stock. Not only does this store afford the greatest variety of selection, but price is always an inducement at

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

The Exigency

MOVING DAY of our Seventh Floor. $20,000 worth of Wholesale Stocks piled on the trucks, arranged in trays, tied up in bundles and gathered in big stacks of boxes near the front elevators awaiting the chance to drop down to the retail floors.

Crates, cases, barrels, boxes, bundles and bales of Christmas things coming up the rear elevator, and spreading out over the floor, tables and shelves.

"More Room!" More Room!! MORE ROOM!!! is the clamor of the working force who are unpacking the Holiday stocks, and the entire Seventh Floor (size 135x50 feet) must be surrendered right away. So we send half of the Wholesale Stocks to the Eighth Floor, and consign other half to retail counters to be sold at peremptory prices.

SALE STARTS AS QUICK AS THE GOODS GET DOWNSTAIRS—Which will be quicker than you can get down town.

Hundreds of smaller lots of wholesale goods not even mentioned here, likewise go into this event under the same condition.

At Wholesale First Cost Price — 400 Pieces Fine Dress Goods

Every duplicate piece of Dress Goods already on our counters, every surplus yard of fabrics now in the height of their season; everything that can possibly be spared without the immediate necessity of going to market for more of the same sort, goes into this notable sale.

Thousands upon thousands of good, dependable Black Taffetas, made by the best mills in America (long fiber silks—not what's known as "silk shoddy") add their quota to the splendid possibilities of this brilliant event.
